Truman, 2 Groups In Congress Seek Complete Story on 'Sabotage' of Nation

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

President Truman, the Senate and the House yesterday launched three separate investigations into "Voice of America" broadcasts to Latin America which infuriated lawmakers described as deliberate, subversive attempts to sabotage the United States.

President Truman told a news conference he is having an inquiry made to determine who is at fault for the broadcasts. The President noted that the State Department, in over-all charge of the "Voice of America," did not make the broadcasts itself. They were entertainment programs farmed out to the National Broadcasting Co. and not reviewed in advance by the State Department.

Committees Join Forces

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the Senate Committee on Executive Expenditures last night joined forces to look into the entire picture. Announcement of the joint inquiry came after the Senate decided a jurisdictional row among three committees by directing the inquiry to the Foreign Relations group.

Meanwhile, a House Executive Expenditures subcommittee headed by Representative J. Edgar Chenoweth (R., Colo.) jumped in first and will start public hearings today.

Chairman Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.) has appointed a subcommittee headed by Senator H. Alexander Smith (R., N. J.) to head the Senate investigation.

A subcommittee of the Expenditures group, headed by Senator Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.), yesterday interviewed William F. Brooks, NBC vice president, and other NBC officials, preparatory to holding hearings early next week.

Smith announced that on his invitation Ferguson had agreed to cooperate with the Foreign Relations group in joint hearings.

Senator George D. Aiken (R., Vt.), chairman of the full Executive Expenditures group, said the broadcasts were obviously a deliberate attempt to belittle the United States and sabotage the Voice of America program. "In wartime," said Aiken, "this would have been plain treason."

To Be Watched in Future

For the State Department, George V. Allen, who recently became an Assistant Secretary in charge of the "Voice," said steps were being taken to see that no such broadcasts are aired again.

"We all make mistakes," Allen added in a letter to Senator Smith (R., N. J.). But he said he thought it was "the clear intent of Congress" that past broadcasts should have been handled as they were—"farmed out" to the National Broadcasting Company without close supervision by the Government.

A spokesman for NBC told The Washington Post last night that it was the State Department which decided to discontinue translations of scripts on a regular basis.

On November 5, Mucio Delgado, chief of the radio branch of the State Department's International Broadcasting Division in New York, informed NBC that Kenneth Fry, former IBD chief, had directed that translation of scripts on a regular basis were no longer necessary.

State Department officials had previously explained that NBC

Key Letter Admitted in Realty Case

Contains Association Proposal for United Front on Commissions

By Howard Dutkin
Post Reporter

A key letter on which the Government bases the lion's share of its antitrust case against the National Association of Real Estate Boards yesterday was admitted as evidence by Associate Justice Edward M. Curran in District Court.

The jurist acted over the objection of defense counsel after Department of Justice Prosecutor Victor H. Kramer submitted a memorandum in support of his plea that it be admitted.

The letter, dictated by Herbert U. Nelson, executive vice president of the association, dated February 27, 1946, and mailed to A. R. Saunders, secretary of the Michigan Association of Real Estate Boards, read in part:

"President Barnard has appointed you a member of our rates and rules committee . . . The task of the committee is to bring increasing order out of the somewhat confused rules of our member boards with reference to fees, commissions and charges for service. This can be done by seeking uniformity in definitions and the basis of charges without in any way seeking to suggest the actual amounts of the charge . . ."

Suggests Concerted Action

"Generally speaking, most boards have charges which are probably too low in relation to present costs of doing business. Often the boards will hesitate to increase their charges, fearing to lose business. If all boards can act together, each individual board will gain confidence and strength from such action . . ."

Kramer argued that the letter was a "wink" to local boards that they should engage in a concerted rate raising move.

Defense counsel insisted the letter was written merely in an effort to clarify a confused situation in the rate field.

Both the national board and the Washington board are charged with conspiracy to fix brokers' fees.

Later, J. Garrett Beitzell, second vice president of the local board, admitted on the witness stand that he had sometimes cut fees.

Under cross-examination by Defense Attorney William E. Leahy, Beitzell testified that he never felt himself bound by the board's

Bates to Push $8000 D. C. Tax Exemption

Proposes Sales Levy Coupled With Upper Bracket Income Taxes

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

Representative George J. Bates (R., Mass.) said last night he will press for drastic revision of the District personal income-tax law as a part of sales tax legislation.

A main idea is to couple the sales tax with a high bracket income tax.

Bates, chairman of the House District Subcommittee in charge of tax legislation for Washington, said he will recommend anew that the personal income tax here be based primarily on residence in the District.

The tax would apply to all persons domiciled in the District and to persons who maintain a place of abode in the District for seven months or more in the taxable year.

The plan also calls for wiping out the feature of present District income-tax law that exempts the official salaries of Federal employes who have a legal domicile in one of the States.

Bates emphasized that the new plan calls for giving tax payers here full credits for income taxes paid elsewhere.

Clark Rules Reds Aim at Overthrow Of Government

By Carl Levin

Attorney General Tom Clark, bridging a gap in the Federal employe loyalty check, ruled yesterday that the Communist Party advocates the overthrow of this Nation's constitutional form of government. Therefore, he held, its members are barred by the Hatch Act from Federal employment.

Clark's ruling, which goes further than any previous administrative determination on the point, was contained in a letter to Seth W. Richardson, chairman of the Loyalty Review Board. Richardson had asked for a legal opinion since there had never been a ruling as to whether the Communist Party fell within the scope of the section of the Hatch Act which makes it unlawful for any Federal employe to be a member of "any political party or organization which advocates the overthrow of our constitutional form of government in the United States."

Senate Asks MacArthur To Testify

General Wires Reply But Content Of Message Is Not Disclosed

Tokyo, Friday May 28 (AP).—General MacArthur has sent his reply to a Senate committee's invitation to return to the United States but its contents will not be disclosed here. His public information officer said:

"General MacArthur has just dispatched his reply to Senator Bridges (who cabled the invitation) and to (Army) Secretary Royall. No release thereof will be made here until word of its release in Washington has been received."

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, commander of American forces in the Far East and a contender for the Republican Presidential nomination, yesterday was requested by a Senate committee to return to the United States.

Army Secretary Royall later suggested June 2 or 3 for the general's return in a cable to MacArthur. Royall's cable told of arrangements to meet him in San Francisco and of accommodations in Washington.

The request, channeled through the War Department by a 17-to-2 vote of the Senate Appropriations Committee, invited the general to testify on conditions in Japan, Korea and China.

The invitation would return the World War II Pacific commander to the United States on the eve of the Republican convention.

Saltonstall Objects

If the general accepts, the resulting "triumphal entry" of the only World War II ranking general not yet welcomed home may touch off a fanfare of celebrations. Conceivably, it could play hob with the already tight Republican Presidential candidate race.

Acting Senate Majority Leader Kenneth S. Wherry (R., Nebr.), who sponsored the motion for the general's return, said he wasn't interested in the political side of it—that he wasn't even a MacArthur for President man. He said a billion dollars in appropriations is at stake in the Far East, and MacArthur should testify "as the responsible man."

But the political question was nonetheless aired before the vote by Senator Leverett Saltonstall (R., Mass.), one of the two Senators voting "No." Saltonstall said he wanted "to keep the ECA (Economic Cooperation Administration) out of politics."

"I cannot help but feel that bringing General MacArthur back here to testify at this time may have political implications," Saltonstall told reporters.

Truman's Indorsement

Saltonstall added that he had received "many telegrams from people interested in the MacArthur campaign urging me to vote for his return."

President Truman told a news conference a few hours later he would be very happy to have General MacArthur return home to tell

Britain Urges Peaceful Effort To Settle Palestine Conflict; Soviet Seeks Forceful Action

Hotly Contested Battle Raging Along Jerusalem Road to Tel Aviv

Cairo, May 27 (AP).—The most hotly contested battle of the Palestine war was reported being fought along the Jerusalem road to Tel Aviv.

Inside the Old City of Jerusalem, dispatches from the city said, Arab legion infantry at last fought its way inside the great domed Hurva Synagogue, defended for 11 days by a band of desperate Irgunists, and raised the Arab flag. The dispatches said the Jews were scattered into a 200-square-yard area of rubble as the Legion moved in under a cover of armored cars shortly after noon.

The victorious Arab entry into the battered synagogue punctuated a visit by King Abdullah of Transjordan who was hailed by his followers as the "King of Jerusalem."

Another Synagogue Destroyed

[The United Press said another synagogue, in the Tifsit Israel quarter, was destroyed when Jews fired at advancing Arabs.]

The Voice of Jerusalem, a Haganah station in the besieged city, said thousands of soldiers on both sides had been thrown into combat in a wide area around Latrun, former British internment camp for Jews, and Bab El Wad, a gorge 15 miles west of Jerusalem.

Jewish censorship blacked out all news of the combat from Tel Aviv, but Jerusalem dispatches 24 hours old said the center of the battle for Jerusalem was shifting to the strategic highway. Arab Legion forces from Jerusalem were being rushed to the area, it was reported.

Arab political sources in Cairo indicated the Egyptian army was taking up the main operations against Jerusalem itself. They said the Egyptian army, aided by Arab legionnaires and irregulars, attacked the city from the south this morning.

Jews Counterattack

A Tel Aviv communique tonight, however, indicated the Jews launched sharp counterattacks, possibly to take the steam out of the Egyptian offensive. The communique said the Arabs had been driven out of Mar Elias monastery on the Bethlehem road and that Ramat Rahel again was in Jewish hands.

The Jews said one of their raiding parties had invaded the Sheikh Jarrah quarter in northern Jerusalem and blown up the building of the Moslem Council.

Earlier advices indicated the battle on the Jerusalem-Tel Aviv road was set off by determined Jewish efforts to open the highway for convoys bringing food and supplies to Jerusalem's 100,000 Jews and its defenders.

Arab communiques last night declared 3000 Jews were thrown into a single battle over a convoy. They said the convoy was wiped out and 800 Jews killed.

A Tel Aviv communique said Jewish planes bombed Biddu, north of the road where Arab artillery was active.

The Jews said they launched a series of surprise raids in the south against the Egyptians, perhaps seeking to duplicate successes

Question Being Considered

Lifting of Palestine Arms Ban Up to U. N., Declares Truman

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

Whether the arms embargo to Palestine is lifted is up to the United Nations, President Truman said yesterday, adding that the U. N. is considering the matter.

In answer to a question at his news conference, Mr. Truman explained that the embargo was established by the United States at request of the U. N. Security Council.

Asked about a possible 90 million to 100 million dollar loan to the Jewish State of Israel, the President said if such a loan were requested it would be handled through the usual channels. He explained that he knew of no application for such a loan.

Mr. Truman said, however, that Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of Israel, told him the new country would like to make a loan here. He added that he did not know for what purpose such a loan would be made and that he had not discussed details with Weizmann.

Pressed by a reporter to say if Weizmann had suggested such a loan, Mr. Truman said he hadn't suggested it. He said Weizmann told him Israel would like to have a loan, just like every other country would like to have a loan, and challenged his questioner to name a country that would not like one.

When reporters insisted on such details as what the loan would be used for and where it would come from, Mr. Truman repeated that he had not discussed details with Weizmann. He said the Jewish leader had told him he wanted a loan, period.

The President said that he did not know whether U. N. had asked the British to establish an embargo on arms to Palestine and that he did not think the cases of Britain and this country were parallel. The United States, he pointed out, was much better prepared to ship arms abroad than was any other country.

Mr. Truman would not say whether the United States would initiate action in the U. N. Security Council to lift the embargo. He advised his questioners to wait and see what the United States representative did and added that such action would have his backing.

Observers here who had been concerned over the apparent rift between the United States and Britain over Palestine felt that Mr. Truman's disclaimer of actual loan negotiations with Israel would tend to ease tensions resulting from earlier United States moves. It had been reported here that British

Security Council Tense as U. S. Acknowledges Its Attempts a Failure

Lake Success, May 27 (AP).—Britain urged tonight that the United Nations try finally to pacify Palestine during a proposed four-weeks armistice. Russia demanded instead an immediate and forceful U. N. crack-down to end the war.

These two proposals burst upon a tense Security Council just after the United States acknowledged failure and asked other members to try to solve the problem.

The British declared that if the plan for peaceful mediation did not work this time they would join a world-wide embargo of arms if the Security Council decided on that course.

Jews Denounce Britain

A spokesman for the new Jewish state of Israel promptly denounced the British proposal, saying it was a maneuver to help the Arabs.

He said the "alliance between the British government and the Arab aggressors is complete now both in the political and the military sphere."

The Russians beat the British to the draw. This meant their resolution for the strongest possible action to force an end to the fighting normally would come up for a vote first.

The Americans reserved comment, sending the Russian and British resolutions to Washington immediately for consideration in the highest quarters there.

An Arab spokesman said the British plan showed an "ethical approach." The Arab delegates reserved comment on it but called an immediate conference.

Three Points Made

Cadogan said he was instructed by his government to make these three points:

1. Britain is making immediate arrangements to insure that 21 British officers will not serve with the Arab Legion from the British Army. Other Legion officers of British nationality, Cadogan said, are not subject to British instructions.

2. The next instalment of the $8,000,000 annual subsidy from Britain to Trans-Jordan is due July 12. The British will reconsider that payment in the light of any U. N. decision.

3. If the Security Council decides upon a general embargo which would prevent the supply of arms to Arabs and Jews alike, Britain would suspend deliveries which they are making to Egypt, Iraq and Trans-Jordan under existing contracts.

It was noted that one section of the British resolution called upon both parties and all governments to refrain from importing war material into Palestine during the proposed cease-fire.

A British spokesman said this meant that if the council approved that section, Britain would stop arms deliveries during the cease-fire.

The council adjourned at 5:47 p. m. (EST) until 9:30 a. m. tomorrow without any action on either the Russian or British plans.

Sir Alexander Cadogan gave the Council a resolution apparently drafted by Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin in London after conferences there with the United States Ambassador.

In a long policy statement to the council, Cadogan said if this attempt at peaceful solution failed, Britain would be ready to go along with the other nations on strong enforcement measures.

Concession to Arabs

In the resolution, Cadogan called on both Jews and Arabs to order a cessation of all acts of armed force for a period of four weeks.

In the draft apparently designed to meet Arab objections to an unconditional cease-fire, he also demanded that both sides stop introducing fighting men and materials into Palestine during that four-weeks' period.

The Arabs rejected yesterday a Security Council order to cease fire within 36 hours. A major point in their rejection was that they could not agree to any cease-fire without conditions. They demanded that no more arms be sent Haganah, the Jewish army, and that Jewish immigration into Palestine be stopped.

Senate Votes To Double U. S. DP Quotas

Bill as Amended Would Admit 200,000 During Next 2 Years

By The Associated Press

The Senate voted yesterday in favor of raising to 200,000 the number of European displaced persons that could be admitted to this country during the next two years.

It adopted, 40 to 33, an amendment doubling the 100,000 limit set by the Judiciary Committee bill. The vote cleared away a major hurdle blocking final passage of the legislation, but there was no indication when the final vote would come.

On the House side, the Judiciary Committee has approved the Fellows bill to admit 200,000 displaced persons and it has been tentatively approved by the Republican Steering Committee, but has not yet been brought up on the floor.

The bipartisan amendment raising the admission ceiling was sponsored by Senators Ferguson (R., Mich.), Smith (R., N. J.), Cooper (R., Ky.) McGrath (D., R. I.), Saltonstall (R., Mass.) and Morse (R., Oreg.).

During the debate, Senator Tydings (D., Md.) urged that an international conference be held soon to consider the displaced persons problem. He suggested an amendment to the pending measure directing the President and State Department to initiate such a conference. Smith and Ferguson both indorsed the idea.

The Senate also adopted an amendment offered by Senator Revercomb (R., W. Va.), floor leader for the measure. It provides that the wife of an agricultural worker, and his unmarried dependent children under 21, he considered agricultural workers.

The bill itself says at least half of the DPs admitted must be farm workers.

Senator McGrath (D., R. I.), chairman of the Democratic National Committee, said much of the opposition to the DP bill results from "prejudice," "whisperings" and "unfair and unwarranted attacks."

Europe Arms Aid Seen From Senate Report

Vandenberg Group Unanimously Favors Marshall Plan Twin

By Ferdinand Kuhn, Jr.
Post Reporter

American military help to a western European union was clearly foreshadowed yesterday in a unanimous report by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

"The committee believes that the association of the United States with such regional or other collective arrangements as affect its national security will help protect this country and help prevent war," the report said.

"The great power and influence of the United States must be thrown into the scales on the side of peace."

The report explained and expanded upon a six-point resolution, already adopted by the committee, for strengthening the United Nations and buttressing security within the present Charter.

If the Senate adopts the resolution next week—as Chairman Arthur H. Vandenberg hopes it will—its action will be a counterpart in the military field to Secretary Marshall's Harvard speech last June in the economic field.

It will be an invitation to western Europe, this time from Congress itself, to work out its own program for self-defense, to pool its military resources and its military planning, and then to come to the United States for whatever supplementary help may be needed.

This was precisely the pattern followed in the European recovery program, except that the original invitation came from the Secretary of State and not from Congress.

The Senate committee yesterday laid down three conditions for American military help and "association" with, for example, the new five-power western European union.

The first was that the link be established "by constitutional process." The report explained that "if any programs of material assistance are formulated, they will

Volcano Power Plant Addition Already Launched Under ERP

Work has already begun on tapping Italy's volcanic power to produce electricity for the European Recovery Program, the State Department said yesterday.

It was not clear, at this time, whether any of the cost eventually will be borne by American taxpayers.

Dallas Dort of the State Department gave the Senate Appropriations Committee a statement that "the 75,000-kilowatt expansion (of an existing volcanic power plant) as part of the international program is already under construction."

Dort is a special assistant to the Assistant Secretary of State for Economic Affairs.

Producing electricity by volcanic steam is not new, the statement says, and has been done in Italy for years.

Some committee members were skeptical of the reported project when it was disclosed several days ago.

The volcanic power program was first recommended in a report by the Committee for European Economic Cooperation. The committee, made up of representatives of 16 western European nations, was organized last year to study the needs of their countries which are now cooperating in the Marshall Plan.

The project has not thus far been approved by the Economic Cooperation Administration.

Should it be approved, presumably at least part of the cost would be charged against the United States financed reconstruction program.

The State Department's statement said the proposed geothermic plant would be located at Larderello, about half-awy between Rome and Genoa. Its estimated cost is six million dollars.

"The Larderello project is not a new one," the Department said. "But is rather an expansion of ex-

Honored for Achievement

Washington Post and Pearson Win Public Relations Awards

The American Public Relations Association presented awards for achievement in public relations last night to columnist Drew Pearson and 27 organizations, including The Washington Post and International House of New Orleans.

Announcement of the trophy and certificate awards climaxed the association's four-day annual meeting at American University.

The certificate award to The Washington Post was for its recent Marshall Plan supplement, which won honors from the National Headliners' Club in March. Philip L. Graham, president and publisher, accepted last night's award from APRA'S outgoing president, Harry W. McHose.

Pearson, the only individual honored, received a special trophy for contributing to international relations with his Friendship Train which gathered food across the Nation for Europe.

Another special trophy for similar achievement went to International House, New Orleans, a nonprofit organization devoted to promoting world trade and better international relations throughout the Mississippi Valley.

The trophy award for outstanding work in the newspaper and magazine class went to the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co. Recipients of certificates in this field, besides The Washington Post, were: American Hotel Association, New York; Walker-Scott Corp. House Votes Without Dissent, Sends Lane $500,000 Aid Bill

Annapolis, Md., May 27 (Spl.).—The House of Delegates, without a dissenting vote, sent to Governor Lane tonight his bill to appropriate $500,000 additional for welfare, thus ending without a final shot one of the special General Assembly session's most bitter battles.

The House also adopted, 75-39, a resolution to investigate the Tidewater Fisheries Commission.

The Senate at the same time approved an administration resolution to investigate all phases of public welfare in Maryland.

After receiving the congratulations and well wishes of the Governor for the work done, the Senate adjourned sine die at 11:31 p. m. (EDT) and the House adjourned four minutes later at 11:35 p. m.

Earlier, Governor Lane had won quick advantage after a revolt in the Senate Finance Committee, which recommended more than double the amount of money Lane said he'd allot for public welfare.

The recommendation was voted down in the Senate, 19-9, with the Senate passing Lane's original relief fund bill.

Three Democrats joined five Republicans in the Senate Finance Committee to vote an amendment to the welfare bill to allow $1,325,370.50, instead of $500,000, in extra funds for State welfare work.

Spearheading opposition to the committee change was Senator Sothoron (D., Prince Georges), ma-

Smuts' Departure From Prime Ministry For Second Time Unlikely to End Career

For the second time during a long career which has mirrored the history of the Union of South Africa, Field Marshal Jan Christian Smuts must step aside as Prime Minister of his country.

But even though he is now 78, it seems probable that the departure of the fabulous Smuts from South Africa's political scene will be merely an interlude.

In his lifetime, Smuts has gained more respect and attracted more hatred than any man in South Africa. This, largely, is because he has been a stern disciple of duty and has not hesitated to ride roughshod over any obstacles in the way of his responsibilities.

Smuts, who still is a slim, soldierly figure with a trimmed gray goatee and eyes that are cold, blue and steely, has often been criticized by his political opponents for his heavy-handed methods.

When he sent troops to put down the Rand mines strike of 1922, a political foe remarked that "the Prime Minister's footsteps drip with blood."

Yet there is another story concerning Smuts and a strike which should also be told. During World War I, when Smuts became one of the British Empire's most important figures, the Welsh miners went on strike.

At the request of Prime Minister Lloyd George, Smuts went to Wales to make a personal plea to the miners to return to work.

Thousands of idle miners and their families were waiting for him. Smuts, recalling that Lloyd George had said the Welsh were wonderful singers, asked them to sing.

One voice in the ranks struck up "Land of Our Fathers," the Welsh national anthem. Soon the entire assemblage was singing. When the song had ended, Smuts stepped forward.

"What is there for me to say?" he asked. 'The front line trenches today are not in France—they are here in the coal mines of Wales. Here it is that the war is to be won or lost. Is this to continue the 'Land of Your Fathers,' or is it perhaps to be something alien? It is you and you alone who can preserve this land of your fathers for your sons and grandsons for all time."

Smuts then returned to London. Upon his arrival there he was informed the miners had returned to work.

Smuts was not always so pro-British. Although he was born a British subject on a farm in the Cape of Good Hope he gave up his British nationality to become a second-class burgher in Paul Kruger's Transvaal.

He fought boldly and brilliantly against the British during the Boer War (1899-1902). Also fighting the British in that war were Louis Botha and J. B. M. Hertzog, each of whom was destined to become Prime Minister of the future Union of South Africa and with whose careers that of Smuts was to be entwined.

Smuts was Botha's right-hand man in war and peace, and Hertzog became his most bitter political opponent.

Botha became the first Prime Minister of South Africa in 1907, and Smuts was named Colonial Secretary and Minister of Education. When World War I erupted in 1914, Smuts was South Africa's Minister of Defense. He organized the campaign which resulted in the defeat of Germany's Southwest African colony.

In 1916, Smuts became a lieutenant general in the British army and commanded the combined British and South African forces which defeated German East Africa. In 1917 he was called to London to join the Imperial War Cabinet and soon became known as "the Empire's handyman."

which front line dispatches said had wiped out all Arab gains on the north and on the east below the Sea of Galilee.

Dispatches from inside the old city of Jerusalem said the Arab Legion, unaccustomed to street fighting, had suffered considerable casualties in its effort to take the old city.

The occupation of the old synagogue, however, was believed to herald the beginning of the end in the old city.

Firing dwindled considerably afterward, although the Legionaires continued to press in on the defenders in the nearby area of rubble and to blow up obstacles.

When the synagogue fell 300 women, children and noncombatants were believed in the ancient underground tunnels and chambers.

While the battle went on King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan, wearing white silk headdress and smart khaki battle dress, visited Jerusalem's old city. He prayed at the Holy Sepulchre, Calvary and the Mosque of Omar—Christian and Moslem shrines—for blessings on the Arab cause and defeat of the "invaders."

Repeating tactics which had succeeded in the eastern front below the Sea of Galilee and on the northern frontiers, the Jews declared in a communique they had lashed out at the Egyptians on the southern front last night and "completely destroyed" an advanced Egyptian position at Beit Hanun, 5 miles north of Gaza.

Associated Press correspondents who toured the battlefronts on the north and east with Jewish forces said the Arabs had been swept almost virtually clear of northern Galilee by a Jewish operation called "the broom."

This had been largely accomplished by a series of five raids deep behind Arab lines which destroyed Syrian bases and blew up communication routes.

Trained boys and girls in Palmach, the Jewish equivalent of the Commandos, have driven the Syrians back until they occupy a strip of Jewish territory but 2 miles long and a few hundred yards wide south of the Sea of Galilee, said James M. Long, who visited that front.

Egyptians Identify Four Zionist Fliers

Cairo, May 27 (AP).—Four Zionist fliers who were forced down in Palestine yesterday turned out to be two Americans, one Englishman and one Dutch national, an Egyptian defense ministry communique said tonight. All were Jews.

The communique gave their names as: Lewis Grubb and Gayan Robert Danselm, Americans; Hubert Kirkness, British, and Vigin Berg, Dutch. They were forced down near the Deir Haym settlement.

U. S. Renewing Protest On Seizure of Americans

The United States is making a second protest to the government of Lebanon over the seizure of 41 American citizens from the SS Marine Carp last week.

The Lebanese, lined up with the Arab forces fighting in Palestine, contended that the 41 were part of a larger group of Jewish young men en route to fight for the new state of Israel.

Yesterday Press Officer Michael McDermott told reporters that American Minister Lowell Pinkerton at Beirut had been instructed to lodge "a second protest on the matter, but I cannot go into details immediately since I do not know whether the protest has been delivered yet."

The first protest was made immediately after the Americans were removed from the Marine Carp when the ship stopped at Beirut on its way to Palestine.

The seized men are being held at Baalbek Camp, 40 miles east of Beirut.

Smuts Loses in South Africa, Cabinet Expected to Resign

Johannesburg, Union of South Africa (Friday), May 28 (AP).—Prime Minister Jan Christiaan Smuts was defeated for reelection to the South African Parliament and called a meeting of his cabinet for later today. Political circles expected his government would resign.

Latest returns from Tuesday's parliamentary election indicated that when the 11 seats still unaccounted for are decided, Smuts' political opponents, the Nationalist Party, and its affiliate, the Afrikaners, would have a five-vote majority over the government United Party and any coalition it might effect.

The midnight returns showed that the United Party had won 65 seats, the Nationalists 57, the Afrikaners seven, the pro-government Labor Party six and three for native candidates favorable to the government.

An hour later returns from four more districts showed that Dr. Daniel F. Malan's Nationalists made another gain which would assure them, political circles said, of a certain majority of five seats over Smuts' adherents. The 11 Districts still to be heard from are rural and strongly Nationalist.

The Nationalist press described the developments as a "revolution."

Smuts was defeated for reelection from his constituency of Standerton.

(Union of South America sources in Washington said that should the Union Party retain its power, Smuts could remain in office as Prime Minister for 90 days even though he was defeated for Parliament.

At the end of that time, these sources said, Smuts could ask one member of his party to resign his seat in the lower house and Smuts stand for office in a by-election. There are several districts these sources said, where the Union Party is strong and Smuts' election would be assured.

U. N. Studying Arms Embargo

Foreign Minister Bevin had described himself as disconcerted by Dr. Weizmann's recent announcement that Israel had been promised a United States loan on the heels of this country's unilateral recognition of the de facto Jewish State.

Led by reporters over a considerable range of subjects, Mr. Truman said:

1. He had received no communication from Soviet Premier Stalin since the Big Three conference at Potsdam in 1945.

2. He had approved the Navy's projected 65,000-ton aircraft carrier when he signed the 1949 budget message which contained a request for funds to build the vessel.

3. The need for housing legislation still was urgent, but he had no further comment on the matter since he already had commented four times in messages to Congress.

4. A report in a West Coast labor publication that he was making it easy for Labor Secretary Schwellenbach to resign by urging him to remain in a hospital was just a lie out of whole cloth.

Asked about results of a loyalty investigation among employes of the Atomic Energy Commission, especially at the Oak Ridge, Tenn., laboratories, Mr. Truman said he had no information. An early investigation was made, he added, and no disloyalty was found.

Communists Hid After Probe Report

New York, May 27 (AP).—Communists went underground briefly last November when the party was erroneously informed it would be outlawed and mass raids would occur, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said today.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation head, writing in the current issue of Red Book magazine, said "pandemonium reigned" in party circles for 30 days.

"Party records were either destroyed or removed and hidden," he said. "Party leaders went into hiding. Huge stocks of printing supplies were quickly assembled and hidden. . . . Secret printing plants were set up so that propaganda work could continue."

Hokum Held Revealing

Hoover commented that "this cloak-and-dagger hokum of the Communists and their stooges is quite revealing.

"It indicates the state of the comrades' nerves and the quality of their intellect."

Hoover did not elaborate on what caused the party to believe that mass raids and other anti-Communist steps were in the offing.

He said "Communism's greatest appeal is to some of the foreign-born and their offspring, although their propaganda does not flourish among the great majority of foreign-born who come to America . . ."

FBI Review Cited

In proof, he cited a recent FBI review of the origins of 5395 leading members of the Communist Party. Of these, 91.4 per cent, or 4555, were either of foreign birth, married to persons of foreign birth or born of foreign parents. Only 411 were Negroes, and of the remaining 4985 more than 50 per cent traced their origins to Russia or her satellite countries.

Hoover urged Americans not to be duped by Communists and to learn all they can about the party and its ways.

Three 'Voice' Probes Begun

was "very reluctant" to furnish such translations.

In accordance with these instructions, NBC discharged six translators with two weeks' notice from November 7, it was disclosed.

NBC also said it had no record of any State Department protest, verbal or written, about the "Know North America" series.

State Department officials had pointed out that although persons working in the "Voice" program for the State Department were subject to loyalty checks those in private industry were not.

NBC officials countered with the statement that they submitted all names of personnel, complete with fingerprints, to the FBI, the New York City Radical and Alien Bureau and other official agencies.

This was conceded to be a fact by officials here, but, they said, such a procedure brings only a report as to whether or not there is any derogatory information existing, and does not actually mean a complete loyalty check.

The broadcasts which brought Congressional wrath to the boiling point were prepared and beamed to Latin-America by NBC last winter under the title "Know North America." Senator Capehart (R., Ind.) touched off the uproar by reading the Senate some of the scripts yesterday.

One said "New England was founded by hypocricy and Texas by sin." Another said "the Mormon dynasty . . . controls all the business" in Utah. Still another described Alabama as the "darkest" of States and declared: "In no other part of the United States have the colored people suffered and struggled as much . . ."

Outraged Senators debated for several hours yesterday which of several eagerly bidding committees should get the chance to investigate.

Chairman Vandenberg (R., Mich.) Allen said in his letter that the 'Know North America" scripts "are as disappointing to me as they must be to the National Broadcasting Company."

He said his agency is negotiating new contracts which will "provide adequate machinery for supervision by departmenta' personnel of all programs prior to their being broadcast."

Allen himself raised the question why this wasn't done before.

He said Congress had made it clear that 'private broadcasters could do the job more effectively than the State Department."

Allen said NBC employes engaged in shortwave broadcasts for the Government are cleared by the FBI, just as State Department employes are.

He added: "It is clear from experience that if the department is to be held responsible for the content of this type of program, the department must have the authority and the machinery for supervision.

"I believe the present debate has been salutary and I welcome any investigation of the operation so that all concerned will have a clearer understanding of the intent of Congress."

Investigators found at the outset that there are going to be a lot of knots to untie before the "responsibility" for the broadcasts can be pinned down.

NBC said the script writer, Rene Borgia, has been fired. The network said Borgia's supervisor, Alberto Gandero, was transferred to other duties and later resigned.

Borgia, 51-year-old Venezuela-born writer, disclaimed all responsibility. He said in New York that Gandero told him exactly what to put in the broadcasts scripts. "I didn't even sign them because I didn't believe what was in them," Borgia said in a telephone interview. He added, however, that the scripts sounded worse than they were when parts were quoted out of context.

Gandero's wife, also in New York, said her husband now is doing radio work in Cuba. He said he lost his job owing to the controversy over the Voice of America broadcasts, but she insisted it was not his fault.

Another controversy developed over who had been paying Borgia.

The State Department said Borgia was an NBC employe from 1942 to September, 1947, and was never employed regularly by the State Department. An NBC spokesman said, however, that Borgia was on the State Department payroll, assigned to NBC, during that period and that he became an NBC employe last September.

In the House, Representative Jackson (R., Calif.) said the broadcasts were "unfortunate" but they were not, he asserted, "the act of any Government department."

Like Allen, he recalled that Congress, in setting up the Voice of America, required many of its functions to be carried on by private firms.

Capehart said earlier that the Voice broadcasts some 300,000 words a day. Vandenberg commented to reporters: "It might be much better to send out far fewer words and have strict supervision over what is sent."

In a statement typical of those made by outraged lawmakers, Senator Martin (R., Pa.) said Congress must "establish responsibility for the vicious, slanderous, un-American broadcasts."

Martin took particular exception to one script saying Pennsylvania's Quakers are a "social problem."

"I am ashamed that an agency of our Government has sunk so low as to make these fine Americans the subject of a coarse, ridiculous and insulting broadcast," he said.

Allen, in his letter to Senator Smith, noted that the State Department either prepared itself, or closely supervised news and editorial broadcasts sent abroad. "Features and entertainment," he said, are left almost entirely to private agencies.

The "Know North America" broadcasts, said Allen, "were broadcast once a week and constituted an infinitesimal portion of the weekly total of 231 hours of programs in all languages carried under the total Voice of America program."

Red Envoy to Ask New Instructions

Soviet Ambassador Alexander S. Panyushkin said yesterday he plans to return to Moscow shortly to get new instructions on how to wind up Russia's $11,296,000,000 lend-lease account with the United States.

Russia and the United States have been talking over lend-lease matters since last May. There is no sign a final settlement is near.

Panyushkin told reporters at the State Department of his intended trip to Moscow. He had just had a 20-minute talk with Undersecretary of State Lovett.

Asked about prospects for a settlement, Panyushkin said:

"We are doing all we can. I think they (the negotiations) must be concluded."

Says He Wasn't Responsible

New York, May 27 (AP).—Rene Borgia, Venezuelan-born writer, had a two-sided defense today for the radio scripts which cost him his NBC job and fired the indignation of the United States Senate.

First, he said the derogatory references to this country in the Voice of America scripts were lifted from context without the balancing praise which answered the criticism.

Second, he disclaimed all responsibility for the scripts in the form in which they appeared. He said he protested about them from the beginning because he thought they would lead to misunderstanding.

In Havana, Cuba, a defense also was advanced by Alberto Gandero, Borgia's immediate superior at the National Broadcasting Co.

Gandero, who was relieved of his supervisory post at NBC and then resigned, said "These broadcasts were a real service to the country," adding:

"It appears obvious that isolated sentences were taken from them which do not reflect the true spirit of the broadcasts."

The row over the broadcasts first developed in March when Borgia was fired by NBC. It came to light yesterday on the Senate floor with several Senators sputtering indignantly over the way their States were mentioned.

But the 51-year-old Borgia, broadshouldered and graying, said in an interview he had traveled in most of those States and liked them all.

For instance, he said, "I love Texas. My program was full of good propaganda for Texas. I think Texas is magnificent."

Borgia said John Gunther's "Inside U. S. A." a recent best seller, and a series of WPA State guide books were the source of much of the material for his scripts.

The controversial broadcasts were made on a "Know North America" series beamed to Latin America last January and February.

Borgia said he did not write all of the scripts but did prepare five or six of them. He described the format of the show this way:

Two boys from Latin America were represented as touring the United States, accompanied by a guide. The boys asked questions, many of them based on criticisms of this country which they had heard at home. The guide replied, setting them straight.

"For instance," Borgia said, "in Alabama, the boys might say, 'We hear the Negroes here all are mistreated.' The guide would tell them this is not true and point to the things that were being done for Negroes in the State."

Most of the quotations which aroused Senate wrath, the writer said, were lifted from the questions asked by the boys.

[In a letter from Borgia to an unidentified Mr. Brown, introduced into the record by Senator Capehart yesterday, the radio writer said: "I am out of work. Up to then (the time of his dismissal) I was the best Spanish radio writer in New York. Now I am nothing. NBC took me, raped and threw me out."—Editor's note.]

Davis Appeals to Marshall

New York, May 27 (AP).—Meyer Davis, orchestra leader, today appealed to Secretary of State Marshall to postpone any final action by the Government on the renunciation of American citizenship by his son, Garry Davis.

Garry, Broadway actor and World War II veteran, announced in Paris yesterday that he had renounced his citizenship to become a citizen of the world to work for world peace. He said he planned to go to Germany to work on rebuilding that country because, "after all, I'm responsible for some of the damage there."

The father sent a cable asking Garry to reconsider. He told the son "American citizenship is the most valuable thing you have."

Today Garry replied, telling his father that his action was "not a gesture or publicity stunt" and was taken only after a great deal of thought.

"I love the United States," his message to his father said. "I don't want to see it destroyed. The years I spend away from it will be my act of loyalty to what it has been to me and to what it can be to all men, if the democratic principles on which it was founded are extended to include the whole world. I will live for that day."

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Sen. Wiley Asks Rep. Isacson if He's Communist Party Member—Gets Angry 'No' in Reply

By the United Press

The blunt question, "Are you a Communist?" was fired at Representative Leo Isacson (AL, N. Y.) yesterday by Senator Alexander Wiley (R., Wis.) and Isacson shouted back an angry "No."

The hot-tempered exchange took place before the Senate Judiciary Committee as it opened hearings on the House-approved Mundt-Nixon bill to control United States Communists and "front" outfits.

The Wiley-Isacson clash occurred as the Senate committee heard strong support of the Mundt-Nixon bill from nearly a dozen witnesses, including former Commander Paul Griffith of the American Legion, and Attorney Donald Richberg, former NRA chief.

Griffith said he has proof that American Communists are raising a $500,000 slush fund to fight the bill, and that "every fellow traveler, stooge and deluded dupe" of the Communists has joined in an outcry against the measure. He said they are using "the old radical scare tactic of using the Constitution and the Bill of Rights as a shield."

Richberg warned against trying ot legislate "thought control" but voiced belief that the House bill is constitutional and that it "provides for the protection of innocent persons."

PAUL GRIFFITH
Before Senate Committee

Isacson, who was elected to Congress last February with the support of third party presidential candidate, Henry A. Wallace, denounced the bill as "an attempt to stifle the third party."

Wiley, committee chairman, interrupted Isacson's tirade and demanded to know if the New York Congressman is a Communist.

"I believe in the American form of Government," Isacson replied. "And it is because I believe in and love that Government that I am here opposing this bill."

"You are not answering my question," the Wisconsin Republican shouted. "Do you want the Communists to take over this country?"

"No! I am not a Communist, sir," Isacson shouted back.

Isacson added that "the very fact" that Wiley asked such a question "is an indication of what this bill proposes to do."

He went on to say that the measure was an attempt to make public thought in America conform with the beliefs of the administration in power.

House Reverses Self

The House voted tentatively to make it a felony for anyone to strike against the Government, and then quickly recalled the action.

It wrote in to the Interior Department appropriations bill the strike penalty provision, intending at the time to limit it only to persons whose pay comes from Interior funds.

At the insistence of Representative Marcantonio (ALP., N. Y.) it reversed the action a few minutes later. It was clear that many members misunderstood and that the original provision went further than they intended.

Wiley derided charges that the bill was aimed at Wallace's party. He pointed out that Wallace himself is scheduled to testify before the committee Saturday.

Isacson and Representative Vito Marcantonio of New York, the only American Labor Party members in Congress, led the House fight against the bill.

Czech Reds Seek Peace With Church

By Seymour Freidin

Prague, May 27 (NYHT).—The Communist-controlled Czechoslovak government sought today to reconcile differences with the Roman Catholic Church.

In an interview carried by the Communist Party newspaper, Rudo Pravo, Minister of Justice Alexj Cepicka asserted that the government's attitude toward religion is "positive on principle." The newspaper also carried testimonials from twelve priests urging support for the single-list ballot in Sunday's elections.

Cepicka's remarks, while intended to cover all churches, were aimed principally at the Catholic Church in view of the recent letter from the Archbishop of Prague, Monseigneur Joseph Beran, forbidding priests to participate as candidates in the voting on Sunday.

Cepicka, who also is secretary general of the Central Action Committee of the National Front, recalled seven conferences in the last six weeks between Catholic Church representatives and the Central Action Committee.

These conferences, he said, settled, among other issues, the "delicate question" of Catholics joining work brigades on weekdays or Saturdays instead of Sundays. The clergy's place, he added, will be similar to other cultural workers and salaries will be paid by the state.

Moreover, according to Cepicka, the Action Committee's commission "also proposed that the church schools should be preserved with certain modifications and it has also found a solution for the teaching of religion in all three grades of the unified schools."

Goldstein Heads District Hebrew Congregation

Goldstein

Elected to serve with Goldstein are: Dr. Baer, first vice-president; Joel S. Kaufmann, second vice-president; Herbert Hollander, secretary; Adolph Kuntz, treasurer; Sol Scher, assistant treasurer, and Dr. George Nordlinger, trustee. J. Edward Bindeman, William F. Sigmund, Frank Luchs and Jerome Saks have been elected to the Board of Managers.

Trieste Division Opposed

Trieste, May 27 (U.P.).—Commanders of the Anglo-American zone of the Free Territory of Trieste said today that the problem of Europe's "hot corner" could be solved only by the return of Trieste to Italy.

They rejected a reported Russian proposal to split the territory between Italy and Yugoslavia.

The official military opinion was contained in the quarterly Anglo-American report to London and Washington. It was written by Maj. Gen. Terence S. Airey, British commander.

Airey insisted no Allied troops should withdraw, in the event Trieste is returned to Italy, until Italy is prepared to control the entire area with her own forces. His statement constituted a definite restatement of the Anglo-American policy of keeping 10,000 British and United States troops in the trouble zone until an acceptable solution is found.

English Prelate Deplores Anti-Red Crusade

York, Enkland, May 27 (AP).—The Archbishop of York, Dr. Cyril Garbett, in an address to a convocation here today advised strongly against the waging of "a holy war or religious crusade" against communism.

"Indiscriminate excommunications," he said, would endanger Christian unity and might do great harm to millions of Christians living in Communist countries.

World Figures

15,362,899 Estimated Under Arms

By Peter Kihss

Lake Success, May 27 (NYHT). The magazine United Nations World estimated today there are now 15,362,899 men under arms in 57 countries. But it said "the regular armies of today are definitely incapable either of aggressive moves on the Wellingtonian scale, or even of sustained defense against a major onslaught."

"With the exception of Yugoslavia which maintains an oversized army in a high state of preparedness, no country, and certainly none of the major powers, maintains even a fraction of its war manpower potential," the magazine said.

"Only in China and Greece are armies (two in each case) maintained on war footing."

The survey estimated the Soviet army's peacetime effectives at 1,900,000, "excluding the para and semi-military formations, the militarized police and the troops of the ministry of the interior." Wartime potential was put at 20 million men and women. Sixty per cent of present effectives are abroad, chiefly in Germany, Austria and Korea. Seventeen per cent of the national budget goes to the ministry of the armed forces, with citizens paying 218 rubles per capita for this purpose—$43 at official rates of exchange.

The United States Army was put at 542,000, out of an authorized strength of 670,000 and wartime potential of 8,500,000. Approximately 75 per cent of men on active duty are abroad, chiefly in Germany, Austria, Japan and Korea. The military budget was put at 25 per cent of the national budget, including expenses of organized reserve and National Guard. Army costs, which were $3.50 per capita in 1930, have risen to $57 per capita.

The survey said 80 per cent of China's national budget is allocated to civil war expenses; France's army of 500,000 includes 90,000 in operations in Indo-China; Yugoslavia's active and reserve army of 800,000, representing 5 per cent of the population, is one tenth composed of women.

The survey gave the following strengths for standing armies, including militias and militarized police in some cases:

United States	542,000	Greece	165,000
U. S. S. R.	1,900,000	Hungary	26,800
United Kingdom	334,000	India - Pakistan	1,000,000
Afghanistan	50,000	Iran	90,000

The plan of Speaker Martin (R., Mass.) to open House debate on the draft bill next week faded yesterday after temper-testing flurries before the Rules Committee led to postponement of all hearings this week.

Representative Leo E. Allen (R., Ill.), after refusing to call for a vote on the bill, said hearings would be resumed next Tuesday. He predicted they may continue for several days "and maybe longer."

Allen said several Congressmen still want to testify in opposition to the measure that was worked up by the House Armed Services Committee and approved by it overwhelmingly.

Allen's Rules Committee must clear the bill before the House as a whole can vote on it.

Yesterday saw these additional developments in national defense matters:

1. President Truman told his news conference his instructions against racial discrimination in the armed forces h e not been changed by congressional threats to stall a draft bill unless it permits segregation. Otherwise, Mr. Truman said, he could not comment on the bill until it reached him.

2. The national convention of the American Unitarian Association at Boston declared itself opposed to universal military training.

3. The Army Department reported the National Guard in sight of its goal of 271,000 men by June 30. The May 15 enrollment of the Guard was reported to be 245,157, greater than its peak strength between World Wars I and II.

4. Vice Admiral Charles E. Rosendahl, pioneer airship officer and survivor of both the Shenandoah and Akron disasters, urged Congress to build a fleet of six great rigid airships. He said only the United States and Russia possessed a supply of helium and added that Russia was very much interested in dirigibles.

As far as draft legislation was concerned, differences over racial segregation threatened it in the Senate while in the House Chairman Allen (R., Ill.) of the Rules Committee said his committee could hear at least 10 more opponents of the measure.

Chairman Gurney (R., S. Dak.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee told reporters he deplored a threat by Senator Langer (R., N. Dak.) to tack President Truman's entire civil rights program to the draft bill. Any such move would certainly result in a filibuster by Southern Senators who already have insisted on amending the bill to permit draftees to decide whether they would serve in nonsegregated units.

In addition to draft legislation, the House Rules Committee yesterday was involved in another dispute over plans to build a 12-million-dollar airport for the Naval Academy at Annapolis. Allen called for a showdown vote on a 208-million-dollar naval construction bill which contains authority to build the Annapolis field. The bill has been before his committee since last summer.

require legislative authorization and appropriations; if any treaty commitments are involved, they will require ratification with the advice and consent of the Senate."

The second condition was that the countries wanting American help must first do everything possible to help themselves. "The committee considers the principle of self-help and mutual aid followed in the European recovery program equally applicable in the field of security," the report said. It insisted that any American help must "supplement rather than replace" European efforts.

"This means in practice," the report explained, "that the participants must be prepared fully to carry out their obligations under the Charter, resolutely to defend their liberties against attack from any source, and efficiently to develop their maximum defense potential by coordination of military forces and resources."

The third and last condition was that any American "association" with a group of other nations must be in the interests of American national security.

The committee report also called upon the Senate to reaffirm Article 51 of the Charter, which permits individual or collective self-defense against aggression.

"The committee is convinced that the horrors of another war can be avoided with certainty only by preventing war from starting," the report declared. "The experiences of World War I and World War II suggest that the best deterrent against aggression is the certainty that immediate and effective countermeasures be taken against those who violate the peace."

By reaffirming Article 51 "the United States would take an important step in the direction of removing any dangerous uncertainties that might mislead potential aggressors," the report said.

The rest of the committee's report dealt with proposed measures to strengthen the United Nations. It spoke of the concern of "millions of people" over the delay in reaching peace settlements, the inability of the U. N. to act, and the failure to provide armed forces for the U. N. or to control atomic energy and armaments.

Like the resolution itself, the report urged redoubled efforts for a voluntary agreement to limit the use of the veto. The report warned that it would be "extremely unwise at this time" to insist on drastic revision of the Charter "which might result in splitting the U. N. and further accentuating differences already existing between east and west."

It also took an implied dig at the 16 Senators who have proposed abolishing the veto on enforcement measures. Any such attempt, the report said, "would be vigorously opposed by all great powers which remain unwilling to permit their troops to be thrown into action without their consent."

Senate Unit Studies Soviet Pact Charges

A State Department document alleging more than 30 Soviet violations of agreements was considered by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee behind closed doors yesterday.

Chairman Arthur H. Vandenberg said the document was so "voluminous" that committee members needed time to study it, and would meet again this morning.

The document, containing a long history and explanation of each violation, had been sent to Vandenberg in answer to a resolution by Senator Homer E. Capehart (R., Ind.). Capehart had asked for it after hearing President Truman's March 17 message to Congress, which accused Russia of not keeping her agreements.

American officials have said repeatedly that Russia violated her undertakings made at Yalta, Potsdam and elsewhere, but this is the first time such charges have been collected into a single document. A summary of the document was published in yesterday's New York Times, and may have prompted the Foreign Relations Committee's sudden meetings.

Although the exact language of the document was not disclosed, the summary of so many violations amounted to a strong indictment of Soviet policy since the end of the war. State Department officials said that it probably would have to be made public by Vandenberg if at all.

Meanwhile the State Department rejected a whole series of Soviet protests alleging that American airplanes had interfered with Soviet shipping near Japan. A note rejecting the protests as unfounded was delivered in Moscow Tuesday, the department said.

The Gallup Poll

World Atom Control Favored by Voters

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., May 27.—The weight of voter opinion in America favors giving the United Nations control of atomic energy throughout the world, including power to inspect atomic plants in all countries.

A majority of voters with opinions would have this country continue to support the Baruch proposal for atomic control and inspection which the United States insists should be the first step rather than the immediate prohibition of atomic bombs wanted by the Soviet.

While discussions in the U. N. Atomic Energy Commission have bogged down completely, the issue was raised again in the "open letter" correspondence between Premier Stalin and Henry A. Wallace. Among the steps the third-party presidential candidate said must be taken to achieve peace was the "outlawing of all methods of mass destruction," and Stalin's rep'y agreed that prohibition of atomic weapons must be effected.

Sentiment on the issue of control was tested by this question:

Would you favor or oppose having the United Nations adopt a plan for the control of atomic energy which would permit the United Nations to inspect atomic plants in the United States and any other country at any time?

The answers:

Favor control	43%
Oppose control	39
No opinion	18

Willingness to have the United States submit to inspection by an international authority is general throughout the country, but proportionately more voters with college education favor the plan than those with fewer years of formal training.

The following table gives the vote by education:

	Favor Control	Oppose Control	No Op.
College	54%	40%	6%
High School	46	41	13
Grammer	38	37	25

As might be expected, voters who are dissatisfied with the progress recorded by U. N. thus far are less likely to approve a plan involving inspection of plants in this country than those who think the organization has done a satisfactory job. This is shown in the following table:

	Favor Control	Oppose Control	No Op.
Satisfied with U. N.	49%	38%	13%
Dissatisfied with U. N.	47	44	9

Earlier polls have shown that voters want the United States to continue making atomic bombs but believe that other countries already have the knowledge necessary to make them also. Today's survey means that voters are aware of the need for some kind of international controls, both to curb manufacture of bombs and to promote peaceful use of atomic energy.

Flies Reported Destroyed by Sound Waves

By The Associated Press

University of Connecticut scientists have produced sound "death waves" that kill flies or change the characteristics they hand down to their offspring.

Military authorities have been interested in the possibility of producing "sound wave" or "death ray" weapons for a long time. In one experiment mice and small insects were killed.

But one military scientist said yesterday the production of a military "sound wave" weapon seems to be a long way in the future.

The University of Connecticut scientists reported in the magazine Science that they used sound waves far beyond the range of the human ear. They used a special electrical instrument for producing the waves but did not describe it in detail.

They said some of the flies were killed by the waves. In others that survived it was evident there were changes in organs that govern the characteristics that are handed down to offspring.

One visible change that the scientists noted concerned the characteristics of the fly's wings, but they gave no details.

They also experimented with plants and said there was evidence that the characteristics of seedlings, later grown in greenhouses, had changed.

Ways and Means Group Approves Tax Revision Bill

The House Ways and Means Committee yesterday unanimously approved a bill making general revisions in the tax structure that Chairman Knutson (R., Minn.) estimated would reduce Federal revenues by about 400 million dollars.

The 145-page bill makes 81 technical changes in the revenue laws. They are designed, Knutson said, to correct tax inequities and to improve administration of the tax statutes.

Knutson emphasized that the measure makes no general reductions in tax rates and he said most of the revenue loss "will not arise until after 1949."

He said the legislation will pass before Congress adjourns next month.

College Tests Today

High school completion examinations for Fairfax County residents who do not hold high school diplomas but want to enter college will be held today at 9 a. m. in the board of supervisors meeting room in the county court house. Those passing the examination will be recommended for admission to State colleges in Virginia without further examination.

Long-Range Atom Research Contract Made

Oak Ridge, Tenn., May 27 (AP).—The Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies announced today the signing of a long-range contract with the Atomic Energy Commission to carry out an atomic research program.

The contract replaces a temporary letter contract under which the institute has operated since March, 1947. It will run through December 31, 1951.

The announcement said the agreement calls for the institute, organized by 14 Southern and Southeastern universities, "to carry out a varied educational and training program in nuclear sciences by utilizing" the Oak Ridge atomic facilities.

Dr. William G. Pollard, executive director of the institute, also announced that a special graduate training program will be offered by the institute this summer.

Under this program, selected candidates for doctorates in nuclear and related sciences may complete their thesis work at the atomic laboratories.

Research Contract Praised by Darden

Charlottesville, Va., May 27 (AP).—Signing of a long-range contract by the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies and the Atomic Energy Commission was praised here today by Colgate W. Darden, jr., president of the University of Virginia.

The University of Virginia and 13 other Southern and Southeastern universities are members of the institute.

"The University of Virginia prizes highly its participation in this great undertaking and looks forward to the continuation of an association which already, on a temporary basis, has proven most valuable," Darden said.

Dr. L. B. Snoddy, professor of physics, represents the University of Virginia on the institute council.

Wasson Is Paid Tribute by Gary

Tribute to Consul General Thomas C. Wasson, who was killed May 22 at Jerusalem, was paid in the House yesterday by Representative Gary (D., Va.), Wasson, a native of Great Falls, Mont., lived for a time in Chesterfield County, Va.

"Mr. Wasson accepted his assignment to the hazardous Jerusalem post with the full knowledge of the dangers which it involved," Gary said.

"While visiting in Richmond in March, he told a friend he had obtained two bulletproof vests which he planned to take to Jerusalem.

"His heroic sacrifice is an inspiration to his colleagues in the Foreign Service who are frequent companions of danger as they man their posts in every corner of this troubled world."

—With the fine flavors of BLUE PLATE FOODS

Blue Plate Mayonnaise
Made by the WESSON OIL PEOPLE with fine salad oil

½ cup Blue Plate Mayonnaise
2 egg yolks, beaten
1 tbsp. lemon juice
½ cup top milk
½ tsp. salt
Pepper to taste
Chopped green pepper (optional)
Paprika (optional)
4 hard boiled eggs

Beat egg yolks, blend in lemon juice and mayonnaise. Heat milk, seasonings and peppers in double boiler; stir slowly into egg mixture. Return to double boiler and cook, stirring constantly 2 min., or until thick. Add sliced hard boiled eggs, heat through, serve in individual dishes or on toast. This velvety sauce enhances cooked vegetables, too. Only Blue Plate Mayonnaise gives just the right smoothness, just the right combination of seasonings.

Blue Plate Coffee
"Great Coffee with a Great Guarantee"

Hot or iced—Blue Plate Coffee gives you satisfying strength and fine, mellow flavor. A blend of the finest Latin American coffees. Your money back if you don't agree that Blue Plate Coffee is the best you ever tasted.

Blue Plate Peanut Butter
Real "fresh-roasted" peanut flavor
Stays smooth to the very bottom of the jar

PEANUT BUTTER BISCUITS
Blue Plate Peanut Butter adds vitamins; proteins—and real peanut flavor

1 cup sifted flour
½ tsp. baking powder (double-action)
½ tsp. salt
¼ cup Blue Plate Peanut Butter
1 tbsp. Blue Plate Margarine or shortening
⅔ cup milk or water (¼ cup plus 2 tbsp.)

Sift flour once, add baking powder and salt. Sift again. Cut in shortening and Blue Plate Peanut Butter, add liquid gradually until soft dough is formed. Note how smoothly Blue Plate Peanut Butter blends. Pat ½ inch thick, cut and bake at 450° 10-15 min. (Biscuits may be cut, put in pan in advance, and refrigerated until a few minutes before baking time.) Blue Plate Peanut Butter gives these biscuits that appealing peanut flavor.

Blue Plate
Preserves and Jellies
In a variety of fine real fruit flavors—look for your favorites

BROILED GRAPEFRUIT
Pepped up with delicious Blue Plate Jelly

Prepare cored halves of grapefruit, place a heaping teaspoon of tart Blue Plate Jelly in each center. Heat under the broiler until edges of the peel begin to scorch. Serve at once as a sparkling appetizer. Blue Plate Preserves and Jellies are made just as you'd put them up at home—slowly, carefully, with pure fruit and sugar only. Blue Plate Preserves and Jellies have that good, honest, clear fruit taste.

BLUE PLATE MEANS FINE FLAVOR

'Again and Again..'

Playwright Tells Origin Of Phrase

Robert E. Sherwood, one-time White House speech writer, yesterday identified himself as author of the famed "Again, and Again and Again" phrase in the late President Roosevelt's 1940 campaign pledge to keep American boys out of foreign wars.

Sherwood told about it in the second of a series of articles in Collier's Magazine on the private papers of the late Harry L. Hopkins, another White House intimate. The author digressed to tell the story of the campaign speech at Boston October 30, 1940.

There was a speech conference on the train en route to Boston in which Sherwood, Hopkins and Judge Samuel Rosenman participated. Mr. Roosevelt was under intense pressure from Democratic leaders to promise American mothers their sons would not be sent to war. The President recalled he had said it before, Sherwood wrote, and asked how many times it need be repeated.

Sherwood Said Phrase

Sherwood said he remarked: "I don't know, Mr. President, but they don't seem to have heard you the first time. Evidently you've got to say it again, and again, and again."

In his Boston speech, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"And while I am talking to you mothers and fathers, I give you one more assurance: I have said this before, but I shall say it again and again and again; your boys are not going to be sent into any foreign wars."

Sherwood said Roseman recalled that the Democratic platform added the words, "except in case of attack." He said Mr. Roosevelt replied:

"Of course we'll fight if we're attacked. If somebody attacks us, then it isn't a foreign war, is it?"

Sherwood said he still burns inwardly when he thinks of those words, "again, and again, and again."

From the Hopkins papers, Sherwood sketched a flashback into the prewar communications between Mr. Roosevelt and former British Prime Minister Winston Churchill. Hopkins was Mr. Roosevelt's personal emissary in foreign relations at the time and saw Churchill on the President's behalf many times.

Churchill sent Mr. Roosevelt many pleas that the United States take a more active part in the war against Nazi aggression, according to official papers, memoranda and personal notes left by Hopkins.

They showed that Churchill asked the President at the start of the western blitzkreig to proclaim "a state of nonbelligerency for the United States, which would mean supplying all kinds of aid but no armed action."

Pledged Action Short of War

"Just before the French surrender," Sherwood wrote, "Churchill sent a desperate cable saying that France might still be saved by a Presidential announcement that the United States would, if necessary, enter the war."

Sherwood said Mr. Roosevelt repeatedly explained the constitutional reasons why he could not declare war "but he made it quite clear that if Britain fell his own purpose would be to do all that he possibly could more than mere words but short of war."

The Roosevelt messages to Churchill were addressed to the "former naval person" and the Churchill messages to Roosevelt were addressed to "Potus" (President of the United States).

The Hopkins papers also reveal that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was indirectly responsible for establishment of the National Defense Research Council under which the atomic bomb was developed.

The council was established under Dr. Vannevar Bush after he received an alarming report from Lindbergh on Germany's war potential. Bush reached Mr. Roosevelt with his plans for a scientific war council, it was disclosed, through Hopkins.

Possible use of American capital to help finance immigration projects in South America was discussed last night by John J. McCloy, president of the World Bank.

McCloy, who recently returned from a month's air tour of South America, said he found "a good deal of interest in immigration projects," which would both aid that continent's development and Europe's displaced persons problem.

Interviewed by Ernest K. Lindley, Washington editor of Newsweek magazine, in a broadcast over radio station WINX, McCloy declared:

"By and large, these (South American) countries are all interested in external aid. But this was the interesting thing to me: they are not looking for huge loans to finance vast projects.

"They are looking for moderate sums of capital for projects which, though they may be small, are what you might call 'multipliers'—that is, they are key projects which can have an increasing effect on whole economies."

Such projects, he said, include agricultural development, power plants, improved communications systems and the immigration projects.

"One of the real needs of South America," said McCloy, "is for determined and ambitious settlers. There is plenty of room down there . . . The Bank might be bale to assist in financing productive equipment for such projects."

He made it clear, however, that the Bank cannot provide all, or even the major part of such South American financing. The Bank, he said, can only use its limited funds in a limited way to help member nations' economies.

"The major part of this financing job," he said, "will have to be done by private and by venture capital—and I mean local capital in the countries concerned, as well as private loans and investments from abroad."

9 Are Accused Formally in Gandhi Case

New Delhi, India, May 27 (AP).—N. V. Godse and eight codefendants were formally accused in court today of murdering Mohandas K. Gandhi.

After receiving the charge sheet, the court recessed until June 3, when it will appoint defense attorneys for the trial, opening June 14.

In a small, bare courtroom in old Red Fort, the defendants slouched easily on wooden benches, chatted among themselves and kept court attendants busy bringing them cool drinks. Some wore loin cloths, other European garb, others a combination of Indian and European dress. Lawyers bustled about in black robes and guards strode about wearing crested turbans of yellow and blue.

The accused posed willingly for photographs. Several do not understand English, which is the language that will be used in the trial.

The entire proceeding took 100 minutes. Two defendants, D. R. Badge and Madan Lal, said they did not want counsel. Badge, an ascetic-looking man with long beard and hair, said "I do not want counsel. I am going to speak the truth."

Lal, who is accused of setting a bomb outside Gandhi's prayer meeting 10 days before the January 30 assassination, asked to make a speech in Hindustani, but was refused by Judge Atma Charan.

Chinese Praises Newsmen's Work

David C. H. Lu, Washington correspondent for the Central News Agency of China, paid tribute yesterday to both Chinese and American journalists "who have labored to further the understanding between the two nations."

Lu addressed a luncheon meeting of the Washington alumni of the University of Missouri at the YWCA. A graduate of the university's School of Journalism, he recently received its award for distinguished service in journalism.

Dr. James S. Williams, a geologist with the United States Geological Survey, who succeeded the late Representative Orville Zimmerman as president of the local Missouri group, was chairman of the meeting.

Vandenberg Parts Company With Taft on Tariff Bill

The Senate Republican leadership split yesterday on House modifications in the Administration's reciprocal trade agreements program as the Senate Finance Committee ordered two days of public hearings next week.

Vandenberg

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.) supported substantially the Administration's position that the act should be extended without major change.

The Senate president suggested only one deviation from the present program—authority for the Tariff Commission to "set the safety limits within which the President may freely negotiate."

But he said these should not be mandatorily binding on the President if he found it in the national interest to go beyond them.

The Michigan Republican thus again parted company with Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) on an issue closely related with foreign policy.

Taft Backs House Bill

Senator Taft told reporters he is "for" the House bill, cutting the extension to one year and giving Congress the power to say "No" if the President goes beyond the Tariff Commission findings.

But Taft said he "does not object" to discarding the congressional "veto" provisions of the House bill—that he "does not want to go back to congressional tariff-making."

Up to that point, Vandenberg and Taft were in substantial agreement although Vandenberg came out more flatly against the House provision giving Congress the decision if the President failed to follow the commission's findings.

Where they differed sharply was on the Tariff Commission's powers. Taft said he thought the Tariff Commission's findings on how high or how low tariffs could be set without damage to an important American industry should be "final" and thus binding on the President.

Against Mandatory Limits

Vandenberg would let the Tariff Commission set tariff limits, but the President would not be compelled to accept them. Said Vandenberg: "If the President finds it is in the national interest to negotiate beyond these limits, it is sufficient restraint to require him to publish the Tariff Commission recommendations with his disclosure of their breach."

This was largely one of the stipulations put forward by Vandenberg and Senate Finance Chairman Eugene D. Millikin (R., Colo.) in their successful effort to head off a congressional trade agreements showdown last year. The President accepted another stipulation, that "escape clauses" be written into all the trade agreements, but did not agree to advisory "safety limits" by the Tariff Commission.

As to the House cutback in the recommended three-year extension, Vandenberg told reporters he preferred a two- or three-year extension, but said that is "of no great consequence."

"Since the character of the act will always depend upon administrative judgments, the real decisions will be made after the next elections," Vandenberg said.

In taking the position that Tariff Commission rate limits should be binding on the President, Taft told reporters: "I'm open to argument. I'm not laying down the law as they say I do."

The Ohioan said he has contended for years that some definite standards should be set by law beyond which tariff changes should not go. He said various standards could be applied, such as differences in cost of production here and in the other treaty nations, or differences in cost of labor.

No Change in Rates

Taft denied there is "any intention of destroying the act—the rates in the present agreements, for example, will go right on.

"I say that for the benefit of those who charge this is a return to the Smoot-Hawley tariff rates."

Finance Chairman Millikin kept publicly out of the controversy, pending hearings by his group. Millikin said two days of open hearings will be held next week, but the specific dates haven't been set.

Since Vandenberg and Taft appeared substantially agreed that a congressional "veto" wasn't necessary, the Senate may drop this from the House bill. The Senate fight, and possibly the conference struggle, may center therefore on whether Tariff Commission rate limits are made mandatory or advisory.

Money Inflation Talk Is Decried

Atlantic City, N. J., May 27 (AP). T. Howard Duckett of Hyattsville, president of the Maryland Bankers Association, today said the Nation's economy is healthy and it is a mistake to talk of money inflation.

In an address to his association's fifty-second annual convention, Duckett said there is a "commodity inflation—a period of steadily rising prices. There is enough money, but not enough production. This is certainly more healthy than closed factories and blighted farms."

Should there be a recession, Duckett said, "there will be hardly a dull thud" because Federal, State and city governments already have taken steps to stabilize economy through Social Security, bank deposit insurance, unemployment benefits and welfare work.

Any blame for current inflation should be placed "on the greatest employment and highest average income in history," he said.

Blythe Treasurer Of National Unit

By The Associated Press

Joe L. Blythe, Charlotte, N. C., contractor, yesterday was named treasurer of the Democratic National Committee.

He is Democratic national committeeman for North Carolina and has been a State Senator since June. He is 57 and is vice president of a general contracting firm in Charlotte.

Blythe takes over a post that has been vacant since last August when George Killion of California resigned to become head of the American President Lines.

George B. Hamilton, of Georgia, served for a while as director of finance for the committee. He resigned February 28 in protest against the President's civil rights program.

Blythe called on the Democrats to pull together for victory in November though he did not mention directly the civil rights issue which has stirred up anti-Truman sentiment in the South.

How To Carve a Whole Ham

1. Put shank end of ham at carver's right. If a right ham, the bulged side will be toward carver; if left, away from him.
2. Cut two or three slices parallel to the length of ham, from thin side, to form a base on which to stand ham.
3. Turn ham up, so it rests on cut surface, keeping shank end at right. Hold ham firmly, cut small wedge-shaped piece from shank end.
4. Cut thin slices down to leg bone, at right angles to bone. Cut as many slices as desired.
5. With fork in place, release slices from leg bone by running knife along bone under slices.
6. If more servings are needed, turn ham back to original flat position and carve slices at right angles to bone.

Stassen Counts on Second-Choice Vote

New York, May 27 (AP).—Harold E. Stassen said today he expects about 590 first and second-choice convention votes for the Republican presidential nomination.

Here for two days, Stassen said he expected about 250 second choice ballots at the Philadelphia convention to add to his estimated 340 first-choice votes.

Nomination will require 548 votes.

The former Minnesota Governor's plans included a television broadcast from a New York studio tonight. Tomorrow he will leave for Illinois.

Stassen said "obviously second-choice support is nominating support."

He said the Republican Convention would be "wide open" and that no one would win the nomination on the first ballot.

Stassen refused to say whether he had talked with Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan about second place on a Vandenberg ticket.

He said that since he is in a leading position for first and second-choice ballots, this is not the time for comment on second place. He previously has said he would not accept a nomination for the Vice Presidency.

Stassen conceded a Vandenberg-Dewey ticket would be "very strong," but said he had no information whether Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York would take second place on such a ticket.

Stassen announced appointment today of Theodore H. Gamble, of Portland, Ore., as chairman of the Stassen-for-President Committee for the convention. Gamble will open headquarters at the Warwick Hotel, Philadelphia, June 7.

Stassen Inaugurates Television Campaigning

New York, May 27 (U.P.).—Harold E. Stassen tonight made the first television broadcast by a candidate seeking election to the Presidency.

Stassen was the first candidate to appear on the "Presidential Timber" series of the Columbia Broadcasting System television network in a program which demonstrated how campaign tactics will change when mass audiences can see as well as hear candidates.

Not only did the cameras bring Stassen to the television screen but they also showed pictures of his early years, his home and family, his military career. And as he spoke of such problems as housing, inflation, foreign affairs and taxes, the camera flashed pictures which illustrated his views.

Dr. Brumbaugh To Speak at Hood Commencement

Dr. Aaron John Brumbaugh, vice president of the American Council on Education, will speak at the fifty-fifth commencement exercises at Hood College, Frederick, Md., June 6.

Commencement week activities will open June 2 with the final "Step Songs" of the year at Alumnae Hall. "Moving Up Day" and a formal dinner for the seniors will follow on June 3.

Alumnae will be received informally by President and Mrs. Henry Irving Stahr June 4. Class Day and the annual senior class dance will be held the next day. Dr. Albert E. Day, pastor of the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church, Baltimore, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon the morning of commencement day.

Alabama Society Dance

The Alabama Society of Washington will hold its final dance of the season tonight, from 10 to 1 a. m., at the Wardman Park Hotel. There will be entertainment and door prizes.

San Franciscan Made Moderator By Presbyterians

Seattle, May 27 (AP).—The Rev. Dr. Jesse Hays Baird of San Francisco, Calif., tonight was elected moderator of the Presbyterian Church in the United States.

His election came on the fifth ballot at the General Assembly sessions here after four other ballots had failed to give a majority to any of the three candidates.

Dr. Baird is president of the San Anselmo Theological Seminary.

The first ballot gave Dr. Baird 325 votes, considerable short of the 441 required for a majority. On that ballot, the Rev. Dr. Clifford Edward Barbour of the Second Presbyterian Church of Knoxville, Tenn., received 304 votes and the Rev. Dr. George Emerson Barnes of Overbrook Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia, 252.

Dr. Barnes withdrew after the fourth ballot. Dr. Baird was elected by a one-vote majority.

Rep. Lyndon Johnson Arrives at Mayo Clinic

Rochester, Minn., May 27 (AP).—Representative Lyndon B. Johnson (D., Texas), a candidate for the U. S. Senate, arrived here by plane shortly before 7 p. m. today for treatment at the Mayo Clinic.

Clinic attendants said Johnson was removed by ambulance from the airport to Colonial Hospital after being flown here from Dallas. A spokesman at the hospital said the Texan would probably be under observation for several days before any bulletins on his condition are issued. The nature of his illness was not made known.

N. Y. Mirror Price Up

New York, May 27 (U.P.).—The New York Daily Mirror announced tonight that the price of the newspaper would be increased 1 cent, to 3 cents, in the city and 4 cents in the suburbs effective June 1. The Daily News announced a similar increase yesterday.

Senate Invites MacArthur

Congress about the Far Eastern situation.

In fact, he has already invited the general at least twice to return to receive a Congressional Medal of Honor at the White House and to visit his people, Mr. Truman said.

He first invited him at the time of the Japanese surrender and the invitation was repeated about a year later.

The general each time thought the situation in Japan required his presence there, the President added. He said the general is on the scene in Japan, where he knows the situation best, and it is entirely up to his judgment whether to come back.

Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, who succeeded MacArthur in command of the Philippines, fought on until Bataan's fall and now heads the National Veterans Committee for MacArthur for President, issued a statement of thanks to the Senate committee.

Wainwright said that on May 10 he cabled MacArthur that he would "be delighted and honored to fly over by commercial plane to accompany you home." Wainwright added: "Today I repeat that statement."

Two Republicans Differ

Representative Leo Allen (R., Ill.), chairman of the House Rules Committee, also cabled MacArthur, urging him to accept the Senate committee's invitation. Allen said MacArthur's return to testify would be " a service to the Congress as well as to the citizens of the United States."

Representative James W. Wadsworth (R., N. Y.) told reporters: "If I were MacArthur I would decline."

Wadsworth said he is an admirer of the general but felt it set an unfortunate precedent for Congress to invite him back. He said MacArthur and other commanding generals "are responsible to the Commander in Chief" and it was up to the President—not Congress—to call them back.

Senator Wherry's motion, instructing Senate Appropriations Chairman Styles Bridges (R., N. H.) to request General MacArthur's appearance "through proper military channels," was seconded by Senators Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.) and Millard E. Tydings (D., Md.).

Ferguson, who is supporting Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.) for the presidential nomination, said there was "nothing political about my second—I don't favor a military man for President. We want the facts he can add."

Tydings, who like nearly all the other committee Democrats supported the invitation, said his action was "nonpartisan," adding:

"There will be more here to welcome him than when he returned to the Philippines and this time he won't have to 'wade in.'"

During the committee discussion, Saltonstall is understood to have argued that the action was certain to be interpreted as political. Senator Clyde Reed (R., Kans.), the only other member voting "no," backed him up.

Voting to issue the invitation were Senators Bridges, Wherry, Ferguson, Chan Gurney (R., S. D.), C. Wayland Brooks (R., Ill.), Guy Cordon (R., Oreg.), Milton R. Young (R., N. D.), William F. Knowland (R., Calif.), Henry C. Dworshak (R., Ida.), Kenneth McKellar (D., Tenn.), Carl Hayden (D., Ariz.), Elmer Thomas (D., Okla.), Tydings, Richard B. Russell (D., Ga.), Dennis Chavez (D., N. Mex.), Pat McCarran (D., Nev.) and Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.), the last two by proxy.

Senator Theodore F. Green (D., R. I.) voted "present." Senator Joseph H. Ball (R., Minn.) was not present or recorded.

Democrats, who supported the invitation almost to a man, were plainly enjoying the excitement the resolution created in various Republican presidential camps. They take a "more the merrier" view of the GOP footrace. Consensus seemed to be that MacArthur's return at this time, if it gives a spur to his candidacy, would chiefly benefit the Republican dark horse field.

The top-running candidates did not say immediately how they felt about it, except for one cryptic comment from Senator Robert A. Taft R., Ohio).

Said Taft: "I think it will add to the political gaiety of life."

The Ohioan added: "I guess he'll be coming East as the President goes West."

Senator Bridges, who delivered the committee's invitation to the War Department, told reporters that because of the form of the resolution he thought MacArthur would accept unless he had to cope with "some great emergency."

Asked if MacArthur couldn't refuse, Bridges said: "The requests of this committee have always been honored, without exception."

Swedish Defense Chief In Norway for Tour

Oslo, Norway, May 27 (U.P.).—Maj. Gen. Nils Swedlund, chief of the Swedish defense staff, arrived by plane in Oslo today for a 10-day visit to Norway.

Swedlund's visit was described as "of a private nature and for vacation purposes." He was welcomed by high Norwegian officers and will tour south Norwegian coastal districts with Gen. Ole Berg, chief of the Norwegian defense staff.

Slayer Receives 199-Year Jail Term

Rockford, Ill., May 27 (AP).—Glenn Marsh, 27, was convicted tonight of murdering his paramour's father. The jury set his penalty at 199 years in prison.

Marsh was found guilty of slaying Grant Muhrlein, 52, of Northport, Mich.

Another jury last January 16 acquitted Marsh of murdering Vernon Anderson, 28. Marsh had been carrying on a love affair with the latter's wife, Mrs. Katherine (Kit) Anderson, 27.

The young farmer burst into the Rockford home of Anderson's parents last November 7 and shot the two men in a fit of frustrated rage.

'Slight Improvement' Shown by Rep. Owens

Representative Thomas L. Owens (R., Ill.) showed "very slight improvement" yesterday at Bethesda Naval Hospital, but his condition remained "very serious." Owens suffered a heart attack Sunday.

Japanese Premier Says U. S.-Red War Unlikely

Tokyo, May 27 (U.P.).—Premier Hitoshi Ashida told a Diet committee today that the Japanese government sees no probability of war between the United States and Russia in the immediate future.

Dewey Home, 'Happy' Over N. J. Prospect

Albany, N. Y., May 27 (AP).—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey arrived home today saying he was "happy" about published reports that he would receive the second-choice support of a majority of New Jersey's delegates to the Republican National Convention.

The Governor, in the wake of a Western campaign tour, spent yesterday in New Jersey seeking support of his candidacy for the presidential nomination.

New Jersey party leaders remained silent on the course the delegation will follow after a first-ballot vote for Governor Driscoll, but there were conflicting reports as to whom the delegates would favor in subsequent voting.

Some sources, not identified by name, predicted Dewey would get more than half of the 35 delegates after the initial balloting. Other sources, also unidentified, predicted the delegates would turn to Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, who says he is not a candidate.

One GOP leader, who declined use of his name, said: "At the moment, there is no question Vandenberg will get a majority of the Jersey votes on the second ballot."

Because he is not an active candidate, Vandenberg declined the State organization's invitation to speak here.

State Chairman Lloyd B. Marsh announced a meeting of the New Jersey delegation early in June and said he hoped "sentiment will have crystallized by then."

Marsh said he did not know whether Dewey "made any new friends" but State Senator Frank A. Farley (R., Atlantic) announced he would be for the New Yorker after Driscoll, a favorite son candidate, releases the delegation. Senate Majority Leader David Van Alstyne, jr., of Bergen also has declared for Dewey.

Federation of Labor in Area To Have 1st Negro Official

Preller Cohen Turner Hill

The Maryland-District of Columbia Federation of Labor yesterday voted to amend its 42-year-old constitution to provide for the election of its first Negro officer.

The move, voted overwhelmingly in the closing sessions of a four-day convention in Hotel Statler, came after undercover efforts to smash the resolution collapsed in the face of strong opposition from the floor.

The vote climaxed a 10-year fight by liberal elements within the Federation to seat a Negro on the executive board. Actually, the new amendment would create a seventh vice presidency without designating who shall fill the post, but delegates say this is "tantamount" to insuring election of a Negro.

Cohen Backs Move

Federation President Harry Cohen of Baltimore, in a floor speech, urged that "in the interest of democracy . . . we go forward and recognize a group that for 10 years has been crying out in the wilderness."

A previous resolution creating the post of seventh vice president and insisting that it be filled by a Negro, was tabled.

Battle lines began shaping up at the opening of the conclave Monday.

Charles Hill, Negro business agent of Hotel Workers Local 80, was due for nomination as a vice president—the same thing has happened every year since 1944, without success.

Anticipating Hill's defeat—and he was overwhelmingly beaten in the election—Thomas Sampler, Negro president of Laborers Local 74 here, introduced a resolution to create a seventh post of vice president, designating that a Negro should fill the office.

Another resolution—to create a seventh vice presidency but leaving the matter of who would get the job—was introduced by J. C. Turner, business agent of Operating Engineers Local 77. In past years, the convention has snubbed resolutions embodying the term "minority" or "Negro" on the grounds their use violates AFL policy.

The committee on laws, headed by Clement Preller, president of the Central Labor Union here, coordinating body for all AFL locals in the city, voted "non-concurrence" on both resolutions.

The first resolution was withdrawn by Sampler, and he turned his support to the second resolution, claiming that:

"If the AFL expects to put on a successful organizing drive . . . then it should give consideration to the Negro."

Miss Selma Borchardt, veteran delegate from Teachers Local No. 8, warned that "if we're going to fight the Communist issue, we must practice democratic ideas . . ."

Following the election, Joseph P. Hillock, business agent of Painters Local 368, urged that the executive board appoint a Negro delegate to the new post. President Cohen said "no" to that. The issue was left for next year.

Chrysler Firm and UAW Fail To Reach Pact in Night Session

Detroit, May 27 (AP).—Chrysler Corp. and the CIO United Auto workers ended another night session without reaching any agreement tonight on their efforts to settle the 16-day strike at Chrysler plants.

Detroit, May 27 (AP).—Representatives of Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers (CIO) called a brief recess early tonight after four hours of deliberation believed to have brought them near a wage settlement that would bring an end to the 16-day Chrysler strike.

The recess in Chrysler negotiations coincided with a special UAW executive board meeting, which had been called earlier, and which pointed up belief that an agreement on Chrysler wages was near. More than 75,000 production workers are idle in the walkout.

According to union sources, the UAW executive board meeting was planned as early as a week ago, when it appeared negotiations with General Motors might reach a climax tonight on expiration of the union's contract there. The GM dispute was settled last Tuesday when negotiators approved a two-year wage pattern based on the cost of living, with an 11-cent hourly increase.

General Motors and the United Electrical Workers (CIO) agreed today on a similar pattern affecting about 40,000 electrical workers in the industry.

Whether Chrysler would follow this pattern was uncertain. There was little doubt among labor observers that the auto union would take the same thing or something similar from Chrysler if it was offered.

The Chrysler workers walked out May 12 after weeks of futile bargaining. The union started out with a demand for a 30-cent-an-hour increase. Later this was dropped to 17 cents.

Chrysler made an original offer of 6 cents an hour. When the UAW-CIO turned it down, the corporation withdrew it.

Alcoa Strike Threat

Louisville, Ky., May 27 (AP).—The International Council of Aluminum Workers announced plans here today for a strike of 10,000 employes of the Aluminum Co. of America at four plants on June 14.

Edward Stahl, council president, said AFL union members voted to strike because the company declined to discuss a request for wage increases.

The union asked an increase of 30 cents an hour for production and maintenance workers, he said. The present scale varies from $1.05 to $1.08 an hour minimum, Stahl added.

Pickets Abandon Line At Cleveland Hotel

Cleveland, May 27 (AP).—Pickets laid down their signs today at plush Park Lane Villa, ending an 18-day strike that had AFL leaders calling Rail Brotherhood Chief Alvanley Johnston a "strike-breaker."

Johnston's independent union, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, owns the 500-room hotel, and the 32 AFL maids and elevator operators had been striking for retroactive pay and a union shop.

But just who won was not entirely clear.

open voluntarily the question of wage hikes despite its previous opposition to any increases for 125,000 union employes.

However, a union spokesman said as the session began that it was called at the initiative of the union.

Airport Bill For Academy Sent to House

The House Rules Committee yesterday gave very tentative approval to the Naval Academy's request for a 12-million-dollar airport at Annapolis.

In clearing the 208-million-dollar building program for floor action today, Chairman Leo E. Allen (R., Ill.) said an attempt would be made to eliminate the airport from the bill during debate by amendment.

The Rules Committee turned from an earlier demand by several members that the airport be dropped. Representative George J. Bates (R., Mass.) of the Armed Services Subcommittee refused to have it withdrawn from the bill so that it could be acted upon in a separate measure.

Chief opposition to the airport came from Representative Forest A. Harness (R., Ind.), who said he could not approve of the purchase of 2400 acres at Sandy Point, Md., now for that purpose.

Harness declared he was not concerned with the convenience of summer residents in the area where the airport is to be constructed.

Representative Lansdale G. Sasscer (D., Md.) and Bates argued the Academy airport ranks at top priority with the Navy.

Other opponents recommended the use of Andrews Field or the Patuxent Air Base for the midshipmen training.

Bates to Push Tax Revision

District income tax would wipe out the levy for thousands of low and middle income persons, including the great majority of Federal employes here.

Biggest feature of the new income-tax set-up would be an $8000 exemption for the taxpayer. He would get an additional $500 exemption for each dependent, including his wife, and an automatic $500 credit in place of detailed deductions.

Present exemptions are $1000 for a taxpayer, $1000 for a spouse and $500 for each dependent.

D. C. Officials' Plan

The proposed income-tax revision has been drafted for Congress by District officials. Bates said he plans to study it over the week-end. He is expected to make it part of the proposed 2-per-cent general sales tax bill, to be introduced early next week for action by the House District Committee June 3.

Rates under the proposed income-tax change would be described in different terms than now, but the intended effect is to make upper income bracket persons pay at about the same rate as now.

The proposed new rates would be 2 per cent on the first $7000 of taxable income, 2½ per cent on the next $5000 and 3 per cent on taxable income over $12,000.

This compares with the present rates of 1 per cent on the first $5000 of taxable income, with an additional ½ of 1 per cent on each succeeding $5000 of taxable income up to a top rate of 3 per cent on taxable income over $20,000.

Would Cut Out Two Brackets

With the proposed big exemption, the present two low bracket tax rates would be eliminated and the $12,000 starting point for the highest tax rate would correspond to the present $20,000 starting point for the top rate.

Last year, District officials, with strong support from Representative Bates, appealed to Congress to extend the income tax to District residents, instead of basing the tax primarily on legal domicile in the District. The plan was defeated when Representative Joseph P. O'Hara (R., Minn.) won House backing for exempting from the District tax the official salaries of Federal employes with legal domiciles elsewhere.

Another Revision Seen by '51

While taking away the O'Hara exemption, Bates' new proposal would also take the tax away from the salary bracket covering most Federal employes.

A major reason for the income-tax revision, Bates said, is his belief that if pay raises are granted Federal and District employes, the sales tax would solve the District revenue problems for only two years.

"By 1951, in all probability, the District will again be faced with the necessity of developing further new sources of revenue," Bates said.

Welfare Bill Sent to Lane

jority floor leader, who argued that the administration had given the welfare department request plenty of study and decided $500,000 was sufficient to supplement its program.

Senators and Delegates, alike, worked at speed-up tempo all day in efforts to clear their desks of all pending legislation and to adjourn before the morrow.

They gave their approval, subject to voters' agreement in the affected areas, to slot machine operations in Calvert County, and bingo games in Anne Arundel.

A bill that would raise the legal tonnage of oyster dredge boats in the Choptank River from the present legal limitation of 7½ tons to 22 tons was defeated when the Senate finance committee reported it out with recommendation that it be disapproved. The Senate vote backed up the committee opinion, 16 to 9.

The House passed and sent to the Governor an act to ban dog racing with pari-mutuel betting in Anne Arundel County.

Also sent to the Governor for his signature, or veto, were measures:

Authorizing $560,000 for construction of armories in Leonardtown, Ellicott City, Oakland, and Prince Frederick.

Approving a $525,000 bond issue for improvements to the State House and Court of Appeals building, in Annapolis, to provide more office space and an underground passage between the two.

Permitting Marylanders who make up to $10,000 a year in wages or salaries to file State income tax returns on the simplified "short" form. Present ceiling for such returns is $5000.

Authority to set up a "Committee on Subversive Activities" to bring suspected subversive organizations out into the open. The committee would comprise three Senators, three Delegates and five other Maryland citizens.

Increasing membership of the Maryland Tobacco Authority from five to seven members.

Permitting the Board of Regents of the University of Maryland to lease or otherwise contract for use of the wind tunnel at College Park to the Government, the Glenn L. Martin aircraft company or any other corporation.

Empowering county commissioners to set up fire prevention codes.

Giving Montgomery County Commissioners discretion in fixing the salary of the public accountant.

Raising salaries of various minor Montgomery County employes.

Allowing Montgomery County Commissioners to fix salaries of assistants to the County Clerk.

27 Signatures Claimed On School Aid Petition

By The Associated Press

Representative Wheeler yesterday said 28 Representatives had signed his petition to bring the Federal-aid-for-education bill to a House vote.

In addition, Wheeler said, he had promises from at least that many more members that they would sign during the day.

To take the Senate-approved bill from the House Labor Committee and bring it to a vote on the floor, 218 signatures are needed.

Jarman Renamed Head Of Democratic Club

The Jefferson Islands Club, composed of top-ranking Democrats, announced yesterday the reelection of Representative Jarman (D., Ala.) as president.

Senator Barkley (D., Ky.), Representative Rayburn (D., Tex.), Bernard Baruch, New York financier and elder statesman, and Leslie Biffle, Senator minority secretary, were reelected vice presidents.

President Truman is a member of the club.

Ike Deplores Boost for Presidency

New York, May 27 (AP).—General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower said today that he deplored a radio commentator's expressed hope "you will be the little White Father in the big White House."

Eisenhower made his comment at the reenactment before newsreel cameras of the presentation of the National Father's Day Committee title of "Father of the Year" to Drew Pearson, news commentator.

In accepting the award, Pearson said: "I hope that next year in the words of the Kaw tribe of Indians in your native State of Kansas you will be the little White Father in the big White House."

Asked to comment, Eisenhower, who is president-designee of Columbia University, said tersely: "I deplore it."

Pearson in his acceptance had noted that Eisenhower was awarded the title in 1943.

Pearson, originator of the International Friendship Train which collected food for European relief, was selected in recognition of his fight for democracy throughout the world, the announcement said.

Other fathers named in various fields were:

Radio Father—Eddie Cantor because of his fight for freedom and tolerance.

Sports Father — Bob Feller, Cleveland pitcher, on the basis of the "father" he has been to thousands of children.

Screen Father—Gregory Peck for his efforts on behalf of child welfare and his portrayal of "father" in the Academy Award picture "Gentlemen's Agreement."

Stage Father—David Wayne, star of the Broadway hit "Mr. Roberts," for the many campaigns he has aided through his activities in the theater.

Literary Father — Van Wyck Mason, author of the novel, "Eagle in the Sky," for his record in the two world wars and his work for the United Nations.

New Rock Fall Perils Entombed Miner

Scranton, Pa., May 27 (AP).—A new rockfall late today stalled efforts to rescue Anthony Brezak, entombed 200 feet underground in a coal mine, and colliery officials feared he was dead.

Before the fall the 34-year-old Brezak had talked cheerfully with rescue crews. Later, as the men cautiously resumed digging, they reported his voice seemed weaker. Finally they lost contact with him.

Mine officials who had hoped Brezak would be reached within a short time said after the new fall he might not be rescued before tomorrow morning. The danger of additional falls was a constant threat to the diggers.

Brezak was entombed last night behind tons of coal and earth that crushed to death one of his two companions, William Ambrose, 53.

There was no sign nor sound of the third member, Julius Pitarra, 27, of Dupont. Officials of Heidelberg Colliery in Avoca, 12 miles from here, expressed hope that he might be found alive as the digging progressed.

The accident was the second of its kind in the eastern Pennsylvania anthracite coal field within two weeks. On May 12 one miner was killed and two others trapped behind a rockfall

Drowned Youth's Body Recovered . . .

By Robert Buchette—The Washington Post

RIVER TRAGEDY—Pvt. Frank White of Harbor Police, drags the body of James I. Davis, jr., 21, of 2414 G st. nw., into a boat after catching it on a grappling hook. The youth was drowned when he fell into the Georgetown Channel while fishing from the gas dock along Riverside Drive near the foot of Virginia ave. nw.

A young fisherman drowned yesterday when he lost his balance and fell into the Georgetown Channel from a dock along Riverside dr. near the foot of Virginia ave. n.w.

He was identified as James I. Davis, jr., 21, a laborer, of 2414 G st. nw.

Several other fishermen along the banks of the river said Davis had just caught a fish and was rebaiting his hook, standing with his back to the river, when he apparently lost his balance and toppled in.

His mother, Mrs. Selena Davis, and a younger brother, 14, who stood by while harbor police dragged for his body, said he could not swim.

Harbor police dragged less than 10 minutes before Pvt. Frank White found him with a grappling hook. Members of Fire Rescue Squad No. 1 were unable to revive him and he was pronounced dead at the scene shortly before noon. Deputy Coroner Christopher J. Murphy issued a certificate of accidental death due to drowning.

Singer Gets Divorce

Elizabeth, N. J., May 27 (AP).—Lucille Manners, opera and radio star, was granted a divorce today from her former Air Force lieutenant husband on grounds of extreme cruelty. The action was not contested by the husband, William J. Walker of New York City.

code of ethics to insist on any fixed fee.

How District brokers benefited by a fee increase adopted as standard in 1943 was brought out in prosecution questioning of Beitzell. Priar to 1943 the fee was 5 per cent of the first $5000 of sale price and 3 per cent thereafter. This was later changed to a flat 5 per cent. Thus on a house which sold in 1940 for $10,000 and which was assumed to have risen in sales price to $15,000, the broker would make $400 commission in the first instance and $700 in the second case.

Another witness, Leon Todd, Medford Lakes, N. J., former chairman of the national association's committee on rates, rules and customs, identified a letter he wrote to another member in which he described the "original purpose" of the committee as being "to bring about study to get nearer to uniform fees."

Under questioning by Prosecutor Joseph P. Kelly, Todd denied emphatically that he had ever discussed rates with members of the District board.

The day's proceedings ended with Judge Curran excluding from evidence reference to an Appellate Court decision in another real estate case, Hecht vs. Whiteford.

isting geothermic electricity production undertaken by the Larderello company which is also engaged in the production of boric acid.

"The method of producing electricity is to pump water into deep cased wells running 1200 to 1600 feet in depth from which steam and gases are produced . . . to drive turbines. While the pressures and temperatures are lower than those used in steam plants in the United States, the lack of current costs in the producion of steam makes the method practicable."

The volcanic plant at Larderello produced 487 million kilowatt hours of electricity in 1939 and 909 million in 1943, at which time it was damaged by a bomb.

"The 75,000-kilowatt expansion as part of the international program is already under construction," the statement said. "Its original planning was undertaken in 1940 and interrupted by the war. The civil engineering works are reported to be already well advanced. Turbines have been ordered and are under construction.

"Additional equipment to complete the project is included in the requirements of the international power program for which no financing will be needed prior to 1950."

Group Seeks To Void Wine, Beer License

For the second time in nine months, the Jenkins Corner (Md.) Citizens Association yesterday sought court relief from a decision of the Prince Georges County Board of Liquor Commissioners.

The civic group, immediately following the board's meeting at Upper Marlboro, filed an appeal with the county's Circuit Court asking it to void a beer and wine license issued to Joseph W. Shuler of Clinton.

Last September the association successfully fought a beer and wine license issued to Shuler for a restaurant in the Woodland subdivision.

At that time, the court overruled the liquor board on the grounds that Shuler's applications bore an insufficient number of names of qualified voters.

Three days ago the civic group appealed to Governor Lane to abolish the liquor board, charging "incompetence" and "willful neglect of duty."

The appeal to the Governor was similar to one sent to him by the group last February, which the Governor rejected after an investigation.

George G. McLeish, attorney for the civic association, said yesterday's court suit was based on the ground that the board's action in granting Shuler's license was "an arbitrary and capricious act, against the overwhelming wishes of the people."

New Arlington Detective Head Is Appointed

C. Burns Pressley, 38, yesterday was appointed chief of the Arlington County Detective Bureau to succeed Hugh C. Jones, who retires June 1 because of physical disability.

With the Arlington Police Department nearly 10 years, Pressley, who lives at 2138 N. Brandywine st., will have the rank of captain.

He served as a patrolman until 1942, then was promoted to plain-clothes work in the detective bureau. Before coming to the Arlington force, he had worked six years with the Virginia State police.

In 1941, he received a diploma from the Federal Bureau of Investigation's National Police Academy, and is currently enrolled in the FBI's police administration school.

Another promotion announced by Arlington Police Chief Harry Woodyard yesterday was that of Pvt. H. A. Barnett, 41, to uniform sergeant.

Barnett, who lives at 2411 Key blvd., has been on the Arlington force since 1936. A specialist in accident investigation, he also is enrolled in the FBI administration school.

Providence Hospital Deficit Put at $27,000 Last Year

By N. S. Haseltine
Post Reporter

Washingtonians had the opportunity yesterday to learn that even the most economically operated nonprofit hospitals here can't meet current expenses.

Occasion was "Open House Day" at Providence Hospital, pebble-dashed stucco landmark of Civil War Washington, 2d and D sts. se., in the shadow of the Capitol.

Dedicated to charity and operated to provide the most good for the greatest number, it last year paid out $27,000 more than it took in, after forgoing purchase of badly needed equipment or taking account of normal depreciation, according to Sister Marie, administrator.

Among those things the hospital couldn't buy (and hasn't been able to for years) were a fluoroscopic machine for its cardiac clinic (cost, approximately $2600), and food trucks (six needed at a cost of $700 each).

And Providence Hospital escapes much of the expense of normally operated nonprofit hospitals in that it has been run since it first opened in 1861 by the Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul, charitable religious order. Sisters of the order devote their lives, in 17-working-hour days, to the common cause.

Festivities yesterday included tours of the 340-bed, 60-bassinet institution which had its start 87 years ago when the Government appealed to the order for help to care for the Civil War wounded. The order has been serving the area ever since, in flush years and lean.

Beyond the normal views the visitor received in guided tours, other aspects of the hospital's operations were shown them in the nurses auditorium in a "Behind The Scenes" travelogue film of hospital care to a typical patient.

John A. Reilly, past president of the Washington Board of Trade and chairman of the hospital's advisory committee of lay members, said yesterday that hospital plans to relocate on grounds of Catholic University here "still await developments." The change of site was first advanced during war years under hopes a new hospital could be built on Federal sponsorship under the Lanham Act.

Now, said Reilly, a special appropriation from Congress would be needed. Such appropriation, he said, is not beyond hope.

"After all," declared Reilly, "the District does have some responsibility towards the care of its residents."

Sister Marie and Reilly disclosed yesterday that had Providence Hospital been paid for its care of city indigents at the same per capita rate paid Gallinger Municipal Hospital Providence would have received $100,000 for such service in 1947. Instead, it got nothing.

But Providence is proud. Proud of itself, and proud of its motto, "Providence Protects Us." It hopes that by this time next year the help its administrators feel they have the right to expect will be a reality. Then, said Sister Marie, the hospital could cut its rates to private-pay patients "who bear the brunt of our finances."

Already, some of that help is on its way. Sister Marie disclosed yesterday that the hospital had just signed a one-year contract with Group Hospitalization, Incorporated. Under the contract, she said, Providence will receive the GHI $11.61 a day for hospital care of GHI subscribers, a rise of $1.52 over previous rates.

The hospital, too, is looking forward to favorable Senate action on the bill authorizing payment to the hospital for its care of the District's indigent, at a tentative rate of $9 a day. And plans are underway for payment on hospital-costs' basis by Community Chest funds for care of the city's nontax-eligibles, said Sister Marie. At present, the hospitals receive a patient rate of $7.50 a day for such service.

How I Make A Finer Cup Of Tea

1. I buy the right brand... McCormick Tea Bags or packaged tea.
2. I make it the right way. With fresh, bubbling water—poured while boiling directly on tea. Brew 3 to 4 minutes.
3. I can always taste the difference. McCormick's has full body, sparkling color and "a wonderful flavor."

5 Detectives Deny Forcing Garner Confession

Five detectives testified in the District Court yesterday that Lawrence J. Garner, 23, and his brother, George Garner, 25, confessed the holdup killing of Howard Jones, 37, without having been beaten, mistreated or threatened.

Jones was killed the night of February 27, and the brothers were nabbed by the police on the night of March 2. Confessions that the two men were said to have signed after several hours of questioning at police headquarters were admitted into evidence yesterday by Justice Richmond B. Keech, after he rejected defense contentions that they were extorted from the Garners by several hours of beating, kicking and abuse.

Lawrence Garner gave the justice a long account of the alleged brutality. When several officers were lined up before him in the courtroom, he pointed out Detective Sergts. Dan B. Kennedy and Nunzio Bonaccorsy as two of those who struck him during his examination. Both the officers and others denied these charges from the witness stand later in the trial.

Dr. Martin L. Cannon, physician at the District jail, testified that on March 4 he made an examination of the Garner brothers at the jail, and said that he found Lawrence had bruises on his body, a contusion behind his right ear, where the defendant claims he was kicked by the police, a tenderness in the groin and marks under the right shoulder.

Dr. Cannon said, upon being questioned by Assistant District Attorney Arthur J. McLaughlin, that he did not know Lawrence Groner had a fight with a taxi driver.

Lieut. Edwin B. Scott, head of the robbery squad, was another who testified that the Garners made full confessions without being subjected to violence.

Besides the Jones murder, the Garner brothers are accused of the holdup killing of James Hardy, 38, on the same night as the Jones death.

Defense Attorneys John Alvin Groghan and Lewis Jongbloet contend that the Garners are not legally responsible, having inherited a trait of insanity that has run in their family for four generations.

Woman Found Hanged At St. Elizabeths

A 58-year-old woman patient at St. Elizabeths Hospital, was found dead there yesterday—suspended from a door by a rope fashioned from bed sheets.

She was Mrs. Anna M. Shortland, wife of James W. Shortland of 1801 Wyoming ave. nw. The body was discovered by an attendant. She had been at St. Elizabeths since 1947. The coroner was investigating.

Bullock Gets 'Watchdog' Committee Staff Post

Dr. Roy J. Bullock, former director of the school of business economics at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, has been named agent for German affairs on the staff of the congressional "watchdog" committee on Foreign Economic Cooperation.

Chairman Bridges (R., N. H.) announced Dr. Bullock's appointment yesterday.

Bullock has served as chief of the export-import section of the military government for Germany.

Wright Named Head Of Hospital Group

Frederick, Md., May 27 (Spl.).—Benjamin W. Wright, superintendent of Memorial Hospital of Cumberland, Md., was elected president of the Maryland-District of Columbia Hospital Association today at its spring meeting here.

Wright will assume office in the fall. He was elected after Brady J. Dayton, administrator of Peninsula General Hospital, Salisbury, president-elect, resigned. Dayton had been elected last fall.

J. G. Caposela, administrator of Emergency Hospital, Washington, D. C., is current president.

America's security is more than ever dependent upon the maintenance of the Nation's supremacy in the air, John F. Victory of Washington, executive secretary of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, told a dinner session tonight. The meeting will end tomorrow.

Victory, who discussed "Really High-Speed Flight and Its Reaction to Security," spoke in place of the scheduled speaker, John C. McGarraghy, former president of the Washington Board of Trade, who was unable to appear.

A medical audit to evaluate the professional efficiency of all physicians treating patients in hospitals was suggested by Rear Admiral Dallas G. Sutton (MC USN (Ret.), director of study of the Government Hospital Relations, Washington Service Bureau of the American Hospital Association, at the afternoon session.

Others on today's program included Mrs. Francis F. Beirne, president of the board of managers of Union Memorial Hospital, Baltimore, who emphasized the role of trustees in relations with the hospital, patients and the general public; Randolph G. Bishop, trustee of Suburban Hospital, Bethesda, who stressed frank and understanding cooperation" between trustees and administrators, and William M. Storm, president of the board of trustees of Frederick Memorial Hospital, who described the institution's recent campaign to raise $600,000 for enlarging the hospital.

Receiving Home Rolls Show Gain

The number of children at the District Receiving Home in April was 26.3 per cent greater than that of the same month in 1947, the Department of Public Welfare revealed yesterday in its monthly report.

Industrial Home School showed a 14.4 per cent increase, but population at National Training School for Girls dropped 80 per cent during the same period, the report said.

Slight increases were noted in one-person general public assistance cases (2 per cent) and families applying for aid to dependent children (1.7 per cent). Family cases on general assistance decreased 4 per cent.

District Bar Pays Tribute To Members Dead Since Nov. 11

Memorial services for members of the District Bar Association who died since November 11, 1947, were held by the association yesterday in the courtroom of the United States Court of Appeals.

Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson, formerly one of the appellate justices, led the procession of black-robed justices and judges which opened the exercises.

Attorney Spencer Gordon paid tribute to the memory of the departed barristers. He remarked that some, veterans of the bar, had served for close to half a century while others were stricken in the prime of life. In many cases overwork and concern over their clients' welfare were, in no small part a contributing factor to their death, he said.

The invocation and benediction were pronounced by Rear Admiral William N. Thomas, chief of chaplains of the Navy. George E. McNeil, president of the Bar Association, presided.

Godfrey L. Munter, chairman of the memorial committee and former association president, called the roll of deceased members. They were:

Seiforde M. Stellwagen, William L. Browning, Isidore H. Minovitz, R. Aubrey Bogley, Harry T. Whelan, Harrison B. McCawley, Louis Addison Dent, Henry I. Quinn, Patrick H. Loughran, John C. Donnally, William Joseph Neale, Rossa F. Downing, Philip Wagshal, Bynum E. Hinton, Walter R. Schoenberg, Lucas P. Loving, William H. Wahly, Isaac R. Hitt, James E. McCabe, Harry B. Hawes, Richard T. Andree.

Dennis A. Lyons, Joseph A. Padway, Rudolph H. Yeatman, Charles F. Wilson, George R. Shields, G. Carroll Todd, Nathan R. Margold, John J. Hamilton, Robert Conroy, Walter C. English, Challen B. Ellis, Richard A. Harman, George E. Martin and William H. Shipley.

Husband's Suit Blames Doctor For Woman's 'Living Death'

Savannah, Ga., May 27 (U.P.).—Meyer Haysman in a damage suit against a physician charged today that his wife was turned into a sleeping beauty" by an operation that has left her unconscious for two years.

Haysman said his wife, Corine, 33, has been insensible since May 29, 1946, when, he said, Dr. H. C. French performed an operation intended to enable Mrs. Haysman to have children.

Haysman sued French for $50,000 damages and asked an additional $12,481 for his alleged expenses in a world-wide search to restore his wife to consciousness.

Mrs. Haysman reportedly has the appearance of death except for regular breathing and the rhythmic beating of her heart. She is fed entirely through a tube leading into her stomach.

Her eyes are open but "she neither sees, nor feels nor understands," Haysman's suit charged.

Haysman said his wife consulted Dr. French about her inability to have children. The doctor told her, the suit alleged, that he would perform a minor operation under a local anesthetic.

Haysman said the doctor used sodium penothal as the anesthetic and that "negligence in performance of the operation and in administration of the drug resulted in an air bubble entering the bloodstream."

The air bubble, Haysman said, caused "anoxemic damage to the nervous system and degeneration of brain tissue."

His wife has never recovered consciousness and never will recover, the suit stated.

RENNET DESSERTS WITH JELLY
2 cups milk (not canned)
1 package "Junket" Rennet Powder, vanilla flavor
Tart red jelly, grape jam, cranberry jelly, etc.
Prepare rennet dessert mixture according to directions on package — takes only a couple of minutes. Pour mixture at once, while still liquid, over jelly or jam in dessert glasses. Do not move until set —about 15 minutes. Then chill. Just before serving top with a spoonful of jelly or with chopped nuts [for adults].

Arnold Line Due For $40,000 Profit

The Washington, Virginia & Maryland Coach Co. will make a profit of about $40,000 this year as compared with a 1947 loss of $285,000.

Crandon

In noting the Arnold Lines swing from red to black ink, General Manage M. D. Mills announced that his post would be taken over June 1 by E. G. Crandon, 53, now his assistant.

Mills, who took over complete operation of the bus line four months ago at the request of an Arnold creditor, the Buffalo, N. Y., Marine Trust Co., said the line "doesn't need any fare increase now."

One reason Mills gave for the company's rising income was his action in paring two money-losing routes operating south of Columbia pike. Both now are being run by the A. B. & W. Co.

Another money-saver is the new Arnold average of one equipment breakdown for every 4000 miles, as compared with one in 300 miles a year ago.

The Arnold Lines still faces a long-term debt of $1,185,000, Mills pointed out, a liability actually in excess of the company's current market value. Since he took over the line, Mills said, $50,000 of the debt already has been paid off.

He emphasized that operation of the line will be completely under the control of new general manager Crandon, not of Joseph Arnold, owner of the company.

Crandon, a specialist in reviving financially weak transportation systems, came with Mills to Arlington from the Oklahoma City (Okla.) Railroad Co. His address is 303 S. Abingdon st., Arlington.

During the war, he worked with the Office of Defense Transportation's regional office in Chicago, and earlier, with transit systems in Minnesota, Michigan, and Missouri.

Montgomery Gaming Appeal Lost by Hill

A Montgomery County Circuit Court conviction of Peter H. Hill, 33, of 8010 Eastern dr. on a charge of accepting racing bets was upheld yesterday by the Maryland Court of Appeals.

Hill, who was fined $1000 and sentenced to nine months in prison, appealed the case on the grounds he was illegally searched by police when arrested last August 16.

The Appellate Court ruled yesterday the police search of Hill's person for scratch sheets and other bookies paraphernalia was lawful and dismissed the appeal.

It was the second Montgomery County case to be ruled on within a week by the Court of Appeals. Earlier, a $1000 fine and a one-year prison term for gaming imposed on Wilburn E. Morrow, 52, was set aside. Morrow's lawyers contended the lower court refused to admit in evidence a document which purported to prove Morrow was in South Carolina at the time of the alleged offense.

Eccles Won't Take Vice-Chairmanship

By the United Press

Mystery surrounding President Truman's demotion of Federal Reserve Chairman Marriner S. Eccles grew deeper last night when Eccles told the President he is no longer willing to accept the vice chairmanship of the board.

Eccles

Mr. Truman ousted Eccles from the chairmanship four months ago and named a Republican banker, Thomas B. McCabe of Philadelphia, to succeed him.

The Chief Executive refused to explain his action and compounded the mystery by warmly praising Eccles for his 12-year record as chairman, and publicly urging him to remain on the board as vice chairman. Eccles accepted.

But Mr. Truman never actually named him to the vice chairmanship.

Tired of Waiting

In a letter written Wednesday and made public last night, Eccles revealed for the first time that he asked Mr. Truman on April 16 to forget about making him vice chairman, but the President replied that he still wanted that arrangement.

Eccles made it clear, however, that he was tired of waiting for the President to act.

"Four months have now elapsed," he wrote, "since you first requested me to accept the vice chairmanship, and nearly a month and a half since you reiterated that request.

"Under these circumstances and in view of other developments, I wish to withdraw my name from any further consideration for designation as vice chairman."

Eccles did not explain his reference to "other developments."

Eccles Won't Resign

There have been unofficial rumors circulating here that Mr. Truman was delaying the appointment in the hope that Eccles would be goaded into resigning from the board entirely.

But Eccles made it emphatically clear that he has no intention of quitting.

"I shall continue to serve as a member of the board," he advised Mr. Truman.

His term runs until 1958.

President Truman has repeatedly refused to answer news conference questions about his reasons for demoting Eccles, a Utah banker who was one of the early New Deal "brain trust" officials of the late President Roosevelt's regime.

1 Out of 2 Has Athlete's Foot

Chicago, May 27 (U.P.).—Half of all Americans have athlete's foot, two doctors said tonight.

G. T. Stafford and C. O. Jackson of the University of Illinois said most persons, especially adults, have athlete's foot a number of times, but that the great majority of cases are mild.

The fungus that causes the disease is found chiefly in locker, shower and dressing rooms, on shoes, garters, towels and other fabrics, and on the human body.

The doctors recommended that floors and other places likely to be contaminated be scrubbed and treated with a fungicide at least once a week.

Shoes and stockings should be dusted with a suitable powder, they said, and fungi on the body should be treated with a non-irritating liquid germicide.

$249,000 Power Gain Earned by Hagerstown

Hagerstown, Md., May 27 (AP).—Hagerstown's municipally owned electric plant earned a net profit of $249,000 last year, Commercial Manager Paul Dullabaun reported today.

The figure is $47,000 below that of the previous year. Dullabaun said coal cost the plant $47,000 more in 1947 and labor charges were $24,000 higher.

New Drug Found for Birth Pains

New York, May 27 (U.P.).—Effective use of a drug known as heavy nupercaine for the relief of pain in childbirth labor was reported today by two physicians.

Doctors Max L. Berlowe and Francis L. Herrick of New Haven, Conn., based their report on a series of 200 cases.

They said one injection gives complete relief from labor pains. They found deep administration into the spine was the most satisfactory technique.

They said that while heavy nupercaine is much more toxic than most other anesthetics, it can be administered in minute amounts.

They said the drug should not be used in attempting to eliminate or ease all pain associated with childbirth. They said that other drugs are available to ease early pain.

School Playground Color Bar Debated

The Recreation Department's policy of operating school playgrounds on a segregated basis was attacked yesterday by 20 civic and labor groups and defended by 6.

Representatives of the organizations appearing before the Board of Education's committee on community use of buildings and grounds told the board it should withhold recreational use of its playgrounds and schools as long as the segregation policy exists.

Six groups, including the Federation of Citizens Associations, defended segregation in recreation.

After the 26 organizations were heard, Committee Chairman Albert E. Steinem adjourned the hearings. A date will be set later to hear additional speakers, he said.

The committee has before it a request of the Recreation Department to use school playgrounds and buildings over the summer for a recreational program.

The hearing was held at the request of two Negro members of the board, Mrs. Velma G. Williams and George E. C. Hayes, after the Recreation Department refused several interracial groups permission to meet in school buildings.

Paul Cook, speaking for the Council for Civil Rights in the Nation's Capital, said:

"The Council for Civil Rights believes that segregation in recreation is a denial of democratic principles, contrary to the intent of Congress, contrary to the policy of the United States Government, and actually blind to community patterns."

Cook submitted a series of pictures showing groups of Negro and white children playing together on playgrounds and streets.

Mrs. Ethel Weisman, representing the Women's Auxiliary of United Public Workers, CIO, said that playgrounds of white schools in areas where Negroes live "stand empty and locked" after school hours while Negro children play in the streets.

Speaking for the Federation of Citizens Associations and the Petworth Citizens Association, Ernest F. Henry said "the existing pattern of segregation in public education and recreation in the District is the foundation of harmonious relations between the whites and Negroes."

A segregated policy "coincides with the private practices of our citizens in their every-day economic and social relationships," he said.

Speaking in favor of segregation were: Ralph W. Donnelly of the Brentwood Terrace Citizens Association and the Northeast Council of Citizens Associations; A. D. Calvert, president of the Lincoln Park Citizens Association; and Mrs. William Rogers of the Grant School Parent-Teachers Association, and the West End Citizens Association.

Organizations that opposed the policy were: Association of Oldest Inhabitants (Negro); National Association for the Advancement of Colored People; Washington Chapter, Americans for Democratic Action; Washington Industrial Union Council; Midway Civic Association; East Central Civic Association; Baptist Ministers' Conference of Washington and Vicinity; Federation of Civic Associations; American Federation of Teachers, AFL; Voteless League of Women Voters; Citizens Committee Against Segregation in Recreation; Pleasant Plains Civic Association; American Veterans Committee; Kingman Park Civic Association; Washington League of Women Shoppers; Washington Ethical Society; Washington Pacifist Fellowship; Northwest Settlement House.

State Appeal Right Upheld In Maryland

Annapolis, Md., May 27 (AP).—The Court of Appeals ruled yesterday that the State of Maryland "has the right of appeals" from trial magistrates' decision.

The court dismissed the appeal of John E. Robb, Washington, who claimed double jeopardy—or two trials for the same offense.

Robb, charged with manslaughter by automobile, was found innocent by a trial magistrate; the State appealed, and Robb was convicted in Prince Georges County Circuit Court and sentenced to 12 months.

"The provision against double jeopardy, being a common law defense, the legislature abrogated that rule . . . and gave the State the right of appeal from the trial magistrate," the court held.

In another decision, the court ruled that "bad court room manners on the part of a judge do not necessarily prejudice a man who is being tried before him."

It upheld a Baltimore Criminal Court conviction of Daniel Apple for assault and battery last year on a picket line during a strike at the Bethlehem Steel Co.'s shipbuilding division. Apple contended the judge showed prejudice in the lower court trial.

The appellate court also upheld the right of Maryland courts to handle rent cases.

In another decision, the court upheld a decree ordering Guy S. Kidwell, 48, of Hagerstown to pay alimony to Mrs. Lucile Enora Kidwell, 46.

Supersonic Speed Story Is Ruled No Violation

Attorney General Tom C. Clark said yesterday the magazine Aviation Week cannot be prosecuted for disclosing last November that an Air Force plane had flown faster than the speed of sound.

Clark told a news conference his attorneys found, after an investigation, that the magazine violated no Federal law.

"Even if the disclosure were top secret," Clark said, "we could not proceed against the magazine under the law."

BRITAIN'S CONDUCT

as reviewed by the eminent Englishman Lyall Wilkes, Member of Parliament, in his "Letter to the Editor of The London Times", on May 22, 1948.

To the Editor of The London Times: Sir,—Major-General Sir Edward Spears, in stating that Zionism has endangered British bases in the Mediterranean and represents a threat to British strategic interests, surely conveniently forgets not only that many of the present Arab political and military leaders, including Fawzi El Kawukji and the Mufti, either spent the war in Germany working for Hitler or had to be interned by us, but forgets also what happened in the Middle East between 1939 and 1945.

In 1944 Brigadier Glubb (now leading the Arab Legion in its assault against Jerusalem, and no pro-Zionist surely), writing when the Arab war effort was still close enough to defy even Foreign Office attempts to romanticize it, said:—

> At the time of these operations every Arab was perfectly convinced that Britain was finished for ever and that it could only be a question of weeks before Germany took over Arabia. The Iraqis were perfectly sure of this or they would not have declared war on us . . . in brief, during the six weeks before the fall of Baghdad every Arab was convinced that we were done for. Every Arab force previously organized by us mutinied and refused to fight for us or faded away in desertions. (Pages 214-215 of Somerset de Chair's "The Golden Carpet.")

No doubt when Glubb wrote this he would remember (what General Spears has forgotten) that, although the Jewish population in Palestine was only half that of the Arab, more than twice the number of Jews volunteered for service to protect our Mediterranean position: and that at the time when the Iraqis declared war against us, and British tanks had to be driven into the Abdin Palace yard to compel King Farouk's consent to the appointment of a pro-British Government under Nahas Pasha, Haganah men were being dropped as British agents in enemy territory, that Haganah was recognized by G.H.Q. as the one reliable local defence force and Palestine the one base whose loyalty was never in doubt for a moment.

And what now? No doubt if British officers and British-supplied tanks and aeroplanes continue the destruction of Jewish settlements and life we shall earn the bitter hatred of the Jews of Palestine. Is that surprising—a symptom of Zionist original sin? It is a policy choice for the British Government which will determine whether Israel becomes once more an ally, as in the war, or an enemy beleaguered by British arms and equipment who must look elsewhere for aid for sheer survival. And may I say that our attitude—that Israel must show itself capable of functioning before being recognized by us—would sound more honest if it were not troops trained and equipped by British military missions, and the British officered and subsidized Arab Legion, which were at war with Israel to prevent precisely that functioning?

Does public opinion at home appreciate (as it does abroad) that every tank and aeroplane now being used by the Arabs has been supplied from the United Kingdom; that the British air mission is still functioning in Iraq; that British missions are now working, training, and re-equipping Arab armies in Saudi Arabia and Iraq; that between 1945 and 1947 we supplied Egypt alone with 40 military aircraft, 38 scout cars, and 298 carriers, apart from a great quantity of small arms and light equipment; that the Arab Legion now waging war is wholly subsidized by us with £2,000,000 a year and is commanded by 38 British officers; that Transjordan under the March, 1948, treaty is bound to "undertake not to adopt in regard to foreign countries an attitude which is inconsistent with the alliance or might create difficulties for the other party thereto"; that no word of protest has come from the British Government at the Arab invasions, but that the Jews within the boundaries given them by the United Nations partition decision (which still stands) are denied arms by the British?

Finally, the Foreign Office viewpoint conveyed by your Diplomatic Correspondent on May 20 that "it should not be assumed that Transjordan is acting as an aggressor until it can be shown that she has acted aggressively towards another State" (obviously meaning a State recognized by us) smacks a little too much of the legalistic chicanery of the thirties which reduced Japan's war on Manchuria to the status of an "incident" and in so doing destroyed the League of Nations. Will we never learn that we cannot subsidize aggression in the Middle East and oppose it in Greece or Persia—that to climb now into the grandstand and attempt to wash our hands of responsibility for the slaughter perpetrated by our Spitfires and British trained and officered Arab troops is conduct utterly unworthy of the traditions of a great nation and indicates a moral degeneration within the political leadership of this country far more alarming than any signs of a merely materialistic or economic decline?

I am, Sir, yours, &c.,

Margarine Tax Repeal Bill Favored

By The Associated Press

Without a dissenting vote the Senate Finance Committee yesterday approved the House-passed oleomargarine tax repeal bill.

But it tacked on an amendment that would require public eating places serving colored oleo to post signs saying so.

The vote on the bill was 12 to 0, on the amendment 10 to 2.

Senator Taft (R., Ohio), chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee and also a member of the Finance Committee, said the policy group will meet today to decide when to bring the oleo measure up for Senate debate.

The bill would repeal the 10-cent a pound tax on colored oleo, the quarter cent a pound tax on uncolored oleo, and the license fees charged manufacturers and distributors. The fees range as high as $600 a year.

The tax was first ordered 62 years ago. Those who still favor it, mainly from dairy States, contend it is necessary to raise funds to pay investigators to see that oleo is not passed off as butter. Opponents, including legislators from cotton oil States, claim the tax is discriminatory, and keeps eating prices high.

In a statement to the Finance Committee, Senator Ball (R., Minn.) said removal of the tax would force the price of milk upwards, and also enable oleo producers to increase their prices "regardless of costs."

Ball said milk prices would climb because farmers would reduce their dairy herds and cut milk production.

Ball is sponsor of an amendment to cut fees to a flat $1 and keep the 10-cent tax on colored oleo.

However, he said that House passage of the oleo tax repeal bill, and a test vote in the Senate "indicate that sooner or later the bill will pass."

By The Associated Press

The House passed a record $375,692,591 Interior Department appropriation bill yesterday.

In doing so, it provided, in effect, for the dismissal of Reclamation Commissioner Michael W. Straus and Director Richard L. Boke of the bureau's Sacramento regional office.

Straus

The bill, sent to the Senate, allots $226,794,897 for the reclamation program in the west for the 12 months beginning July 1, and lesser sums for the National Park Service, Bureau of Mines, Fish and Wildlife Service, Bureau of Indian Affairs, Geological Survey and other Interior Department agencies.

Less Than Truman Request

The House increased by only $15,000 the amount recommended by its Appropriations Committee. The $15,000 was added to the fund for national monuments administered by the National Park Service.

The total is $112,891,532 more than was appropriated to the Interior Department for this year, but $84,278,244 less than asked by President Truman.

Removal of Straus and Boke, who have been under fire in Congress, was provided through adoption of an amendment by Representative Elliott (D., Calif.) requiring that the positions of commissioner, assistant commissioner and regional director in the Reclamation Bureau be filled by engineers of at least 10 years engineering experience. Neither Straus nor Boke is an engineer.

The amendment was approved, 59 to 32, on a standing vote, after Elliott accused the two officials of "incompetence" and said the bureau had degenerated into a propaganda agency.

Gore Opposes Amendment

Representative Gore (D., Tenn.) opposed the amendment, asserting that the high positions in the Reclamation Service are essentially administrative, not engineering.

Dismissal of Straus and Boke was recommended several weeks ago by Representative Harness (R., Ind.), chairman of the House Subcommittee on Publicity and Propaganda, which is investigating charges by Elliott and Senator Downey (D., Calif.) that high officials of the Reclamation Bureau and the Interior Department are using public funds for illegal propaganda in the Central Valley of California, meanwhile "designedly delaying" the Central Valley project.

Missouri U. Teacher Faces Sex Charges

Columbia, Mo., May 27 (AP)—A University of Missouri journalism professor was charged with sodomy today as Prosecutor Howard B. Lang, jr., pieced together what he described as a near-fantastic story of "mad homosexual parties" in this college town.

The prosecuting attorney said he had issued a warrant for the arrest of E. K. Johnston, 50, for 24 years a member of the faculty of the university's school of journalism, after a long investigation into abnormal orgies here and in other central Missouri cities.

Two other men were held in Boone County Jail on similar charges. They are Willie Coots, 39, a gift shop employe here, and Warren W. Heathman, 35, Rolla, Mo., itinerant instructor for the Veterans Administration farm training program.

Johnston pleaded innocent at his arraignment and was held on $3500 bond. Coots and Heathman waived their preliminary hearings. Their bonds were fixed at $2500 each.

Lang said both had signed statements implicating Johnston in what he called a homosexual "ring" at Johnston's apartment. Coots had shared the apartment for 15 or 16 years.

At least a score of students and other residents here are implicated, Lang said.

Heathman told a story of parties at Johnston's apartment and at a cabin near Salem, Mo., Lang said, in which as many as 30 members of the "ring" gathered to indulge in homosexual practices.

Johnston recently served as acting dean of journalism. He sat on the rostrum yesterday and participated in the annual awards to honor students.

10 Dead in Northwest Floods

Richland, Wash., May 27 (AP).—Flood waters washed over large areas of the northwestern United States and southwestern Canada today leaving at least 10 persons dead. Thousands of persons were driven from their homes.

Hardest hit were the Bonners Ferry sector of north Idaho, where the Kootenai River played havoc with the dikes, and British Columbia.

Flood waters of the Columbia River moved into the trailer camp and highway area adjacent to the Hanford atomic energy plant.

Several thousand persons were estimated to have moved out of trailer camps, which were flooded or threatened by the snow-swollen river.

There was no threat to the Hanford project itself.

Three members of a Canadian Pacific Railway freight crew died near Lundbreck, Alta., when their train plunged into a high-running creek. A bridge had been washed out.

Seven deaths previously had been attributed to the flood waters in the Pacific Northwest States.

Women, children, elderly persons and invalids have been ordered to leave Bonners Ferry in the face of increasingly serious flood conditions. Thousands of acres in that area have been under water for several days.

Scores of families were reported forced from their homes at and near Kimberley, B. C., where estimates of flood damage ran as high as one million dollars.

Public officials estimated 5000 persons were involved in trailer camp evacuations between Richland, the Hanford project headquarters, and the towns of Pasco and Kennewick a dozen miles west.

3 Police Testify At Gambling Probe

Club Official Says Police Were Polite

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

Three more police officials yesterday appeared before the special grand jury probing Washington's gambling.

They were Inspector Arthur E. Miller, chief of the Traffic Division; Capt. Clyde N. Strange, head of the Second Precinct, and Capt. Archie M. Winfree of the Sixth Precinct.

All ranking police officers are expected to be called in the investigation to provide whatever information they have about gambling activities.

Inspector Miller has headed the city's traffic enforcement work since 1940, and prior to that he served as captain of the First and Third Precincts. At one time, while chief of the Third Precinct, he personally led an anti-gambling drive there.

Capt. Strange's Second Precinct is known, as a central city precinct, to have a heavy gambling rate, and with the 13th Precinct provides a large portion of the District's arrests for all categories of law violations.

Onetime head of the robbery squad, Capt. Strange was assistant to Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett when the latter was chief of the Detective Bureau.

Capt. Winfree has been in command of the Sixth Precinct since last August, and prior to that he was captain of the Seventh Precinct for about seven years.

Each of the police officials was before the grand jury for about an hour yesterday, and all declined to comment to reporters.

In what appeared to be another effort to maintain secrecy, the grand jury yesterday met at a new location in the District Court Building, abandoning the room it used for the first three days of the week.

Since it began its sessions on May 18, the special jury is known to have met in three different jury or courtrooms, two of them in District Court and one in the criminal division of Municipal Court.

Congressional Country Club Manager A. E. Martin yesterday said the two Montgomery County detectives who closed down the club's bingo games "behaved like perfect gentlemen."

President Brooke Johns of the county's board of commissioners, had charged the two detective corporals, Carroll Miller and William Whalen, were "impolite" and "didn't even take off their hats" when they entered the club.

Martin, who received Miller and Whalen said: "As far as I'm concerned, the two officers behaved as perfect gentlemen. He said they were "definitely not impolite" and added: "I don't know where the information came from that they were."

Asked whether the policemen kept their hats on, Martin said he could not recall definitely but he believed they had them in their hands.

Johns' charges were made after he called a special meeting of the county commissioners to intercede on the club's behalf.

"The games had been going on for at least three years," Johns said, "and police should have given more notice instead of closing them down immediately."

Police Chief Charles M. Orme, meanwhile, said he had investigated and found the two detectives were not forgetful of their manners.

"I have implicit faith in my detectives," he added.

Navy Asks Use of Tract Another Year

The Department of the Interior, whose National Park Service has been trying for about a year to oust the Navy from the former West Potomac Park polo field, has received a Navy request to allow its two barracks to remain there until June 30, 1949.

More than 1000 enlisted men and about 350 Waves now quartered in the barracks between the Tidal Basin and the Potomac River would have to move out by fall under previous Park Service plans to reclaim the area by October 1.

Park officials want to relocate there the Potomac Park rose garden which was removed to make way for the approach to the new 14th st. bridge, now under construction. It is also planned to raise the level of the land where the barracks stand, by using silt to be dredged by the Army engineers from the Georgetown Channel.

In requesting extension of the Navy's occupancy, Undersecretary W. John Kenney said it would be an "economic as well as a material benefit" to the Government.

Eventually, he said, some of the personnel could be quartered elsewhere, but others would be placed on daily subsistence, which "never covers the full amount of board and rent in Washington."

A Navy spokesman pointed out that the cost of new barracks elsewhere would be much higher now than when the Potomac Park structures were built early in the war.

The decision is up to Interior Secretary J. A. Krug, who has not indicated his reaction to the request. A. E. Demaray, associate director of the Park Service's Washington liaison office, said yesterday the department would give "careful consideration" to the Navy's proposal.

10 Candy Firms Accused as Monopolists

By the United Press

The Federal Trade Commission yesterday accused 10 candy and confectionery firms, including the makers of Wrigley's gum, Luden's cough drops and Oh Henry and Clark candy bars, of violating the Robinson-Patman anti-monopoly law.

Four counts cited centered on allegations that the companies gave special low prices to favored customers, such as vending machine concerns and chain stores, thus lessening competition and tending to create a monopoly in the manufacture and sale of candy and confectionery products.

The concerns, which were given 20 days to reply to the charges, are:

Wayne Candies, Inc. Fort Wayne, Ind., makers of frostly nougat, buns, chop suey, triple hit and flip candy bars; Meister Candies, Inc., Cambridge, Wis., makers of cherrie bar, Swiss lunch, brown beauty and others; Luden's, Inc., Reading, Pa., makers of 5th avenue bar and Luden's cough drops; D. L. Clark Co., makers of Clark bar and others; the Williamson Candy Co., Chicago, makers of Oh Henry, Amos 'n' Andy and long distance candy bars.

Bunte Bros., Inc., Chicago, makers of tango, blizzard and other bars; the Sperry Candy Co., Milwaukee, makers of chicken dinner, danger sandwich and hot turkey candy bars; the Queen Candy Co., Hammond, Ind., makers cream-o-nut and other cnady bars; the Switzer's Licorice Co., St. Louis, makers of Switzer's old-fashioned licorice twist, and William Wrigley, jr., Co., Chicago, makers of Wrigley's chewing gum.

3 Rail Unions Ask Dismissal of Order Forbidding Strike

By the United Press

Three rail unions yesterday asked Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough to dismiss his court order forbidding a strike on the Government-seized railroads.

They said in a brief that the Government had no legal right to obtain any temporary restraining order against them and has no right to get an injunction.

The brief was filed by Carl McFarland, attorney for the three unions involved. They are the Switchmen's Union, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

Goldsborough issued his order forbidding them to strike early this month after the Government seized the lines in the face of a walkout threat. He granted a 10-day extension of the order last week.

Goldsborough has scheduled a hearing for 10 a. m. today on the Government's petition for a preliminary injunction to replace the temporary order, which is good only through Saturday.

Gravedigging

This newspaper has protested vigorously the efforts of certain Southern Senators to bog down selective service legislation with an amendment requiring racial segregation. We think the present move by Senator Langer to tie in virtually the whole civil rights program as a rider to the draft is no less vicious. Whatever their individual merits—and we support most of them—these measures are extraneous. They are not now being considered on merit. The only purpose that can be seen in Senator Langer's blanketing maneuver is to invite a filibuster and send the whole draft program crashing in defeat. The national security is too important to permit of such throttling tactics. We hope Mr. Langer's colleagues can talk him out of the awful responsibility he would take upon himself. Anything that delays the draft now damages the hope of maintaining peace.

Pressure On The French

Evidently the French are feeling the Anglo-American pressure to agree to the setting up of a provisional federal government for western Germany. We have always felt that the French view was correct in balking at such a development. And we think they will do a disservice to their own interests and to the interests of Europe by abandoning their opposition, no matter what the quid pro quo. The case against a centralized government in Germany is much more than the verdict of history that in the 20s Jacques Bainville clearly foreshadowed. It has been buttressed by two developments: the Soviet partition of Germany and the entry of the Marshall Plan.

Soviet partition of Germany puts the Soviet in a position at any time to outsmart the Western powers in the matter of German governments. By setting up a provisional government, we should be encouraging irredentism; the Soviet, however, could satisfy irredentism. It could establish a unity government in Berlin, with a pledge to restore the "lost lands of the East," at controlled Poland's expense. There are those who think the coup in Prague was due to the Soviet need of stifling Czech as well as Polish opposition against this contingency. Already Moscow, to the discomfort of the satellites, has been showing a marked pro-German hand at the meetings of the U. N.'s European Economic Committee. It must not be forgotten, either, that the Soviet has up its sleeve von Paulus and his Soviet retrained German army as a gift to Germany.

But the second argument, viz, the Marshall Plan, against a provisional government in western Germany is even more powerful. Marshall Europe sowed the seeds of federation in Europe, but no federation can succeed without the German workshop. And this is the more likely to be put at the service of Marshall Europe if western Germany is allowed to remain in separate segments. It would be more sensible and less provocative (for Germany as well as Soviet Russia) to give each of these segments membership in the Paris Committee of Economic Cooperation which is dealing with the Marshall Plan, and, when the time comes to negotiate a settlement with Soviet Russia over Germany, to aim at the integration of the remainder of Germany into a federated Europe. Even if federation remains in the talking stage, nothing tighter than a commonwealth system for Germany should be envisaged.

George Polk

The cooperation extended by the Greek government should put at rest the premature criticisms that have arisen in connection with the murder of George Polk, Columbia Broadcasting System correspondent, whose trussed body was found in Salonika Bay. Mr. Polk was killed only a few days after he had set out to interview the Greek Communist leader, General Markos. A committee of the Overseas Writers Club is now inquiring into the death, with the assistance of Gen. William J. Donovan, wartime OSS chief.

If the Rightists in the Athens government, meaning the extremists of the Populist Party, were responsible for the death of Mr. Polk, it may be taken for granted that the two Liberal ministers in charge of the investigation, those for Public Order and Justice, would, in the circumstances of Greek politics, be eager to track down the evidence. But why should the Populists want to bump off George Polk? We raise the question as a newspaper which from time to time has been critical of the action or nonaction of the Populists. But in our view nothing that Markos might have said to George Polk and nothing in George Polk's name or work could have caused such trepidation in Populist ranks as to warrant his murder.

The inquiry may or may not shed light on an affair which cut short a promising career. It must always be borne in mind that Greece is grappling with a rebellion, and that, in consequence, onlookers are apt to get hurt in the normal way of going about their business. After their recent reverse the Communists decided as a diversion to use assassination as a campaign tactic, and managed to kill the Minister of Justice, Christos Ladas. It may well be, therefore, that George Polk was killed by the Communists themselves, if not to cause an embarrassing incident for the government then as a sacrifice during a pursuit in Salonika Bay.

Diplomatic Initiative

It would seem elementary that the first rule in dealings with Soviet Russia is to make an effort (or a stab) at sifting propaganda from diplomacy. Otherwise we might as well break off relations and leave a settlement to the military. In the recent exchanges our own guess was that the Russian end of them was 75 per cent propaganda and 25 per cent diplomacy. By this we mean that the Russians may not be averse to a breathing spell for reorientation and consolidation.

Mr. Charles E. Bohlen, counselor of the State Department, does not share this view, that the Kremlin mixed diplomacy with propaganda. In a speech at Tucson he called the Soviet notes all propaganda and wants Americans to keep their nostrils alert for more propaganda. So far as it goes, the warning is timely. But equally timely would be an admonition to the State Department to keep its own nostrils alert—for diplomacy. What Secretary Marshall was doing while Mr. Bohlen was speaking was welcome in this connotation. It showed that the State Department's nostrils had become, if belatedly, alerted to the diplomacy back of the recent communications out of Moscow. A catalog of Soviet violations of pacts and treaties has been provided to the Senate Foreigns Relations Committee at its request. Secretary Marshall followed this up with a new bid to Moscow for a conference on Danubian questions at Belgrade.

The hope in Europe is that an international regime might be restored on the 1750-mile (from the Black Forest to the Black Sea) Danube for the purpose of protecting freedom of navigation along this great European artery. The promise to do so is explicit in a declaration in the satellite peace treaties, that navigation on the Danube should be free and open for the nationals, vessels of commerce and goods of all states. As it is, the waterway is severed about 250 miles from the source, viz, at Linz, in Austria, with the Russians in control of the lower Danube, and hitherto adamant against any restoration of an international regime for the whole course of the waterway.

In Soviet estimation the Danube question is all of a piece with the question of the Straits. As a delta power Russia is unwilling to allow any other than Black Sea powers to have a say about the Black Sea and the Straits. That international treaties going back as far as 1856 cover both the lower reaches of the Danube—which the Russians control through their control of the riparian powers—and the Straits as well is regarded as immaterial. The fact remains that an international system is at stake. Moreover, the effort to put the Danube at the service of all Europe is essential to reconstruction in Germany and Austria and European reconstruction generally. If these countries are discriminated against, then European recovery, let alone their own, will be retarded. The Soviet Union is given another opportunity to put reality into its professions. The diplomatic move may or may not be futile, but in either case it is what the taxpayer pays the State Department to essay.

Third-Round Pattern?

Federal Mediation Director Cyrus Ching, who knows something about current labor-management relations, believes that the new General Motors wage settlement may set a national pattern. There is a good deal to commend such a formula as a reasonable compromise of conflicting interests which other unions and corporations may find acceptable. The GM settlement does not provide a great brake upon the inflationary spiral, but it does, for the first time in the history of any major corporation, tie a portion of the wage increase to the cost of living. Beyond this, it averts a strike of 225,000 members of the CIO United Automobile Workers at GM and establishes a precedent that may bring an end to the strike of 75,000 additional workers in plants of the Chrysler Corp. This is good news in anybody's definition, for lost production augments inflation.

The General Motors formula is an ingenious synthesis of union demands and company willingness to pay, with perhaps a few concessions thrown in by both sides in remembrance of the costly strike of 1945. Three cents of the 11-cent an hour increase granted is to be regarded as a straight wage raise. The remaining 8 cents is conditioned on cost of living figures of the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The 1940 wage-price ratio is accepted as normal. For each 1.14 points that the BLS index rises above its present level of 169.3, wages will be increased 1 cent an hour. As a corollary, for each 1.14 points that the index drops, wages will be decreased 1 cent up to a maximum of 5 cents in a single year. The contract runs for two years and provides an additional flat 3-cent raise at the conclusion of the first year.

To be sure, this formula itself will give some boost to inflationary forces. Nevertheless, the acceptance of the cost-of-living index as a guide to adjustments is tantamount to recognition by the union that labor has been losing the battle to keep pace with the inflationary spiral. That condition will always be the case as long as wage increases are merely reflected in higher costs of the things workers must buy. The GM settlement indicates at least a modicum of acceptance by both sides of the fact that the private and public interest in halting inflation coincide.

Whether the inflationary boost will stop with the wage increase depends, of course, on whether General Motors refrains from raising prices. This in turn depends on many intangibles. But there is at least a good possibility that steel prices may be stabilized, since the steelworkers received no wage increase. And there is reason to believe, from the General Motors profit picture, that the additional contract costs can be absorbed without injury to a reasonable return. If the inflation spiral is to be stopped at all, someone is going to have to have the courage to meet it. And who knows but this type of industrial statesmanship might be followed by a growing recognition on the part of labor that the only meaningful pay increases are those that result from increased and more efficient production?

Night Over Brooklyn

The other day, it appears, Representative O'Toole of New York called at the White House to ask Mr. Truman if there were no way of arranging for the deportation of Mr. Branch Rickey to Missouri. Mr. O'Toole is from Brooklyn and Mr. Rickey, as you know, is president of the Brooklyn Dodgers. At the time of Mr. O'Toole's visitation, the Dodgers, having lost eight straight games, found themselves at the bottom of the National League. Their situation was, you may say, desperate, and the mental and emotional state of their followers pitiful. Thus it was plainly a case, as Mr. O'Toole saw it, for intervention by the executive arm of the Government.

Mr. O'Toole did not explain how he had arrived at the conclusion that the position of the Dodgers and the peace of mind of the Brooklyn inhabitants would improve if Mr. Rickey were exiled to the farther shore of the Mississippi. However, a certain conjecture on this point is permissible. Last year, you remember, the Dodgers won the championship of the league, an exploit which, in the opinion of many, was scarcely a reflection of their aggregate of ability as ballplayers. This tour de force was accomplished under the leadership of Mr. Burt Shotten, who, by way of reward, was given the bounce at the end of the season. Mr. Leo Durocher, whose sentence of banishment from organized baseball had just been rescinded, was reengaged as manager.

Mr. Durocher was in a rather uncomfortable position. Certain influential elements in Brooklyn considered that his public life as a baiter of umpires and his private life as a Broadway playboy set an unwholesome example to the youth of Brooklyn. Thus Mr. Durocher was under the painful necessity of attempting to behave like a sportsman and gentleman; a role wholly out of harmony with his personality and his professional philosophy. In a sort of apologia for his past conduct, Mr. Durocher, in a magazine article published last year, asserted that "Nice Guys Finish Last." In other words a decent respect for the opinions of mankind is not what wins ball games. And to many a Brooklynite, doubtless including Mr. O'Toole, it appears that Mr. Durocher has set out to prove his own theory.

The President, it seems, commiserated with Mr. O'Toole, but refrained from promising the intervention for which he asked. After all, Mr. Truman is a Missourian and may feel that it is just as well if Mr. Rickey remains in Brooklyn. As for Mr. Rickey, who spoke here on the day after Mr. O'Toole's visit to the White House, he contented himself with the ambiguous observation that if the President feels as sure of reelection as the Dodgers feel about winning another pennant, there is nothing for him to worry about.

So that's the latest report on the crisis in Brooklyn. And the only comment we feel safe in making about it is that it produced a pleasant bit of publicity for all concerned.

IN AUGRIM ON A FAIR DAY

In Augrim on a fair day the chapmen crowd the roads,
The drovers and the dealers, the creels and carts and loads,
Fowls and sheep and horses and pigs that run pell-mell,
The hawker with his ballads, the tinker with his bell,
And, too, the other people who have no beasts to sell.

The funeral procession goes winding by Athlone.
The corpse upon their shoulders, father and brother groan.
And when the burthen's lightened ("Amen," the sexton saith),
And round the grave they wail with strained and weeping breath,
Small, wondering folk press forward to know what thing is death.

The Sunday Mass-bells ringing as sweet as ever rang
Pierce ears of some that hear them and hate the rasping clang.
Within the church rise praises in chant and holy verse,
The Sacred Host is lifted to pious and perverse,
But those without draw backward and shudderingly disperse.

Letters To The Editor

"Restored Freedom"

It is a little surprising to find that The Washington Post, which has fought many a fight for civil liberties, discovers a resounding victory for the First Amendment in last week's NLRB decision which permits "an employer to convene a compulsory audience of employes on company time and property and deliver an anti-union speech."

The Washington Post argues in its editorial of May 24, that "when the coercive element is absent, when the employer reasons with or preaches to his employes, without threatening them or promising them rewards for rejecting a union, its seems to us that he is within his rights guaranteed by the First Amendment to the Constitution."

Nobody can quarrel with that. In fact, such was the reasoning of the board in the Clark Brothers decision, which The Washington Post seems to disapprove. But the board in that decision also found that compulsory attendance of employes on company time and property was in fact a form of coercion within the meaning of the Wagner Act.

The intermediatfe report of the trial examiner in the Clark Brothers case, however, raised a much more fundamental question than the coercion prescribed by statute. On the basis of a Supreme Court argument in the Barnet flag salute case, which held that the right of free speech guaranteed by the First Amendment carried with it the right to refrain from speaking, the trial examiner suggested that the equally protected right of free assembly implied the corollary right to refrain from assembly. Does the employer's right of free speech, he asked in effect, permit him in the exercise of that right to infringe upon another's right of free assembly?

That is the question which the defenders of civil liberties are asking about the board's decision in the case of Babcock & Wilcox Co. vs. the United Stone Workers. Their doubt of the board's ruling does not at all stem from their desire "to suppress freedom of speech to promote unionism," as The Washington Post suggests.

Jefferson On Opinion

I have in my possession a letter from Thomas Jefferson, dated July 3, 1801, written to my husband's great-grandfather. The views expressed in it are so pertinent to today that I copy part of the letter.

A printed copy of a sermon on "free speech" had been sent to Mr. Jefferson. He replied in part as follows:

"Mr. Jefferson . . . supposes that the respectable and able author . . . finding himself supported by the good sense of his countrymen as far as he has gone, will see that he may safely, in this part also, go the whole length of sound principle; that he will consequently retract the admission that the utterance of an opinion is an overt act, and, if evidently immoral, may be punished by law, of which evidence, too, conscience is made the umpire. He will reflect that in practice it is the conscience of the judge, and not of the speaker, which will be the umpire.

"The conscience of the judge then becomes the standard of morality, and the law is to punish what squares not with that standard. The line is to be drawn by that; it will vary with the varying consciences of the same or different judges and will totally prostrate the right of conscience in others.

"But we have nothing to fear from the demoralizing reasonings of some, if others are left free to demonstrate their errors, and especially when the law stands ready to punish the first criminal act produced by the false reasoning. These are safer correctives than the conscience of a judge."

Union Shop Elections

In my May 19 letter opposing the proposed repeal of union shop elections under the Taft-Hartley law, I neglected one important point:

The present law at least prevents a minority from forcing a majority to maintain union membership. The 99 per cent of favorable NLRB elections represented those cases where the union was sure it could get a majority. In how many additional bargaining units did the union refrain from demanding a union shop only because it knew it could not get a majority? This is the real measure of the protection given by the law—not the 1 per cent of negative elections.

It is said the expense of conducting elections is burdensome. Since when have we put so low a price on freedom? I suggest the expense can be reduced, and freedom increased, by amending the law to require that 90 per cent of the workers in any unit (not just 90 per cent of those voting) approve a union shop provision. I will practically guarantee that such a provision would reduce union shop elections to a mere trickle.

But at least let's leave the present minimum legal protection against economic coercion of a majority by a well-organized minority. STUART B. BARBER.

District Deficit

The anticipated deficit of the District government is a serious problem, to be sure, but is it as grave as the suggested remedies seem to indicate?

A sales tax is a last-ditch measure. It is only slightly less unfair than a per capita tax. Your revenue problem could be solved by a tax of approximately $10 on every person in the District, man, woman and child. The unfairness of such a measure is clear. It is unrelated to ability to pay. A sales tax operates in substantially the same way. Exempting food and medicine tends to correct for the regressive nature of a sales tax only in slight degree.

The objections that have been made to using the income-tax approach for solving your fiscal problems do not appear to have much validity. The main objection is that at present your income tax is unfair to District domiciliaries because a large portion of those receiving the benefits of your local government are not domiciled in the District and are thus exempt from your income tax.

Has serious consideration been given to changing the basis of your income tax from one of domicile to one of residence? At the joint committee hearings the idea was not even mentioned. Yet at that same time and for quite some time prior to the hearings the local newspapers were full of such a jurisdictional idea—but only as to the District suffrage bill. It would be decidedly unique to extend to nondomiciliaries the privilege of the ballot yet to exempt them from the responsibility of paying income taxes. EDWARD F. O'CONNOR.

Stalling On FEPC Legislation

Nearly lost in the welter of national and international events claiming public attention is the effort to have the Congress enact legislation to remove some of the basic inequalities among citizens that have caused our Government such embarrassment. If an order of importance could be given to the various pending civil rights measures, the fair employment practices bill, S. 984, now on the Senate calendar awaiting floor action, would surely be given highest priority. This bill is designed to prohibit job discrimination because of race, religion, national origin or ancestry.

Here are incontrovertible facts supported by the voluminous evidence presented to the appropriate committees of this and previous Congresses:

1. Job discrimination against Negroes and other racial and religious minorities is widespread and national in character.

2. This discrimination has prevented great groups of citizens from contributing their talents to the productive economy of the Nation and has caused them to be frozen in the least fruitful of occupations and denied even the minimum standard of living that a nation as rich in resources as ours can afford.

3. Voluntary and educational methods already used extensively have not been effective in materially reducing this social evil.

4. Legislation with adequate enforcement powers and judicious administration can be effective as shown in New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts and Connecticut where fair employment statutes are in force.

5. Employment discrimination as a national problem can best be and should be attacked by national legislation.

In the Seventy-ninth Congress, FEPC legislation was filibustered to death in the Senate by a group of Southerners. Cloture failed by eight votes. The leaders of the Eightieth Congress, Senator Robert A. Taft in the Senate and Speaker Joseph W. Martin and Majority Leader Charles A. Halleck in the House, are, in effect, killing the bill by inaction.

Senator Taft has proclaimed his opposition to the enforcement powers in the bill. This is tantamount to opposition to any effective measure—for what useful purpose would be served by enacting a bill without enforcement powers? Speaker Martin has told reporters he favors FEPC legislation but has not yet done anything to move the bill in the House.

In 1944, the Republican platform contained this plank: "We pledge the establishment by Federal legislation of a permanent fair employment practices commission." The Democratic party (with the exception of the Southern bloc, of course) through the categorical pronouncements of President Truman in messages to Congress and otherwise, is equally clear in its official position.

Why has this bill not been acted upon? The Senate Republican leadership contends it is maneuvering to successfully counter an anticipated filibuster. It seems to us that the maneuvers thus far have put the bill in a position where, if it is called up at all, it can best be defeated. That is by holding it for the last minute rush. The opponents will never be caught napping by any such tactics and the mere threat of a filibuster in the closing days will be enough to lay it aside. In the House no other explanation is given than that the leaders are waiting for the Senate to act.

Naturally, this is all very disappointing and disillusioning to the affected minorities. Is this all we can expect from a party so clearly on record for this legislation, in absolute control of both houses, with members in a fair state of discipline? There is still time. The congressional leaders can act positively and forthrightly by calling the FEPC bill up, by permitting reasonable debate and constructive amendment, by closing ranks against the filibuster and by passing the bill.

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

Rift With Britain

A NEW British Ambassador is taking over in the big red brick mansion that was designed by Sir Edwin Lutyens to house His Britannic Majesty's envoy to this country. Forty-three years old, Sir Oliver Franks, who has never held a prior diplomatic or political post, faces at the moment of his arrival a grave crisis in the relationship between the two countries.

In the hope that it may be averted or somehow miraculously solved, there is a tendency on both sides of the Atlantic to say little about it. But this head-in-the-sand attitude cannot hide the seriousness of what is happening and, even more important, what can happen.

The cause is, of course, Palestine. There, in that tragic trouble center, the fearful consequences of both British and United States mistakes and failures are all too apparent.

The basic error is that the two countries have pursued separate and often competing policies, just as though the peace and stability of the world did not depend on a decent, practical working relationship between the two powers.

The British, in the Middle East, have gone right on playing the old-fashioned game of power politics. They have behaved as though nothing had happened since 1914. The game of pitting sheik against pasha, and pasha against sheik, could therefore be pursued in the merry old way.

THE UNITED STATES has followed first one line and then another line, the end result being a kind of irresponsible zigzag, with first one side irritated and angry and then the other side thrown into a frenzy. To many looking on from outside our borders, United States policy has seemed to be directed frequently by the expedience of domestic politics and at other times by so-called realists urging the need for oil reserves.

There have been some who have foreseen the disaster to which all this could lead. One was Lord Inverchapel, the retiring British Ambassador, who is returning to his Scottish estates after more than 40 years spent in the capitals of the world.

A longtime friend of Dr. Chaim Weizmann, the extraordinary genius who is now president of Israel, Inverchapel clearly foresaw where British policy was leading. He could, however, do little to alter that policy beyond the warnings that were contained in his urgent dispatches to the Foreign Office in London. It was a peculiarly difficult and uphappy position for a skilled diplomat who, in the war years, had seen in Chungking and Moscow the horror growing out of the errors and follies of another time.

The fact is that British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin has an emotional fixation on the whole question of Palestine. He cannot see it with any detachment. And this same emotionalism is reflected in important segments of British public opinion.

A MATTER of timing comes in here that worries responsible policy-makers.

Because, after lengthy hearings and extended debate, both Houses of Congress adopted the European Recovery Program, most people have assumed that that business is out of the way. But not at all. Under the powers he has taken unto himself, Chairman John Taber of the House Appropriations Committee has held more than a month of separate hearings on ERP. The Senate Appropriations Committee is also holding separate hearings.

Whether they will attempt to cut the total of $5,300,000,000 authorized by Congress for European recovery is a question. Any cut in the amount will interfere seriously with the main objective of the program, which is the recovery of western Europe.

It is just here that the issue of Britain and Palestine comes in. The propaganda is growing to prevent funds from going to the British which they might use to send arms to the Arabs in the Middle East.

This is likely to find expression on the floor when the debate on the appropriation begins. It might well coincide with the economy plans of Taber and others. It would coincide also with an isolationist, anti-British bias from other quarters.

The consequence, it should be recognized now, could be ruinous to the entire European Recovery Program. Communism alone would gain, which is why joy among men in the Kremlin must be unconfined at the potentialities of the Palestine war.

London and Washington must quickly come to an agreement. That is the first task of the new Ambassador. The present drift, with surprises and recriminations from both capitals, is wicked folly, risking all the hopes for a stable and decent world.

Crippled Children Fracas

With regard to the stories appearing in the local press about the District of Columbia Society for Crippled Children and the action of the national society in endeavoring to force the removal of its executive secretary, I feel that the national society is creating a tempest in a teapot for its own ulterior motives, especially since they have time and again commended the local society for the work it has done with crippled children in this area.

Frankly, I feel that they are invading the rights of our society and endeavoring to inflict their own wills and desires. A little effort on the part of the local press to show the people of the District the fine work that the group is doing would be more than appreciated.

Third-Round Wages

A Communication

THE UNIONS are again demanding wage increases. In June, many union contracts expire and about 2,500,000 unionized workers in heavy industry may be striking. The old arguments will be restated: (1) the cost of living has gone up and therefore wage rates should rise; (2) profits are large and therefore workers' earnings should increase. These arguments are one-way streets. Is it honest to play "Heads I win; tails you lose"?

What results follow? (1) The consumer would suffer. Wages constitute about 70 per cent of national income. A 30 percent increase in wages would therefore directly increase costs by about 21 per cent. But dividends in the last decade average 3.7 per cent of the national income. Obviously even if dividends were wiped out, the consumer would have to pay more to cover the increased costs. A wage increase for some, therefore, means rising cost of living for all.

(2) The general public would be harmed. Rising wages raise industrial costs. Farm parity prices then rise. Farm wages also rise. Then cost of food rises again, leading to new wage increases. Thus, inflation is aggravated and subsequent deflation becomes more painful. When prices rise, most companies, to carry on business, must borrow money either at the banks or through bond issues.

WHAT ARE the arguments for another general wage increase? The cost of living argument is fallacious. A comparison of union wage rates and the cost of living in March, 1948, with August, 1939, shows that weekly wages have risen to 220 per cent and the cost of living to 169 per cent. Thus "real" union wages are about 30 per cent above prewar levels. This is not true for most groups in the community—teachers, civil servants, veterans, their widows and pensioners.

The profit argument is fallacious. In the year 1947, business activity was at a peak. However, not merely profits but other economic indices are higher, as wages, national income, and volume of production. Present profits are fictitious. When prices rise, the value of the inventory increases and bookkeeping profits rise. But they do not provide the cash out of which to pay increased wages because the increase in profits is tied up in merchandise. To present the facts truly, the accountant should separate the operating profit from the inventory profit. Indeed, the inventory profit could well turn into an inventory loss. It did so frequently in the past.

Again profits are overstated because depreciation is understated. Cost of replacement of worn-out machinery is from 50 per cent to 90 per cent higher than before the war. Therefore, depreciation reserves to replace machinery wearing out should be raised 50 per cent to 90 per cent if the workers are to have tools available when the present machines wear out.

The dollar has not always the same buying power. The income account and the balance sheet now reflect several different kinds of dollars. When prices rise or currency depreciates, accounting develops semantic fallacies. For example, in the case of a fire, a property insured in prewar dollars cannot be built with the same number of current dollars.

The cost of living has increased for the corporation also. Using an index of 1936-1940 as 100, then by 1947 consumers goods rose to 59 per cent, wholesale prices of building materials to 197 per cent and construction costs to 221 per cent. Such rise in construction costs greatly increases the sums required for new plant and equipment.

PROFITS are not high in relation to sales or to investment. The percentage of profits to sales in 1947 was 7.1 per cent, or less than 7.6 per cent of the prosperous prewar year 1936. The per cent to sales of income for the postwar years 1946 and 1947 was about the same as for the five prewar years. But United States Steel report for 1947 showed an increase over 1941 in sales of 30 per cent, in employment costs of 43.8 per cent and in profits of 9.5 per cent. Furthermore, the ratio of net income to employment costs in 1946-47 was less than in other prosperous times, as 1936-7 or in 1921-5.

But wages and profits are not comparable. Wages are paid in cash, but profits are not in cash. They represent bookkeeping accounts. Only dividends are paid in cash. Therefore, a comparison should be made between cash dividends and cash wages.

Dividends are relatively small compared to wages. Figures over a long period of years are published by the United States Steel Corp. From 1902 to 1947 dividends on common stock averaged $26,300,000 or 7 per cent of wages. Though figures for all American industry, as a whole, are not available as far back as 1902, such figures as are available support the conclusion that dividends are small relative to wages and that at present the ratio of dividends to wages is lower than in former periods of high business activity.

Yet dividends must be high enough to attract capital to the industry for expansion. In the national income account of the Commerce Department, dividends were 5.0 per cent of employe compensation in the postwar years 1946-7 and 9.0 per cent in the prewar years 1936-40. These figures answer the argument that wages can be raised 30 per cent without raising selling prices.

Dividends do not go to a few stockholders. The number of stockholders exceeds the number of workers in many companies. The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. now has 663,000 employes and 738,000 stockholders. General Motors in 1947 had 375,700 employes and 436,500 stockholders. Of these stockholders, 34 per cent own 10 shares or less. For these small holders, the cost of living has also risen, but dividends have lagged behind wages.

Undistributed earnings cannot be paid out in wages. The surplus of profits above dividends is reinvested in plant. Such reinvestment makes it possible for the company to stay in business, to increase productivity and to lower costs, and to increase the number of employes, to raise wage rates and to shorten hours, and to give work to machinery industries. Thus, these undistributed profits in a real sense are trusteed for the benefit of workers and consumers, as well as the owners. Dividend policy is now cautious. The percentage of earnings not distributed as dividends in 1947 is estimated at 61 per cent, the average for 1941-7 was 54 per cent and for 1922-9 was 34 per cent. For the year 1947 the amount retained in the business was 155 per cent of the amount paid in dividends.

Such conservative dividend policy reflects the management's fear about the next depression and prudence in strengthening the company. This should benefit not merely the stockholders, but also the workers and the general public. Caution is also shown in the present prices of stocks. They are low in relation to yield, and low in relation to earnings. The investors apparently also are cautious about the continuance of current high profits. Should not labor leaders be equally cautious in pressing their wage policies?

WHAT IS the remedy? The cost of food has risen. The Government put a floor under farm prices to protect the farmer. Should it not put a ceiling on farm prices to protect the consumer? It did so in the case of sugar. Why not for wheat and corn and cotton? Thus the pressure for wage increases and for inflation would be checked.

Where the cost of living since 1939 has exceeded the rise in wages, a cost-of-living bonus should be granted. When the cost of living declines, that bonus should decline. A flexible wage-supplement moving, down as well as up, with the cost of living would lend resiliency and stability to the whole economic system.

In Britain, several industries such as shoes, railroads, and metal working, have had sliding scale provisions in the union contract for many years. But General Motors is the first large American company to adopt the policy of tying wages to the movements of the cost of living index. The writer has been urging this policy for many years

Instead of a fixed increase in wage rates, some companies give a flexible profit-sharing supplement, related to dividends. When profits disappear, profit-sharing ceases and costs decline. True, the supplement is small compared to the weekly wage, because total dividends are small compared to total wages. Thus workers learn elementary economics and accounting of business. The unique fixed inflexible "annual-improvement factor of 3 cents per hour to raise the standard of living" underwritten by General Motors may have to be abandoned during depressions and deficit years, as 1932 or 1938. But a flexible wage-supplement tied to dividends, like Eastman Kodak's plan, seems more realistic, practical, and has promise of permanence.

WAGE RATES can be increased if the output is increased. But productivity now is still at prewar levels. Over decades, wages have been raised and the working week shortened, only because labor costs per unit were reduced by inventors, engineers, and managers. Intelligent labor policy can accelerate this trend. Labor should cooperate with management in increasing output and in lowering unit costs. Labor has not only rights, but also obligations. Union restrictions on production should be removed. Effort should be rewarded. Piece work rates, or incentive bonuses to time workers, have lowered costs sensationally. A conservative wage policy by labor union leaders would conserve labor's gains. The next depression could be postponed and mitigated. A short-sighted labor policy may achieve momentary gains, sometimes, and then only at the expense of long-term losses.

Stockholders should be organized, particularly the little fellows. The rising cost of living cuts their "real" income also. Representatives of such small stockholders' organizations should be asked to participate at the wage hearings. The annual income of workers and such typical small stockholders should be compared.

Stockholders must be educated if the management is to enlist their aid by effective organization. Such education requires full annual reports giving considerable detail over long periods of time such as, for example, the United States Steel Corp. furnishes. Futhermore, the annual report can illustrate, as does that of the Union Oil Co., how the system of free enterprise works. An analysis could present the significant data about the relation between wages and dividends and between reinvested surplus and the number of employees.

The workers must be taught the economics and accounting of business. A special report to workers must explain how wages get the bulk of the national income, how spiraling wage increases raise the cost of raw material like coal and steel, how small dividends are compared to wages, why investors in plant and equipment must receive a return to attract funds to the business and how undistributed profits create more jobs and help to lower costs.

The public needs to be enlightened. Both by articles and by advertisements in the newspapers and magazines, the managers must show the interdependence of wages and dividends, of stockholders and workers who have more in common and less in conflict than agitators and propagandists have been charging. Each individual corporation must do that job not only in its own interest, but in the interest of preserving the system of free enterprise.

Matter Of Fact

By Stewart Alsop

The Twilight Terror: II

PRAGUE.—Like all police states, Czechoslovakia is a country of rumors whispered behind closed doors: The rumor that the aging, sick, defeated Eduard Benes has been shot; the rumor (this is the most persistent) that the war between the Soviet Union and the West has started; the rumor (this is now current) that the Red army will occupy Czechoslovakia tomorrow. Moreover it is extraordinarily difficult to separate the chaff of rumor from the wheat of fact.

Westerners are wholly isolated. Old friends, those who have not been jailed or have not escaped, prudently stay away. Contact of a sort with the new regime is maintained, but largely through the grotesque charade of the large official functions. The opposition has ceased to exist.

Such former opposition leaders as are not in jail or in the American zone of Germany, men like the courageous Socialist, Vaclav Majer, or Peter Zenkl, the National Socialist leader, are "unavailable"; they are followed everywhere by agents of the OBZ, the latest addition to the dreary initials which began with the OGPU.

Even the Socialist Bohumil Lausmann, who at first held out against the Communists, then joined the new regime, and has now resigned, is closely watched. (He noticed this himself and telephoned Premier Klement Gottwald to protest indignantly. "We wanted to see what you were up to," Gottwald replied calmly to his former colleague.)

Thus Westerners, unless they are prepared to swallow wholesale the handouts of the regime, are reduced to speculation, to an attempt to deduce from the shape of the small visible portion of the iceberg the shape of the whole. Yet experienced observers now believe that they discern a general pattern emerging through the fog which obscures this newest of the police states.

THE PATTERN is peculiarly interesting and it has a significance extending well beyond the borders of Czechoslovakia.

The new rulers of Czechoslovakia clearly fall into two groups. Call one group "the politicians," the other "the conspirators." In the end, according to those who have closely watched developments here, one group must destroy the other.

Typical of the politicians are Premier Gottwald, the Foreign Minister; Vladimir Klementis, and the Minister of Interior, Vaclav Nosek. These men are the chief public figures of the new regime as they were the chief public figures of the large Czechoslovak Communist Party before the party seized power. Their backgrounds differ.

Gottwald is a former worker who spent the war in Moscow, Nosek knows London well and was with the Czech government-in-exile, and Klementis was a small-time lawyer who has leaped from obscurity to power in the years since the war. Yet all three men have one thing in common: they are all politicians, and politicians in many ways in the Western sense of that abused word. They have gone before the people and appealed for votes. They have to some extent become, as any politicians must become, both gladhanders and compromisers. They have had to develop the gentle arts of political persuasion.

In this sense, if in no other, they are far more "Western" than their conspiratorial colleagues. Despite his residence in Moscow, Gottwald is known to be, within limits, strangely reasonable; Nosek has a lively sense of humor, and Klementis has been known to deplore the excesses of the regime which he represents.

Yet it is believed that such men as these three are less and less the real sources of power in the new regime. Typical of those who increasingly call the tune to which Czechoslovakia dances are Alexei Cepicha, the Minister of Justice (who has been jailed three times on criminal charges, once for rape); Rudolf Slansky, who as secretary-general of the Communist Party holds the Czech equivalent of Stalin's old job; Jindrich Vassilli, who is believed to hold the real power in Nosek's Interior Ministry, and Colonel Rietzin, chief of the intelligence in the OBZ.

Although some have run for public office while Czechoslovakia was free, these men are essentially tough professional conspirators on the familiar Soviet-Communist pattern, rather than politicians. And whether or not they form the real government behind a Gottwald-Klementis-Nosek "shadow government" as some believe, there is little doubt that they hold an increasing share of the real power.

THE CHANCES are that they will hold more. Again there is only speculation, only a sense of the logic of the situation here to support this assumption. Yet, again and again the reporter in this country hears the same phrases—"After the election, or maybe after the Sokol." (The parliamentary election is scheduled for Sunday, and the Sokol, a gymnastic exhibition, for July 4, 5 and 6.) Then the present twilight terror will come to an end and the night of terror will descend, with mass trials, mass arrests, mass executions completing the pattern, already well begun, of the Soviet-dominated police state.

There are many reasons why this assumption is so generally made, many straws in the wind which are so read. Yet the basic reason is simple enough. The Soviet Union is the father of the Czechoslovak police state. Without the pressure exerted from Moscow, Czechoslovakia might have become the democracy of which old Thomas Masaryk dreamed. Since the real power emanates from the Kremlin rather than from the Hradcany Palace, the new Czechoslovakia will inevitably be twisted and turned, however artificially, until it is a tiny, tragic replica, like Yugoslavia, complete in every detail, of the sprawling dictatorship to the east. Anything less will arouse the suspicions of the suspicious rulers in the Kremlin.

PRR Reports April Deficit Of $5,551,465

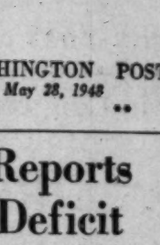
By S. Oliver Goodman

The Pennsylvania Railroad yesterday reported a deficit of $5,551,465 for April and attributed it to "a loss in gross revenue of about 9 million dollars due to the continuation of the bituminous coal strike."

Further revenue loss was suffered during the month from curtailment of certain industries because of lack of coal, the report noted.

For the first four months this year, Pennsy's deficit was reported as $10,172,529.

Gross revenues for April were $72,918,869, compared to $73,539,703 in same 1947 month. Gross for the first four months this year was placed at $302,513,683, an increase of $17,363,535 over th esame period last year.



Mellon

GULF CHANGES: Gulf Oil Corp. yesterday announced major executive changes. W. L. Mellon, 80, chairman of the board, is retiring after 45 years service, but will remain as a director. He is a nephew of the late Andrew W. Mellon, former Secretary of Treasury. His successor as chairman is J. F. Drake, who has been Gulf president since 1931. S. A. Swensrud, executive vice president since May, 1947, succeeds Drake as president. Swensrud is a graduate of University of Minnesota and received his M. B. A. degree from Harvard University Graduate School of Business. He came to Gulf from Standard Oil Co. of Ohio, where he served in various executive capacities for 18 years.

LONG HOLIDAY: Securities markets, starting tomorrow, will inaugurate the summer Saturday closings until after Labor Day. The markets also will be closed next Monday in observance of Memorial Day, giving busy brokerage offices a lengthened holiday. Banks and loan associations also will be closed Monday. The Chicago grain futures market will remain open on Saturdays.

ODD LOTS: Mitchell-Hoffman & Co., Inc., Washington, has issued a special survey of three corporations in the building supply field "whose stocks. . . are looked upon as having exceptionally fine prospects during the next year". . . . Dun & Bradstreet wholesale food price index rose to $6.94 on May 25, compared with $6.91 previous week. . . Auto production this week, despite continued Chrysler strike, is estimated at 89,107 units against 85,822 last week. . . International Telephone & Telegraph Co. may be able to pay a dividend this year, President Sosthenes Benes reported. Earnings this year should be about 2 million dollars, he added, against a loss of $10,050,907 in 1946 and a $222,068 profit last year. . . The District office of the Mutual Life Insurance Association of Richmond will honor Hill Montague, founder and president, at a dinner Saturday night in the Occidental.

BACKING URGED: Members of the Maryland State and District Federation of Labor yesterday heard a plea to support the current Security Loan campaign. Thomas J. Groom, chairman of the local Savings Bond Committee, told the group that workers can help halt inflation by assigning a regular part of their earnings toward purchase of United States Savings Bonds.

SLOWDOWN: A marked slowdown in the expansion of loans by national banks is reported by Comptroller of the Currency Preston Delano. Loans by the 5,014 active national banks rose only 1½ per cent from the start of this year to April 12, whereas the rise from last June 30 to April 12 was 16 per cent, Delano said. Total loans were $21,816,000,000 on April, date of the latest call for national bank condition statements. That was $336,000,000 above the end of last December and three billion above last June 30. Capital invested in ownership of the banks amounted to 7.06 per cent of deposits, which totaled $78,500,000,000 on April 12 after a decrease of $3,800,000,000 since the start of the year.

OUTING TODAY: Granted favorable weather, more than 275 investment dealers and guests will attend the annual outing today of the Bond Club of Washington at the Manor Club. Millard West, outing chairman, has announced a program of sports and prize contests that will be highlighted by the award of a new auto. Election of new officers also is slated.

EARNINGS: Hilton Hotels Corp. reported net income of $1,097,854 for the first quarter, equal to 62 cents a common share, compared with $1,140,766 or 63 cents a share in same 1947 period. A nonrecurring profit of $265,443, or 16 cents a share, was realized in the 1947 period, but was not included for comparative purposes. Other income reports:

The Federal Diary

by Jerry Kluttz

Senator Wiley Collects Stories of Congressional Humor

STORY: A Senator with a sense of humor is Wiley of Wisconsin. He collects stories of congressional humor and he has added this one to his collection:

His Senate Judiciary Committee was holding a hearing Tuesday on the year-long nomination of R. W. Harper of Missouri to be a Federal judge. When Wiley entered the room he noticed an old friend, Judge Bennett Clark, a former Senator. He asked him:

"What are you doing here?"

"I'm here on the R. W. Harper case," Clark answered.

Pretending to misunderstand, Wiley said with a chuckle: "Did you say you're interested in a case of I. W. Harper?"

"No," retorted Clark, "this committee would have approved a case of I. W. Harper a long time ago."

PS: For the benefit of "dry" readers, I. W. Harper is the name of a Kentucky bourbon whisky.

PAY REPORT: That long-promised meeting of Senator Taft and House Speaker Martin on the Federal employe pay raise bill is now "definitely promised" for either next Tuesday or Wednesday. The two GOP leaders have again assured employe leaders that a pay raise bill will be approved.

But there are growing fears that the measure will get lost in the last-minute rush toward adjournment. William Green, AFL president, today will urge AFL leaders the Nation over to wire and write members of Congress to demand action on the pay legislation.

Meanwhile, Bernard M. Baruch has come out in favor of pay raises for postal workers. In a letter to William C. Doherty, president of the AFL's National Association of Post Office Clerks, Baruch said it was a grave injustice to deny postal workers an adequate wage when they cannot strike to better their economic condition.

SOLICIT: The solicitation of funds from Federal workers came under fire yesterday at a meeting of the Federal Personnel Council. A council committee suggested that only the Community Chest and Red Cross drives be officially indorsed by the Government, and that the many other campaigns be left up to individual agency heads. The council will act on the recommendation next week.

PEOPLE: Senator Stennis (D., Miss.) is the newest member of the Senate Civil Service Committee. He succeeds Senator Chavez (D., N. Mex.) . . . Richard W. Flournoy, a top authority on nationality, immigration and naturalization laws, is retiring after nearly 45 years of service in the State Department. He's to be given a letter of commendation today by Acting Secretary Lovett . . . Paul R. Rowen, a career employe, is to be sworn in soon as a member of the Securities and Exchange Commission . . . Jean Bennett, an economic analyst in the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, will retire today after 30 years of Federal service.

REVENUE: The President has selected another of its career employes for a top job in the Internal Revenue Bureau. Fred S. Martin, who has had 30 years of Revenue service, is the President's nominee to be assistant commissioner to replace William T. Sherwood who retires today.

STATUS: The Federal Personnel Council yesterday indorsed the Civil Service plan to offer jobs that would lead to permanent status to those people who have hard-to-find skills. Included would be all jobs where the demand exceeds the supply, jobs such as stenos, scientists, skilled tradesmen, etc. Appointees to these jobs would be given probational appointments the day they report for duty and those who perform satisfactory work would be given permanent appointments after a minimum of six months.

MILITARY: There's good reason to believe that the House Appropriations Committee will recommend sizable cuts in the President's budget request for the Navy and Army. On the other hand, the Air Force is slated to get all the money it has asked for—more than the President requested for it. The general plan is to offset the AF boost by cutting Army and Navy.

If the plan is carried out, neither Army nor Navy would have the money to hire about 40,000 new civilians each as had been proposed by the President.

NOTES: Commerce has openings immediately for 15 CAF-4 secretaries. Make application in Room 6521 of the Main Commerce Building . . . Approval of the extension of the Second Decontrol Act was blocked yesterday in the Senate by Senator Taft. The House has okayed it. Several hundred Commerce jobs are at stake in the bill . . . Chairman Rees of the House Civil Service Committee, is opposed to the Civil Service provisions of the District home rule bill . . . Virginia Meekison, an employe of State's treaty section, has received her law degree—and that makes it unanimous in her family. Her mother was a pioneer woman lawyer and a leading suffrage . . . The Federal Power general counsel and three assistants have been exempted from Civil Service.

UPWA: The left-wing United Public Workers charge that New York officials of the Veterans Administration are trying to intimidate its members.

Meantime, the Communist Daily Worker describes the UPWA secessionists who are fed up with the union's left-wing policies as a "bunch of phonies." But it concedes that UPWA is now "struggling against tremendous odds.

Wholesalers' Liquor Plan Assailed as Price-Fixing

ABC Member Sees No Other Result if Franchise Holders Obtain Monopoly

By James E. Ficken
Post Reporter

A proposal that only holders of distillers' franchises be allowed to handle wholesale distribution of national liquor brands here was attacked as a price-fixing scheme yesterday by an Alcoholic Beverage Control Board member.

"I don't see how it could do anything but fix prices," ABC member James O'D. Moran told reporters after the Commissioners, ABC members, and wholesale and retail liquor representatives had discussed the matter behind closed doors.

Following the meeting, the Commissioners recommended that ABC hold a public hearing on the plan, proposed as an amendment to ABC regulations by the Wholesale Liquor Dealers' Association.

Payne Withdraws Support

The board, by a 2-to-1 vote (Moran dissenting), had recommended adoption of the amendment. ABC Chairman Alan W. Payne said he had voted for the amendment so it could be forwarded to the Commissioners for their consideration. He withdrew his support during the closed meeting, he said.

Mrs. Agnes E. Mason, third member of the board, said she, too, would be against it "if it becomes a price-fixing bill." But she indicated she was not convinced that it would.

Milford F. Schwartz, who presented the case for the Wholesale Liquor Dealers' Association, said the amendment was designed to protect franchise holders from "inequities" under present regulations.

Solicitors licensed by the District for $110 a year now can obtain "name" brands from bankrupt dealers and other sources outside the city and supply them to retailers here, he said.

Moran Puts Blame on Distillers

They keep no liquor stocks on hand and thus escape paying personal property taxes on inventories, giving them an unfair advantage over wholesalers with franchises, he declared.

Moran said he believed it was the distillers, themselves, who hurt their franchise-holders by not taking back liquor stocks from bankrupt stores.

F. Joseph Donoghue, spokesman for the retailers, told the Commissioners they would like to study the proposal and express their views. The retailers appeared at the meeting to urge the city heads to reconsider their opposition to a bill to permit price-fixing in the alcoholic beverage industry here.

Both the Commissioners and the ABC Board opposed the measure at hearings before a House District Subcommittee Tuesday.

VFW Post Backs Silver Spring Man

Charles B. Buscher of Silver Spring, VFW Maryland department commander, has been indorsed by the Montgomery County VFW Post, Bethesda, for national council member to represent the organization's fourth national district.

The district consists of Maryland, the District of Columbia, Virginia and West Virginia. The election will be held at the national encampment in St. Louis in August.

Western Sweeps Cadet Drill With 8th First Place in Row

Western High School maintained its grip on local cadet honors yesterday by sweeping the annual competitive drill at Griffith Stadium.

Companies K, H and G repeated their victories of last year by taking first, second and third place honors.

Company K also won the drill in 1946 and Western companies have taken first place for eight years running.

Maj. Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe, hero of Bastogne and a former cadet at Eastern High School, pinned the diamond-studded Allison Nailor Medal on the blouse of Capt. Eugene E. Paro of Company K at the climax of the two-day drill.

Paro also received the Colonel Craigie saber presented by Mrs. Wallace E. Craigie in honor of her late husband who was professor of military science and tactics for local schools.

The award for the best band went to Roosevelt High School with Anacostia and Central placing second and third.

Sergt. Robert Reinke of Central High School's Company A was judged the most distinguished noncommissioned officer on the basis of a manual of arms drill in which a noncommissioned officer from each of 10 high schools participated.

He received a medal from First Assistant Superintendent of Schools Norman J. Nelson.

Clifford Le Roy of Company A of McKinley was second, and Sergt. Ernest Fox of Company A of Bell Vocational High School was third.

Howard J. Wilson, brigade colonel, was presented a sword by Cornelius Ryan for the Society of the First Division in honor of the dead of World War I and II.

Capt. Isadore J. Lerner of the Roosevelt Band also received a medal from General McAuliffe.

Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, president of the Board of Education, presented medals given by the Inter-High Council to First Lieut. C. Richard Gill and Second Lieut. Peter G. Nordlie of the winning Company K.

American Legion medals were presented by Joseph A. Walker of the D. C. Department to Capt. William T. Rogerson of the second-place Company H and to Capt. Joseph H. Reynolds of the third-place Company G.

100th Anniversary Of Monument Will Be Feted

Preliminary plans for commemorating the 100th anniversary of the laying of the Washington Monument cornerstone were discussed yesterday by the citizens committee on the Fourth of July celebration.

A three-day program will open July 3 with a parade of floats and reenactment of the cornerstone laying ceremony. All churches will be asked to commemorate the event July 4 and the watergate concert will have a patriotic program that night. The usual program of speakers and fireworks will be held on the Monument grounds July 5.

Leon Chatelain, jr., president of the Board of Trade, is chairman of the committee. Appointed yesterday to assist him were F. P. H. Siddons, Clarence Arata, Thorton W. Owen and Edwin N. Lewis, of the Board of Trade, and Miss Sibyl Baker, of the Recreation Department.

Police Board To Try 2 Today; Case of 3 Studied

Two policemen will go before the police trial board today and police officials are investigating a traffic crash which may result in a third member of the force being ordered before the board.

Pvt. Ray L. Dixon, 37, of the Ninth Precinct, and Pvt. John E. Cockrill, attached to the Traffic Division and detailed to the police Central Communications and Records Bureau, go before the trail board today.

Dixon is charged with maltreating a prisoner and unnecessary use of his revolver.

Cockrill is charged with being under the influence of alcohol while on duty May 22.

Police officials also announced they are investigating a traffic accident involving Pvt. Tarver J. Thomas, 28, of the Eleventh Precinct.

At a hearing in the corporation counsel's office Wednesday, Thomas forfeited $15 collateral on a charge of driving too close to another car.

Clarke Will Take Property Post in Fire Dept. June 1

Capt. Morris H. Clarke will become Fire Department property officer with rank of battalion chief on June 1, the District Commissioners announced yesterday.

Captain Clarke was recommended for the new $6242-a-year post, set up in the District's 1948 Appropriations Act, by Fire Chief Clement Murphy.

He has served as head of the administrative division's property section since 1946. Now 44 years old, he has been with the department since October 1, 1928. He lives with his wife and two sons at 1608 23d st. se.

The new position combines under one officer responsibility for all nonexpendable Fire Department property.

McKinley School To Hold Memorial Service for Alumni

McKinley High School students will hold a memorial service for 187 alumni killed in World War II in the school auditorium at 9:10 a. m. today.

Following the service, parents of those memorialized and faculty members will witness the unveiling in the school's Memorial Room of plaques engraved with names of those killed. The room already contains plaques with the names of World War I dead.

Saturday at 6 p. m., the Woman's Relief Corps, auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic, Department of the Potomac, will hold a memorial service at the Nuns of the Battlefield monument, Connecticut and Rhode Island aves. nw. Wreaths will be placed at the foot of the monument, which honors the Civil War nurses.

—As Memorial to Victim—

Tick Fever Research Agency Planned

A memorial foundation to fight Rocky Mountain spotted fever has been authorized here in honor of Worth J. Sharpe, Fairfax County, Va., who died May 16 from the bite of a tick.

Known as the Worth Sharpe Memorial Foundation, it will seek funds to finance medical research for a cure to the dread malady, said its sponsors, the Greater Washington Area Council, American Veterans Committee.

The memorial was conceived, said Council Chairman Joseph Clorety, at the regular monthly meeting of the council on May 17. Sharpe, 32, vice chairman of the council last year, died the day before in Arlington Hospital. Taft Feiman, United States Public Health Service employe, was named chairman of the foundation committee.

Feiman said yesterday he is gathering a committee of medical scientists to direct the project. Funds to finance it, he said, will be sought from AVC members and the general public. The money received will be spent entirely on research toward a cure for tick fever, he said.

Even as the project was revealed, Mrs. Beatrice Sharpe, widow of the tick victim, pleaded for better understanding of available preventive vaccines for Rocky Mountain spotted fever.

Mrs. Sharpe said that persons living in tick-infested areas should be "strongly urged" to be vaccinated against tick fever. Instead, she said, the public is being "scared off" by published reports of the closing of tick fever vaccination clinics in Prince Georges County, Md.

News reports of the clinic closings attributed the action to "dangers involved" and "reports of severe reactions" to the immunizing agent.

Dr. Thomas S. Englar, Prince Georges County medical officer, elaborating yesterday, declared that the danger is not in the vaccine but in its administration. The county health department, he said, "lacks adequate medical personnel to administer the vaccine with all necessary precautions which should be observed."

Dr. Englar emphasized that he still advises vaccination for persons living or working in infested areas.

He pointed out that since the preventive vaccine is produced from fertilized eggs it reacts violently on the relatively few persons subject to egg allergies. But any qualified physician, with time to make preliminary testings and question a patient on his case history, can vaccinate without danger to the patient, Dr. Englar said.

Sharpe, who lived in a heavily wooded section of Fairfax County near Falls Church, was stricken on April 28, after having picked off several ticks both from himself and his dog. He was admitted to the hospital on May 2, and succumbed two weeks later.

His death was the second attributed to tick bites this season in the Greater Washington area. On May 15, John Alvah Engle, 70-year-old Frederick County, Md., farmer, died of the fever in Frederick, Md.

D. C. Postmaster Confirmation May Be Blocked

Senator Langer Reported Planning To Hold Up Action Until Adjournment

An attempt to spike the nomination of Roy M. North as postmaster of Washington was reliably reported last night to be planned by Chairman William Langer (R., N. Dak.) of the Senate Civil Service Committee.

Langer was declared by a Republican source to be determined to hold up Senate confirmation of President Truman's appointment until Congress adjourns, about June 19.

North, a postoffice career employe since 1909, is now Deputy Third Assistant Postmaster General. He is nominally a Democrat but has not been active in politics.

985 Pigeonholed

He would join a list of 985 postmaster appointments now pigeonholed in Langer's committee. About 300 others are expected to be acted upon by the full committee Tuesday.

A hearing was to have been held yesterday by Langer and two other Senators on the North nomination, but it was called off—for the second time in as many weeks—because one Senator didn't show up.

Langer insisted upon an investigation because of 'certain actions" involving administration by the Postoffice Department.

"We're going to find out how many Republicans they've appointed and what kind of men they've appointed," Langer explained.

Failure to confirm North's appointment would give Republicans a unique opportunity to find a job for a party worker, nominated—Langer hoped—by a Republican President.

Normally approval by both Senators from the State which the appointee calls his home is sufficient to confirm a postmaster. North went to school in Atlanta. Both Georgia Senators, although in rebellion against the President's civil rights program, have approved him.

Senator Richard B. Russell (D., Ga.) declared yesterday he could "see no excuse whatever for delaying a favorable committee report on North."

"He is one of the ablest career men in the Postoffice Department and should be supported by all who believe in a merit system for civil servants," he said. "I hope politics won't enter into it.

"Any refusal to approve North's appointment can only be attributed to a partisan motive."

Senator Walter F. George (D., Ga.) agreed on North's qualifications and added that the committee seemed "not disposed to report it out."

Failing confirmation, it is expected that W. Gordon Bell, acting postmaster, would continue at the job.

Pedestrian Death Mars Safety Drive

Capital Transit Employe Struck In Crossing Street At Seat Pleasant

A traffic death yesterday marred Prince Georges County's drive against traffic law offenders.

Clarence D. Penn, 64, a Capital Transit Co. employe, of 1117 I st. nw., died at 5:30 a. m. yesterday at Casualty Hospital.

Penn was struck down at 11 p. m. Wednesday while attempting to cross Central ave. at Chapel rd., just over the District line in Seat Pleasant, Md.

Had Fractured Skull

He was rushed to the hospital in a District Heights Rescue Squad ambulance where it was discovered he had suffered a fractured skull, internal injuries and a fractured right leg.

Arrested as the driver of the car which struck Penn was Mrs. Justina R. Way, 58, of 1703 New York ave. nw. Mrs. Way, who was returning to Washington from Annapolis, was taken before Justice of Peace Ray Creecy of Suitland, Md. He released her in $100 bond after she had been charged with reckless driving.

Police said that as a result of Penn's death Mrs. Way will also be charged with a technical charge of manslaughter.

14 Arrests Made

Meanwhile, the drive against traffic offenders in Prince Georges County resulted in 14 arrests yesterday up to 6 p. m. The arrests were for speeding, reckless driving and drunken driving.

In nearby Virginia, Fairfax County Coroner Nelson Podolnick ruled accidental the death of Aubrey L. Thompson, 32, of Route 1, Fairfax.

Thompson was struck Sunday night on Route 211, near Centerville, Va., by a car which police said was driven by B. V. Garrett of Broad Run, Va. Charges of reckless driving placed against Barrett by police at the time of the accident were dropped.

Care Centers Extension Is Approved

Extension for one year of day care centers for children of working mothers was approved yesterday by a Senate District subcommittee.

Chairman John S. Cooper (R., Ky.) said there would also be a recommendation that families whose children use the centers contribute a reasonable sum toward cost of operation. Exact amount will be left to the full committee, he said.

Senator Cooper added he would wait one day to look over statements of operating costs before the recommendation is sent to the full committee.

He and Senator Olin D. Johnston (D., S. C.) made their recommendations over the protests of District officials.

Public Welfare Director John W. Tramburg said he was officially opposed to the extension because the $150,000 cost is more urgently needed to care for wards of the welfare board.

Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West testified the Commissioners were opposed because there were insufficient funds to operate the District government.

A group of women pleaded that they be continued. Mrs. Marguerite Gray, chairman of a mothers committee, pointed out the high cost of keeping children in private institutions while the mothers work.

Others who testified were Miss Lucille Clark, superintendent of the six centers where there are 243 children enrolled; Mrs. Stephen Burke of the League of Women Voters; Miss Gladys Cook, chairman of an advisory committee for the centers; Miss Florence A. Murray of the Catholic Charities, and Miss Josephine Starr of the Council of Social Agencies.

Judge Studies Case Of Fired Policeman

Alexandria Corporation Court Judge William P. Woolls took under advisement yesterday the case of an Alexandria policeman who claims he was illegally fired last October.

Frederick L. Kaus, 43, a veteran of 20 years on the force was discharged by the city manager on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer and wearing his uniform while off duty. Joseph M. Pancoast, city attorney, was then acting as city manager.

Kaus asked the court to set aside his discharge on grounds Pancoast had not taken the oath of office of the city manager's office and had not given bond.

D. C. Sex Bill Is Sent to White House

A bill to give the District a new and stricter law against sex offenders received a final Congressional approval yesterday.

Final action came with House acceptance of technical amendments made by the Senate. The bill now goes to the White House for signature.

The bill provides increased penalties for sex offenders, particularly where children are involved. It sets up procedures for sending sex psychopaths to St. Elizabeths Hospital for treatment.

The Senate amendments spelled out more precisely who was to be considered a sex psychopath and gave legal definitions to their perverted practices.

It also made an effort to protect the civil rights of those charged with the sex offenses by making certain they could get a bill of particulars on the crimes of which they are accused.

Worms Ruin Fishing In Chesapeake Bay

Harmless worms by the million invaded Chesapeake Bay late Wednesday night, and the saltiest of fishermen were still wriggling about it yesterday.

Bay anglers, even the oldtimers, were convinced it was a "red tide," similar to the hordes of microscopic organisms that took a huge toll of fish life along the Florida coastline last year.

Frantic calls to State and Federal fishery agencies related that the fish had stopped biting, that they had left Chesapeake Bay waters en masse before the red wave.

It was true the fish weren't biting, but that was because they were feeding on better food than ever dangled on a hook. Fish officials explained that they were feasting on the "red tide" itself, which turned out to be Nereis, a segmented worm about 3 inches long.

Dr. Lionel Walford of the Interior Department's Fish and Wildlife Service said Nereis comes up to spawn every summer about this time—a few days after a full moon. And they happen to be a "favorite food" for fish.

First reports of the worms came at about 10 p. m. Wednesday from North Beach, where the dip of a bucket brought up hundreds of them. They were so numerous that the cast of a line more likely would have hooked a Nereis than a fish.

Dr. R. V. Truitt, director of research and education for Maryland's Board of Natural Resources, said the worms are seen every year along the coast, but happened to turn up in large quantity near fishing centers this time. Some are red, others a grayish green.

Man Seeks Separation

Alleging his 51-year-old wife, Mrs. Etta Levine Tendrich of 23 8th st. se., threw him out of the house in December, 1945, William Tendrich, 60, filed suit in the District Court yesterday for a legal separation and a settlement of property rights to real estate he said was worth more than $30,000.

A few months after the eviction, Tendrich's petition said, Mrs. Tendrich begged him to come back, promising to mend her ways, but they soon fell out and although he still resides at the 8th st. home, they have not lived as husband and wife for a year and a half.

Church Gets Bequests

Emmanuel Episcopal Church in Alexandria will receive $10,000 and a 100 by 250 foot tract of land from the estate of Mauchlin Nevin, 88-year-old retired Government official who died in Alexandria May 8.

Nevin's will, filed for probate in Alexandria Corporation Court, leaves the $10,000 to the church for a new rectory on condition that it be started within three years. The church will receive the land on Mr. Nevin's W. Braddock rd. estate as the rectory's location. The church may use Nevin's home, Burnt Oak, the will provides, as a temporary rectory while the new building is under construction.

No April Police Award

There will be no "Policeman of the Month" for April because the committee responsible for naming one has decided there was no individual police achievement during the month which would merit the award.

The committee is composed of six newspapermen and Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett. In announcing the decision, Barrett urged that the public nominate policemen for consideration when they have reason to do so.

Youth Wins Contest

Howard Scott, 16, of 1305 South Capitol st., a student at Randall High School has won first prize in the Savings Bond poster contest, sponsored by the District Savings Bond Division.

His poster showed a bowler making a strike. It was captioned "Strike Out Future Worries—Buy U. S. Savings Bond." It will be pictured in the September issue of the School Savings Bonds Journal, which is distributed to 900,000 classrooms throughout the country.

Rent Hikes Favored

Rent hikes averaging 7.27 per cent a month were recommended for 117 units of an apartment house at 2127 California st. nw., yesterday by Rent Control Examiner James G. Tyson.

Monthly rates for one room and bath would go up from $22.50 to $25.50, for three rooms and bath from $37.50 to $92.50, Tyson said. The owners had asked increases amounting to 14.10 per cent, he revealed.

Turner Wins $100

Samuel S. Turner, 5010 Nebraska ave. nw., has won the $100 first prize in the Pepsi-Cola Treasure Top contest for the Washington area, Samuel Schwartzman, bottling company president, announced yesterday.

Second place prizes of $50 each in the third monthly contest were won by Mrs. James A. Miller, jr., of Hyattsville, and L. C. Armstead, 4401 E st. se.

A total of 51 cash prizes are awarded in each State in the national contest.

Laundry Loses $408

Approximately $408 in cash hidden in a paper bag under laundry packages at Blue Ribbon Laundry, 7500 Wisconsin ave., Bethesda, was discovered missing yesterday when the laundry opened for the day's business. Police said the thief apparently entered through a skylight.

Boy Takes Cleaning Fluid

Robert David, 2, of 325 Franklin st. ne., learned yesterday that cleaning fluid is not as wholesome as milk.

He drank some cleaning fluid at his home yesterday and was discovered unconscious by his mother, Mrs. Pauline David.

Mrs. David rushed her son to Children's Hospital where a stomach pump was applied. David's okay now and back home.

A. A. Ludwig, 67, Succumbs In Hospital

Amasa A. Ludwig, 67, for many years chief of the electrical shop at the Bureau of Standards, died yesterday at Sibley Hospital after a short illness.

Mr. Ludwig, who lived at 2222 Otis st. ne., was born in Trout Run, Pa., the son of Charles and Susan Ludwig. He attended schools there and graduated from Bliss Electrical School here.

He came to Washington in 1912 to work at the Bureau of Standards and was employed there until his last illness.

Active in fraternal circles, he was a member of Titusville Lodge No. 754, F. A. A. He wsa a member of the official board of the Brookland Methodist Church and active in the choir and Men's Brotherhood. For eight years he was superintendent and for the past 13 years treasurer of the Sunday school.

Mr. Ludwig leaves his wife, Mrs. Mabel Frampton Ludwig; a daughter, Mrs. Elnora L. Kidd of Washington; a sister, Mrs. Linda Allen of Newcastle, Pa., and a brother, R. W. Ludwig of Ithaca, Mich.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 3 p. m. at Hines funeral home, 2901 14th st. nw. Interment will be in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

Scientists Quit Posts at Oak Ridge U. S. Laboratory

Dissatisfaction at the Oak Ridge National Laboratory over policy of the Atomic Energy Commission and investigations of loyalty has progressed to the point where more than a third of the senior physicists and senior chemists have been lost to the project, it was learned yesterday.

Deterioration of morale at the laboratory became acute in January after the commission made sizable alterations in the research program that had been set up. Soon after, the suspension of two scientists, the announcement of hearings for three more and the threat that 30 others would be called hastened the exodus from the Tennessee research center.

Rep. Douglas Favors Negro College Drive

Representative Helen Gahagan Douglas (D., Calif.) yesterday urged all "thinking Americans" to get behind the campaign for the United Negro College Fund during an interview by Mairi Foreman over Station WQQW. The Washington campaign for the fund opened here Wednesday night at Howard University.

The Society of the First Division, District Branch, will hold its thirtieth annual Cantigny Day dinner and dance at the Kenwood Country Club tonight at 7:30 o'clock. Two World War I Army Signal Corps films will be shown.

Col. Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, Infighting Expert, Dies at 73

Col. Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, whose varied accomplishments included a deadly proficiency in bayonet fighting and hand-to-hand combat, died yesterday at Syosset, N. Y.

Colonel Biddle, who taught Marines the fine art of bayoneting and jiu-jitsu during both World Wars, was 73. Death came to him at the Long Island estate of his son, Livingston L. Biddle 2d.

Colonel Biddle had been ailing since 1944 when he suffered a stroke. His son said the immediate cause of death was uremic poisoning, followed by a cerebral hemorrhage.

The colonel was also the father of Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, jr., now an Army colonel with the U. S. occupation forces in Germany and formerly American Minister to Norway and Ambassador to Poland.

The elder Biddle was a member of the wealthy and socially prominent Philadelphia family. He was a distant cousin of Francis Biddle, former Attorney General.

Colonel Biddle was named for his maternal grandfather, Anthony J. Drexel, international banker, from whom he reportedly inherited a million dollars.

Hospitalized by Stab

A robust man, Colonel Biddle was considered one of the world's greatest experts in hand-to-hand combat. In his 60's he volunteered for service with the Marines in World War II—and was accepted. He was assigned to train the Leathernecks for individual combat.

At Quantico, Va., the Marine training base, the white-haired, balding expert daily took on recruits one third his age and tossed them on their ears.

He scorned the use of scabbards and instructed the men to charge him with bare knives. His arms were scarred and his fingers gnarled and broken. During one demonstration at Quantico, he was stabbed in the groin and hospitalized for a week.

The Marines sent Colonel Biddle on loan to the Army and at Fort Bragg, N. C., he demonstrated judo, jiu-jitsu and in-fighting with knife, bayonet and whatever else was handy.

An author, lecturer, explorer, newspaper reporter and publisher and amateur boxer during his colorful career Colonel Biddle was always a deeply religious man and he combined his religious and athletic leanings in a movement called "Athletic Christianity."

According to the legend, when Colonel Biddle was left the million dollars by his grandfather he used some of the money to expand a Bible class along his theory of "Athletic Christianity."

He opened a gymnasium and blended physical exercise with spiritual learning. The Bible class membership zoomed from 3 to 700.

"I want you boys to go in there and fight as if Christ were the referee," was Colonel Biddle's favorite message before his boys went into the ring. In the same ring Colonel Biddle sparred with such pugilistic notables as Jack Johnson, Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, Jim Corbett and Bob Fitzsimmons.

Wrote Standard Manual

Colonel Biddle served as a Marine captain in France in World War I and before the war was over was returned to this country to instruct recruits in hand-to-hand combat. He remained a member of the Marine Reserve.

One of his books, "Do or Die, Military Manual of Advanced Science in Individual Combat," is a standby of military men.

Born in 1875, Colonel Biddle's early schooling was obtained in private schools in Philadelphia and later in Germany. When he was 16 he went to the Madeira Islands on an exploration trip. A year later he returned to the United States and became a reporter on the staff of the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

When he was 21 he revived the old Philadelphia Sunday Graphic and became its editor. The following year he became head of the Drexel Biddle Publishing House.

The versatile Biddle wrote the Froggy Fairy Books, gave boxing lessons to a young Marine named Gene Tunney who later became heavyweight champion of the world and briefly considered a career as a singer.

He studied voice in Paris and later gave a concert in Philadelphia which attracted a capacity audience.

In addition to his two sons, Colonel Biddle is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Thomas Robertson, and a brother, Livingston L. Biddle. His wife died last July. Funeral services for Colonel Biddle will be held Tuesday at Bryn Mawr, Pa.

Starvation Lunch In School Helps Overseas Program

A "starvation lunch" was served yesterday at the school of the Honeywell Foundation on Bradley blvd. to aid the Crusade for Children drive of American Overseas Aid.

Instead of the usual hearty midday mean, the 180 pupils and the faculty and staff of 25 adults, ate a simple lunch of rice, beans and cold slaw. Ordinarily lunch includes an entree of meat, two vegetables, dessert and milk.

Dr. Donald W. Honeywell, headmaster of the foundation said that the simple lunch cut the cost of the regular meal in half and that the money saved would be contributed to the campaign.

W. B. Oliver, Former House Member, Dies

New Orleans, May 27 (AP).—William B. (Buck) Oliver, 81, who represented Alabama's Sixth District in Congress for 22 years, died in Touro Infirmary today.

The former Democratic Representative, who came here to visit a niece, Mrs. Mary Bacon Duncan, entered the hospital May 10 for a heart condition. He apparently had improved and was expected to leave the hospital tonight, when he suffered a final fatal attack.

Oliver is survived by his wife, the former Beryl D. McCann.

A former dean of the University of Alabama Law School, he served in Congress until he retired in 1934 upon the advice of his physician.

Earl Kern Sonner

Martinsburg, W. Va., May 27 (Spl.).—Earl Kern Sonner, 60, an engineer for the Pennsylvania Railroad, died of a heart attack yesterday near Carlisle, Pa., while making a run from Cumbo, near this city, to Rutherford, Pa.

He was a native of Stephens City, Va., son of the late James Russell and Sarah Campbell Sonner. He was a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, veteran of World War I, and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

Surviving are his wife, a daughter, and four sisters. Services will be held here Friday.

Mrs. Mary Aquilla Turner

Corinth, Miss., May 27 (AP).—Mrs. Mary Aquilla Turner, 71, mother of Col. Roscoe Turner, famed speed aviator, died at a hospital today. She had been ill about two weeks.

Survivors include her husband, R. L. Turner; four other sons, Bob of Indianapolis, William of Baltimore, Abe of Jackson, Miss., and Cass of Corinth; and one daughter, Mrs. Mary Emma Whitaker of Indianapolis.

Dr. R. M. Rau Dies at Home In Frederick

Frederick, Md., May 27 (AP).—Dr. Rudolph M. Rau, 77, a former surgeon at a Wheeling, W. Va., hospital and generally considered to be the largest property holder in Frederick County, died at his home early today after an illness of five weeks.

Born in Bolivar, Jefferson County, W. Va., Dr. Rau was graduated in 1900 from the College of Physicians and Surgeons, now the medical school of the University of Maryland in Baltimore.

When his health failed in 1912, he moved here from Wheeling and became interested in farming and real estate operations.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. J. Tyson Lee of Frederick and Mrs. James R. Heater of Charlotte, N. C. Funeral services will be held here Friday.

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

JACOB LAMOTTA, who looks like a prizefighter, and is, will be grinning at the District Boxing Commissioners when he steps into the ring at Griffith Stadium on Monday night to fight Ken Stribling. Jake is a powerful short puncher with a long memory.

POVICH

The D. C. Boxing Commissioners didn't think he could fight seven years ago and wouldn't let him in a Washington ring.

That was the time when Gabe Menendez, promoter of Monday night's contest, attempted to match LaMotta with Anton Christoforidis, the N. B. A. lightheavyweight champion. The D. C. Commissioners nixed that one with the verdict that LaMotta was not a suitable opponent for Christoforidis; a somewhat baffling deduction inasmuch as Jake had just won 16 of 17 fights and Christo, even as a champion, wasn't much of a champ.

Well, the guy the commissioners said couldn't fight very well had a pretty good evening a bit later in Detroit. He was fighting a fellow named Sugar Ray Robinson, the best welterweight in the world, and all he did was lick Robinson in 10 rounds. Nobody ever licked Robinson before, or since. LaMotta is the lone member of that league. In fact, LaMotta is a loner in another respect. He doesn't even have a manager, doesn't want one.

"MANAGERS ARE GOOD for only two things," said LaMotta on his arrival in Washington yesterday. "They can protect a fighter against making bad matches and they can advise him how to save his money. I don't need a manager to advise me about my matches because I can lick any middleweight in the world and no middleweight match is a bad one for me. And I always knew how to save my money."

LaMotta has, in fact, done pretty well without paying a manager 33 1-3 per cent of his purses. He's probably one of the three richest fighters in the world. He owns two stadiums in the Bronx where his brother promotes boxing and wrestling, and the rentals are luscious. He demands and gets as much as 35 per cent of the gate for his own appearances in the Garden.

When Tony Zale took the middleweight title into cold storage during the four years he was in the Navy, LaMotta was the best fighter in the business. Zale discreetly side-stepped him to take on Rocky Graziano when he did choose to risk his title, and Jacob has been unhappy about that for a long time. He wants to fight next month's Zale-Graziano winner for nothing.

"THEY WON'T HAVE TO pay me a nickel for my end of the purse," says Jacob. "Or I'll fight either one of 'em and guarantee him $50,000 for his end. All I want is a shot at that title against either of 'em and I'll walk out of there the champion." Jacob talks big, but the compensating factor is that he fights big, too.

When he fought Tony Janiro last winter, Jake, a natural 165-pounder, had to make 155 pounds. Jay Jacobs, Janiro's manager, made him post the unheard-of weight forfeit of $15,000 to guarantee that LaMotta would come in at no more than 155. Jake made 154, after sweating it out, and said at ringtime to Jacobs, "I'll knock out your bum." He didn't quite. LaMotta stretched Janiro senseless in the round, but missed a second knockout by two seconds when the bell saved Janiro at the count of eight.

He's licked Tommy Bell, one of the better lightweights, no less than three times, and he almost made good his promise to knock Bell into the lap of Chic Wergeles, Bell's manager, who was making loud prefight statements. Jacob did knock Bell clear out of the ring into the audience, but his aim was poor and he missed Wergeles' section of the ringside.

THIS KEN STRIBLING, whom LaMotta is fighting on Monday, is a stand-up puncher, the complete contrast of the crouching hefty-hooking Jacob who likes the name of Bronx Bull. LaMotta's rate of exchange is eight punches for one, and he is content with the one if he can stalk his man into an opening. As LaMotta says of himself, "I don't throw my punches, I rip 'em."

Stribling can punch pretty good, too, incidentally. He's a business college student whose immediate purpose is beating LaMotta and getting into the big dough. He's been fighting since 1941, like LaMotta, but there was a three-year hiatus for him during the war. He did a month of roadwork for this fight, even before he went into the gym.

A year ago, two welterweights named Jack Gannon and Frank Sweeney were the hottest fighters in Washington, supposedly going far. In March, Stribling went into the ring with Sweeney and knocked him out in three rounds. A few weeks later he was matched with Gannon. Stribling stopped him in one. All of which doesn't leave LaMotta trembling.

A 15-minute barrage of beer cans and bottles, accompanied by a session of booing that Ebbets Field couldn't match, last night capped the Nats' descent into sole possession of seventh place in the American standings.

The Philadelphia Athletics won a 7-3 game at Griffith Stadium, putting themselves on top in the league race, but the whole abstract business of standings was forgotten in the uproar which wound up the game. Before it was over several fans in the crowd of 13,012 were hauled out by police and huge piles of debris were left for the groundkeepers to clean up.

It was the top half of the ninth when the trouble started. There were Philadelphians on second and third when Pete Suder came to bat.

His weak grounder was picked up by the incharging Mickey Vernon, who whipped the ball homeward in an effort to cut off a run. The only thing in the way was Plate Umpire Red Jones. The ball hit the chest protector and bounced away as Sam Chapman raced in with the A's seventh run.

Police Restore Order

Immediately there was booing as Jones called all runners safe. The crowd objected, but strenuously, and while Washington was retiring the next three batters there was a steady stream of missiles in Jones' direction. The big umpire threatened to call the game, which worried the crowd not at all. Finally, after even one of the reserved seats had been ripped up and hurled onto the diamond, the police arrived and restored some sort of order.

Of the game itself, the best one could gather was that it was a good demonstration of why the teams hold the positions they do. Walter Masterson, seeking his fifth victory, walked himself right out of the game in the third inning and Milo Gandini and Forrest Thompson finished up. Among the trio the As collected nine hits and profited by three Washington errors.

Coan, Stewart Triple

Phil Marchildon was the Nats' boss throughout. He doled out five safeties, two of them consecutive triples by Gil Coan and Ed Stewart in the sixth, and was never worried after his mates spotted him a 4-run lead in the third.

Masterson helped out no end in the early Mack spree. He walked the first four men to face him in the third, then pitched a 2-run single to Ferris Fain. Candini got the job then, walked a couple more batters, but finally got the side out with it costing him only one more run.

The Nats broke the ice an inning later. Singles by Stewart and Carden Gillenwater, along with Vernon's infield out, brought Stewart across the plate but it was 6-1 before Washington tallied again. In the top half of the fifth Candini started off by walking Fain, who moved up on Majeski's out. Three straight safeties by Chapman, Franks and Suder accounted for the fifth and sixth runs.

Those sudden triples by Coan and Stewart set up only two runs but gave the long-suffering crowd

Cards Stage Four-Run Rally In Ninth, Whip Giants, 9 to 6

New York, May 27 (AP).—Red Schoendienst's bases-loaded single sparked a four-run ninth-inning rally that enabled the front-running St. Louis Cardinals to edge the second-place New York Giants, 9-6 today.

Ken Trinkle, who relieved Clint Hartung after Hartung loaded the bases on walks, was the victim of Schoendienst's two-run single.

Hansen Replaces Trinkle

On the blow, Terry Moore reached third whence he scored the third run on Erv Dusak's fly out. Trinkle then intentionally walked Stan Musial but the strategy backfired when Enos Slaughter drilled a single to center to score Schoendienst with the fourth run.

Trinkle was lifted in favor of Andy Hansen who got Nippy Jones to fly out to end the inning.

The Giants threatened in the bottom of the ninth, scoring once before Ted Wilks, fourth Card pitcher, got Pinch-Hitter Les Layton to fly out to end the game.

Musial's Tenth Homer

The Cards jumped on Starter Ray Poat for two runs in the first frame and knocked him from the box in the third when they scored two more runs. Musial accounted for one of the runs with his tenth homer of the season.

New York pecked away at Starter Murry Dickson, finally tying the score at 4-4 in the sixth when Sid Gordon homered. Both teams got a run apiece in the seventh to set the stage for the Cards' winning explosion in the ninth.

Cronin Says

Story 'Stupid' On McCarthy Leaving Sox

By Bus Ham
Post Reporter

GENERAL MANAGER Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox emphatically branded as "ridiculous and stupid" a report last night that Manager Joe McCarthy is leaving the club.

Rumors had circulated in New York that McCarthy was returning to his home.

After attending a few innings of the Nats-Philadelphia game at Griffith Stadium last night, Cronin and McCarthy went to the Statler Hotel. Cronin was reached there.

He said: "There is nothing wrong with the Red Sox that a few base hits and better pitching will not fix."

McCarthy has had a cold, Cronin said, but he is feeling much better. McCarthy left the New York Yankees during the 1946 season because of ill health and took an extended rest. He became the field boss of the Red Sox this spring.

"We have played only 31 ball games," Cronin said, "and this report is ridiculous and stupid."

HE IMPLIED that major league teams do not make managerial changes with the schedule approximately one-fifth completed, unless there is some pressing reason for so doing.

The Red Sox, ranked with the Yankees as pennant favorites by the pre-season experts, are in sixth place. They have won 13, lost 18 and are 8½ games back of the league-leading Philadelphia Athletics.

The Red Sox open a series with the Nats tonight at Griffith Stadium.

In She Goes

OPENING DAY of the swimming season at the Glen Echo pool yesterday would not have been complete without the traditional bathing beauty in the form (yes, yes) of Donna Butler, 17, of 4504 South Chelsea Lane, Bethesda, Md. Something new was added in the somewhat sinister figure of Tommy Nichols, 11, of 747 Tenth st. se. In the manner of small boys, Tommy likes to push unsuspecting persons into the water. Left, the villain approaches his victim. Center, in Donna goes, and the water's cold. Right, Tommy changes character, playing the part of a little gentleman with towel in hand for the young lady. But Donna turns the tables by spurting water on Tommy.

Curt Simmons Hurls 3-Hitter, Phils Win, 2-1

Philadelphia, May 27 (AP).—Curt Simmons, Philadelphia Phillies $60,000 bonus southpaw, pitched a three-hit 2-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates tonight as the Bucs hurler, Kirby Higbe, wild pitched home the deciding run in the fifth inning.

With the score deadlocked in the fifth, Higbe's wild pitch to Del Ennis with two out allowed Ralph Caballero to score from second.

In gaining his second victory of the year, Simmons struck out three and walked the same number. Higbe also gave up three walks but fanned six.

The Pirates jumped out in front in their half of the second. Wally Westlake beat out an infield hit, Danny Murtaugh walked and Ed Fitzgerald sent Westlake home with the tally.

The Phils squared counts in their half of the frame on Ennis' double and Andy Seminick's single.

Turnesa, Stranahan Survive But Chapman Bows in Britain

Sandwich, England, May 27 (AP).—Defending Champion Willie Turnesa of White Plains, N. Y., and Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, carried the United States challenge into the quarterfinals of the British Amateur Golf championship today.

Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, N. C., third member of the American "Big Three" bowed out in the fifth round to Charles Lawrie of Scotland, losing a heartbreaker on the nineteenth hole when Lawrie laid him a stymie.

With two rounds to be played tomorrow over the Royal St. George's course, the possibility still existed of another 36-hole All-American final on Saturday, as Turnesa and Stranahan are in opposite brackets. Turnesa beat Chapman in last year's final.

Turnesa, yet to be pressed in the current tournament, scored two more easy victories today. In the morning round he eliminated C. A. Loveday of England, 4 and 3, and in the afternoon snuffed out A. J. Michell-Clarke, a British army major, 8 and 7.

Stranahan, playing steadily, put out James Taggart of Ireland, 5 and 3, and Capt. David Blair of the British army, 3 and 2, in that order. His quarterfinal opponent tomorrow will be Mario Gonzalez, the Brazilian flash, who ousted Laddie Lucas, British Walker Cupper, 2 and 1, and followed with a nineteenth hole win over Wallace MacArthur of Carnoustie, Scotland.

Robert Sweeny, jr., an American citizen who has spent most of his life in England, lost out in the fourth round to S. B. Roberts of Wales, 1-up. Roberts will supply the opposition for Turnesa in the quarterfinals.

Chapman's defeat by Lawrie was doubly tough, as only a few hours before the Pinehurst veteran had shot the greatest nine holes of his life in vanquishing the Scottish star, Hamilton McInally, by the lopsided score of 9 and 7.

Making his sixth try for the British title, Chapman shot the first nine in 29 strokes—using only 10 putts—and in all used only 37 blows in closing out his luckless rival on the eleventh green.

After a poor start against Lawrie in the afternoon, Chapman made a gallant comeback to catch the Scotsman on the eighteenth hole, but there his luck played out.

Five down and six to go, Dick dug in and made a battle of it. He won the long thirteenth and fourteenth holes, halved the fifteenth, then captured three straight to square things with his badly shaken opponent.

Dick and Lawrie, a market gardener on the island of Anglesey, belted nineteenth-hole drives that settled almost side by side. Dick shot first, from shaggy grass, an iron that carried to the fringe of the green.

It hopped left and clung on the back wall of a sandtrap. Dick stomped out a stance and lofted the ball onto the green, but left himself a twisting, 20-foot putt over a ridge. He missed it.

At Ball Park

It's Big Day For Ted as Well as Kids

TED WILLIAMS yesterday sent this word to all the youngsters in the Walter Johnson Memorial Baseball School:

"I'll be seeing you Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at Griffith Stadium. Thanks for inviting me. I'll do my best to show you how to hit that ball."

Williams' appearance will feature the final session of the Johnson schools, conducted this spring under the auspices of the Junior Board of Commerce, District Recreation Department and The Washington Post. Every youngster in the Johnson schools is invited to attend Saturday's party.

Fred Corcoran, business manager of Williams, said that Ted's meeting with thousands of boys Saturday will "be something new on so large a scale."

"It's just dawning on Ted that he is the idol of thousands of kids," Corcoran said, "and he is looking forward to meeting more and more youngsters in the future, the same as Babe Ruth does."

WILLIAMS will take his stance at home plate at Griffith Stadium and show the Johnson school boys how to grip the bat, how to hit a curve or fastball, how to hit to left field, his follow through and so on.

Nick Altrock, one of baseball's original funnymen; Coach Rick Ferrell, Thirdbaseman Eddie Yost and one of the Nat pitchers, possibly Chico Pieretti, also will instruct in Saturday's program.

The day's schedule:

9:30—All Walter Johnson school boys must be seated in grandstand between third base and home plate. They will be admitted at the front entrance of the ball park.

9:30—Nick Altrock and his stunts.

9:45—Eddie Yost on infield play.

10:00—Ted Williams on how to hit and play the outfield.

10:30—Rick Ferrell on catching.

10:45—Chico Pieretti on pitching.

Master of ceremonies—Bob Wolff, Radio Station WINX.

Maryland, Georgetown Run In 72d Track Event Today

Maryland and Georgetown are among the 47 schools entered in the seventy-second annual I. C. 4-A track and field championships which get under way today at Triborough Stadium, Randalls Island, New York.

With small delegations, the local schools have no chance for team honors. Most they can hope for is a place or two. And that's a difficult task, competing against the East's best.

Maryland's Mario Salvanelli, entered in both the high and low hurdles, has a chance to score.

Also representing the Terps are Ike Eichhorn, javelin, and Ed Mathews, in the 440.

Georgetown's performers are Ed Sause, also in the 440, and Dave Smith in the 880. Incidentally, in the half-mile event, N. Y. U.'s Reggie Pearman is favored to break the existing 1:51.2 record. He will be pressed by Michigan State's Jack Dianetti.

N. Y. U., with 38 entries, is a slight favorite to retain its I. C. 4-A title with Michigan State, Yale and Penn State rated principal contenders.

In all, seven 1947 winners will defend titles in nine events. In addition to Pearman, Ivy Mondschein, another N. Y. U. star, is regarded a potential record breaker. Mondschein already has bettered 6:07 in the high jump and the present mark is a quarter of an inch less.

Anglers Set for Big Weekend

Wide Assortment Of Spots Beckons

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

LOCAL FISHERMEN, eagerly awaiting the three-day holiday weekend ahead, are fortunate in having a wide choice of places to go.

For those who don't choose to travel, the Potomac offers fair possibilities and the always popular Tidal Basin will be reopened Monday.

Points on and near the Chesapeake Bay too numerous to mention should provide good sport. And, for those who don't mind driving 200 miles or so, excellent fishing is promised in the Cape Charles, Va., area.

A COUPLE of veterans can attest to the fact that there are large rockfish just waiting to be caught in the Potomac. Of course, actually catching them is a different story. But we've heard enough of those "but-he-got-away" tales to know they're in the river.

Just the other day Doc Ayers, Turner's Arena attache, who's been fishing in these parts for almost 20 years, caught a 33-pound carp on 20-pound test line with a No. 2 hook. Like most others, Doc really is looking for rockfish (striped bass). Given a break in the weather, he and a lot of other anglers figure they'll soon hit.

The Tidal Basin, near the 14th st. bridge, will be open to fishermen Monday after the annual two-month shutdown during the spawning season.

Hundreds are expected on opening day—the Tidal Basin always has been noted for good bass and crappie fishing. A reminder: all bass under 10 inches, crappie under 6 inches and bream under 4 inches must be returned. As usual, one-day limit is 5 bass, 5 crappie, 5 bream and 12 winter shad.

TOM WOODWARD, a pictorial artist who also is something of a piscatorial artist, told us of the excellent fishing near Cape Charles.

Woodward, 103 Rhode Island ave. ne., and John R. Coder, Cheverly, Md., made a highly successful three-day excursion, fishing off Oyster, Va., about 5 miles up shore from Cape Charles.

The boys caught nine black drum, with five weighing more than 50 pounds. Their catch included a huge channel bass, plenty of weakfish, king fish and a few blues.

Woodward did his angling with a Montague Dreadnaught boat rod and a Coxe reel with 400 yards of No. 9 squidding line. Woodward, who incongruously decorates night club interiors when he isn't out breathing in fresh air, spoke highly of the services of Capt. Willie Crum.

Tidal Basin Opens On Memorial Day

CRUM, skipper of a 39-foot commercial fishing boat, charged $25 for 12 hours of fishing near Wreck Island, about 12 miles out. And he supplied them with bait, mostly whole crabs. Of course, the proportionate cost decreases with a larger party.

All told, Woodward said, the trip cost only $52 each. Hotel accommodations at Cape Charles were satisfactory and the tariff was only $3 per person per night.

To reach Cape Charles, Oyster, Chincoteague or Wachapreague, you take the Sandy Point Ferry at Annapolis. Follow Route 440 through Salisbury and Cambridge. Eventually, it leads to Route 13, follow it. Oyster, Va., is about 220 miles from Washington.

It's a six-hour trip, but Woodward, enthused over the results of his expedition, vows that it's well worth the time.

In Low Esteem

Louis Puts Walcott in Class With Paychek, King Levinsky

Pompton Lakes, N. J., May 27 (AP).—Champion Joe Louis still doesn't rate Jersey Joe Walcott as a tough foe for their title fight June 23 in New York.

Although Walcott floored Louis twice when they met in December, and in the opinion of the referee and many spectators gained the decision over the champion, Louis said today:

"I rate Walcott with Johnny Paychek, King Levinsky and Al Ettore."

Louis knocked out Paychek in two rounds, Levinsky in one and Ettore in five.

Reminded that Walcott recently said he admired Louis as a gentleman inside the ring and out, Louis replied that he had never made any digs at Walcott's character.

"I just never did like them up and down guys in the ring," he said. "Not the first time, anyway."

Walcott Will Resume Training Saturday

Grenloch, N. J., May 27 (AP).—Jersey Joe Walcott was told today it would be okay for him to resume training Saturday for his June 23 return bout with Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis.

Walcott's physician said the foot blister which had sent the fighter to the sidelines was disappearing and Jersey Joe could work out through the entire holiday weekend. The blister became aggravated Tuesday. Walcott was ordered to take a rest.

Haefner's 67 Leads Field

Fort Worth, Tex., May 27 (AP).—Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, N. C., shot a three under par 67 today to take the first-round lead in the $15,000 Colonial National Invitational Golf Tournament.

Turning some of the finest putting ever seen on the Colonial Country Club 6635-yard course, Heafner shot a two-under-par 33 on the first nine and a one-under 34 coming in. Among his putts were three 30-footers for birdies.

Tied for second place were George Schoux of Mamaroneck, N. Y.; Toney Penna of Cincinnati, Ohio, and Herman Keiser of Akron, Ohio, and Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., with a 68.

Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., the pretournament favorite, slipped to a one over par 71.

Choice Pays $4.80 in 2d Straight Win

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Charles Town, W. Va., May 27—A field of eight 3-year-olds who have spent most of their lives keeping as far as possible from Citation, vied in the Bloomery Purse today.

Two of them provided a thrilling finish, with George Queen's Spread Wings proving a half-length better than Robert Nolker's Comedy. In third position came W. C. Ensor's Connie Morse.

This was the second appearance on a race track for Spread Wings and the son of Flying Ebony made it two in a row here in the mountain air. He led all the way and staved off Comedy's bids through the stretch.

Takes Lead Early

Jockey A. Martinez won the feature for the second straight day. He put up a strong ride, much to the delight of those who installed the colt as the favorite. Spread Wings returned a $4.80 mutuel and was clocked in 1:22 1-5 for the six and one-half furlongs.

A crowd of 5000 saw Spread Wings take the lead on the way to the club house turn. Comedy soon moved up to menace the leader. Freddie Kratz rode desperately on Comedy but the distance ran out on him. Connie Morse overcame early trouble to be third ahead of The Shot.

Favorites Score

Spread Wings was the third favorite in a row to win. Walter T. Grimes' Canto-Gallo made a show of his field under the riding of Bennie Leggett of Washington, to take the fourth race at $4.60. S. M. Follin's Erato made good for the choice backers at $3.20 in the fifth event, after a nice ride by Willie Nertney of Baltimore.

Although Kratz missed in the day's feature, he had a hand in the $129.40 payoff on the daily double, winning the second with C. E. Hovis's Easter Bonnie, a $9.20 shot, after Apprentice L. Bauer had taken the first with Mary M. Dunaway's Indian Sun at $21.40.

Baronettes Romp

Bethesda-Chevy Chase Baronettes, girls softball team, trounced Sherwood High girls, 21-16, yesterday at the winners' field. Marlonna Wine homered with two on to lead B-CC to its sixth win in 12 games.

Lagay's the Name

Argentine Boxer Creates Stir By Seeking Bout With Charles

New York, May 27 (AP).—Alfred Lagay, the Argentine light-heavyweight champion now campaigning in the United States, and Manager Hymie Wollman have been creating something of a sensation in New York boxing circles.

Lagay wants to fight Ezzard Charles, the No. 1 contender for Light-heavyweight Champion Gus Lesnevich's crown. Now few of the highly-rated heavies want to have any part of the Cincinnati clouter and Lagay's challenge has the boys along Larrup Lane buzzing.

The squat, 185-pound South American, now too heavy to make the lightheavy limit, has won all four of his fights in the United States. His last triumph was a decisive conquest of Tommy Gomez, the ranking Tampa, Fla., heavy, on April 27.

Lagay invaded Tampa for that fight. Wollman was advised by other managers here to have his gladiator fight somebody else and somewhere else. Gomez, they pointed out, was the idol of the Cigar City and had an awful wallop.

"Look," Wollman said, "this Lagay is a nice kid. I brought him here from Argentina. I thought he had the makings of a top fighter, and Trainer Whitey Bimstein, one of the smartest in the business, thought so too.

"We decided to gamble and find out quick. If he looked like he was going to be just another fighter, I was going to give him his fare and some money and have him catch the first boat back. But he took a couple of good pokes from Gomez, who hits real hard, and came fighting back.

"Now I think the kid is ready. He's 25, a baby compared to some of those old geezers fighting in main events now.

"COPY THE CAT"

Consider the cat as an example of tenseness without stiffness and apply that lesson to your tennis. You'll save effort and attain speed, smoothness, power and precision. The most difficult essential for the ambitious youngster to learn is to play with firmness but not tenseness and with flexibility but not laxity. The older player, too, needs to remember the words "firm" and "flexible."

Young Harris Plays Second Base, Too . . .

By William Klemm—The Washington Post

Tiger Trainer Turns Back, Badly Bitten

Miami, Fla., May 27 (U.P.).—Veteran animal trainer Capt. Doman Proske turned his back for a moment today. In that second, 300 pounds of angry tiger hurtled across the cage and fastened dripping jaws into his thigh.

Four other tigers circled him to get in on the "kill."

In two minutes the big cat severely chewed and mauled the 48-year-old Viennese animal trainer. Proske was taken from his North Miami zoo to a hospital where he underwent surgery and received several blood transfusions. He is in fair condition.

Pat Moore, an assistant, said Proske held only a riding crop in his hand. "Mayajana leaped for him," Moore said. "She sailed clear across that cage and sank her teeth into his right leg."

Proske worked frantically to loosen the Tiger's jaws, trying to keep his back up against the bars so that the other tigers could not close in.

A zoo worker rushed up with a 6-foot angle iron. With this, Moore drove off the other tigers. Then he began beating Mayajana over the head to loosen her hold.

"I weigh 200 pounds and I hit that tiger with all my might about six times," Moore said. "A real solid blow finally must have hurt her, because the captain was able to force her jaws open and stagger away."

As he did so, the beast took a parting nip, biting a hole clear through the palm of his hand.

Sentelle Wins 12th in Row

The Sentelle Contractors won their twelfth straight victory yesterday by defeating Grotto Grill, 6-2, in the Montgomery County Twilight Softball League.

Claims He Had O.K.

Jeffra Spent Half His Time Off War Job

Baltimore, May 27 (AP).—Harry Jeffra, former holder of two world boxing titles, admitted in Federal Court today that he was away from his essential war job nearly half the time fighting bouts around the country.

But he did it with the consent of his employers and one of his draft board members, the one-time bantamweight and featherweight champ testified.

Jeffra and Nathan E. Phillips, fight promoter, are on trial here charged by the Government with violating the draft law.

The Government contended that the Baltimore boxer was not a full-time, essential worker at the American Ship Cleaning Co. as his draft board was advised. It accused Phillips of making a false statement to Jeffra's draft board while serving as public relations manager for the firm.

Jeffra said Joseph Klein, who was a mmeber of his draft board as well as an inspector for the Maryland Athletic Commission, approved of his taking time off to train and fight. Klein, he added, often visited him in the dressing room before local fights to wish him good luck.

Phillips testified that when he told draft officials Jeffra was a full-time worker, the boxer had been in the employ of the firm only 22 days and had worked 20 of them. He denied that he was a close friend of Jeffra's.

The trial will be continued before Judge William C. Coleman tomorrow.

Touchy Tennis Temperament

Mrs. Todd Stalks Off Court But Tourney Ban's Not Final

Paris, May 27 (U.P.).—Mrs. Patricia Canning Todd of La Jolla, Calif., touched off what promised to become an international tennis rhubarb today when she refused to play her semifinal match against Mrs. Nelly Landry of France in the French international championships.

But the French Lawn Tennis committee stepped into the picture at a special meeting tonight and decided that the match, which already had been forfeited to the French player, will be played tomorrow.

There was an if connected with its decision, however, for it will be re-scheduled for tomorrow only if Mrs. Landry agrees.

Mrs. Landry was not immediately available for comment.

The trouble all started when officials transferred their match from the center court, where it was scheduled to be played, to one of the side courts.

"It is not fair to make me play on a court where there is not enough room," Mrs. Todd, the defending champion, said, walking off the court.

"The committee told me yesterday that the side court was hateful," she added," "it's too narrow and the lines are hard to see in late afternoon.

"I told the committee yesterday I would play only on center court. I'm the defending champion and I don't see why I can't play in center court instead of the other women's singles match."

In the men's final, Parker will face Jarolav Drobny, Czechoslovakian champion, who defeated Budge Patty of Los Angeles in the other semifinal match today, 2—6, 6—3, 4—6, 6—4, 6—3. Patty had an upset in the making until he tired.

Heurich Ties Sunnybrook

The Heurich Brewers scored three runs in the ninth to tie Sunnybrook, 8-8, yesterday in a Post-Industrial league game on the Ellipse. Giegerich and Pepco Barry drove in the runs.

Sunnybrook had a whopping fourth inning, scoring six runs, with Phelps leading the attack with a double.

a false hope that erupted later. Coan's sock landed between center and right. Stewart's ripped down the first base line, evading Valo's desperate dive and scoring Coan.

All it took for Stewart to wind up the Nats' scoring was Vernon's infield out. Vernon, as a matter of fact, had exactly no hits in his four trips to the plate, while newcomer Stewart was leading the "assault" with a single besides his triple.

Plumbers Whip Printers, 11-7

First Baseman Tom Curtis and Catcher Harry Martin each hit three singles as the Merchandise Plumbers defeated the Union Printers, 11-7, yesterday in a Departmental League game on the Ellipse. It was the third win in five games for the Plumbers.

2 Interhigh Playoffs Are Slated Today

Interhigh baseball's double-elimination playoffs continue today at Griffith Stadium with a 2:30 p. m. doubleheader which will see either McKinley Tech or Anacostia dropping out of the running.

Unbeaten Eastern and defending champion Coolidge, winners of their playoff openers last Monday, clash in today's curtain raiser.

In the nightcap, Tech and Anacostia, both beaten in their first playoff tests, are the contestants.

Coach Rolland Lund hasn't named Eastern's starting pitcher yet, but he he Frank Utley or Eddie Kline his team will be favored. (Utley opened the Interhigh season with a one-hit shutout over these same Colts. Kline tossed a one-hitter against Anacostia in the playoffs Monday.)

Lefty Ben DuVall is expected to get the call for Coolidge. It is believed that Coolidge Coach Carl Heintel will save Eddie Hughes, his winning pitcher of last Monday, for what may be a heavy grind next week.

The winner of the Eastern-Coolidge game will get a break in the schedule. The winner will draw a bye Monday while the loser plays the winner of the Tech-Anacostia tilt.

Today's Tech-Anacostia game is rated a toss-up. Anacostia handed Tech one of its regular season setbacks, 6—3, with a four-run rally in the seventh inning. Anacostia will send George Sengstack to the mound to oppose either Bob Quinn or Bob Stewart.

Dodgers Beat Cubs, 4 to 2

WASHINGTON: FRIDAY, MAY 28, 1948

Ask Anne:

Family Motoring to West Coast Asks How to Plan for Children

WE ARE PLANNING a somewhat ambitious expedition for next September and need all the advice you and your readers can give us. We plan to make a five-week motor trip to the Southwest, taking with us our two children, a girl who will then be 3 years old, and a little boy who will then be 5 months.

The national parks will be our main points of interest; we will spend a week each in Sequoia and Yosemite, and a day or so in others. Sightseeing in and around San Francisco and visiting relatives in that area are also points on our agenda. Needless to say, we will spend a great deal of time travelling.

While on the road, we will eat breakfasts and dinners in restaurants, but will have picnic lunches so that our children can run about a bit. Have you suggestions for these lunches, taking into consideration the fact that we will want to spend a minimum of time grocery shopping and preparing them?

What about clothes for all four of us? We feel we must travel as light as possible, so rather than accumulate dirty laundry, I would prefer, as far as possible, things that can be sudsed out at night and whisked over with a traveling iron in the morning, if ironed at all.

We will stop in tourist cabins nights. As I doubt whether many places would have accommodations for infants, could you suggest some sleeping arrangement to use for the baby in the cabins, as well as in the car?

Is it necessary to use boiled drinking water for the children on such a trip If so, how would we go about getting it

And finally, what ideas have you for keeping the two youngsters occupied and happy during the long hours of travel? We would very much like to get in touch personally with any of your readers who have made such a trip. S. D. P.

IN ORDER to have the exact equipment for your roadside lunches, in advance of your trip assemble all of the needed equipment in a durable box, basket with a cover, or a roomy suitcase which has passed its prime. Into this put plates, (plastic dishes are fine) cups, silverware, can opener, cutting knife, salt, pepper, sugar (in containers with tight fitting lids) also two or three pint-sized thermos bottles or one large one. The small thermos bottles will allow you, your husband and your 3-year-old a choice of hot or cold drinks to accompany your lunches.

Take Along Thermos

As you have your breakfast each morning, take your thermos bottles into the dining room with you, having them filled with hot or iced coffee or tea and milk. At a nearby grocery, after breakfast, you can buy bread, sliced meat and/or cheese for sandwiches, fresh fruit, cookies and tomatoes for slicing, etc. Buy in quantities for only one day to prevent spoilage and give you variety each day. A small jar of mayonnaise would keep better than butter without refrigeration and will do much to moisten the sandwiches. Also, if you wish, you could take with you from home a supply of one-meal-sized cans of tuna fish, potted meats, chicken, etc., to give variety to your sandwiches. Small cans of pickles and relishes would keep well and add zest to the lunch.

Here's an idea, if you wish a hot dish for lunch occasionally. A half hour before lunch time, place an unopened can of soup, Italian spaghetti, baked beans, etc., under the hood on the engine of the car. I can't tell you the exact spot, but a little investigation should help you find where it would heat well and stay in position. Before heating make a little hole in the top of the can to permit steam to escape. When you stop to eat, your hot dish will be ready for you.

For traveling, you could all wear knitted and seersucker garments. If they are pulled in shape after being washed, none would need ironing to look well. Take along wooden hangers to dry them on. For the 3-year-old, pinafores or sunsuits with knitted shirts would be ideal. This makes her ready for any change in temperature. In the morning she would need the shirt. As the day warms, it can be easily removed. Also, a sweater for each member of the family should be within easy reach in the car. The baby could be dressed in the little, very practical, one-piece knitted rompers with seersucker nightgowns at night. During the daytime, use disposable diapers.

Comfort for Children

It isn't necessary to carry boiled water for the 3-year-old unless she is sensitive. Of course, you should all avoid drinking from anything but city water systems. If city water is not available, drink soft drinks, the nonphosphated ones or fruit juices.

Keep Baby Uncramped

The 5-month-old baby will be happy and contented if he is given an uncrowded place where he can kick when awake and a comfortable place for his naps.

Assemble in advance a box of surprises, giving one each day to the 3-year-old to add to her pleasure. Don't give these the first thing in the morning, but break the morning and afternoon with them. Pinwheels to hold out of the window, balloons to blow up, large beads to string, crayons and coloring book could all go into the box. Let her take along one favorite toy from home—probably a doll. Making a practice of no candy, etc., between meals will reduce stops for drinks and washing hands. Have, instead, within easy reach, fresh fruit and not too sweet cookies to stay her hunger. Such a lunch at midmorning and midafternoon will make a better traveler of her.

Don't try to adhere to a too strict driving schedule. When the 3-year-old becomes tired and fussy, a few minutes' stop along the roadside to see a cow or bird or just to run a bit will relieve tension and set her up for another spell of riding.

Here is an arrangement which would make both the children comfortable and give the 3-year-old room to move around in the car: Place luggage, which is needed only on your long stops, on the floor between the front and back seats. Build it up so that it is even with the back seat. Now, place

To Serve With Crisp Salads

Spring Menus Welcome Hot Breads

By Lucia Brown

WHETHER the wind blows warm or cool these uncertain spring days, you'll find hot breads a welcome addition to the menu.

Delicious fresh rolls, biscuits, and muffins just seem to go so well with such springtime dishes as garden salads and fresh vegetables. On cool evenings, their stick-to-the-ribs quality and downright goodness satisfies the most eager appetite. On hot days, they bring a touch of pleasant contrast to a cold plate meal.

Today, we offer recipes for three hot breads that go particularly well with crisp salads—a yeast roll, a muffin, and a biscuit variation.

CRESCENT ROLLS

1 package yeast, compressed or dry granular.
2 tablespoons shortening.
¼ cup sugar.
1 teaspoon salt.
1 egg.
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind (if desired.
3 cups sifted flour (about).
Butter or margarine.

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Scald milk. Add shortening, salt, and sugar. Cool to lukewarm. Add 1 cup of flour. Mix well. Add egg and lemon rind. Beat well. Add softened yeast and mix in. Add enough flour to make soft dough. Turn on lightly floured board and knead until satiny. Place in greased bowl. Cover and let rise until doubled. When light, punch down.

Roll out dough ¼-inch-thick. Cut in pie-shaped wedges. Brush with melted butter or margarine and roll up, beginning at wide end. Fasten point on top and curve into crescents. Let rise, on greased baking sheet, until doubled. Bake in moderate oven (400 degrees Fahrenheit) 15 to 20 minutes. This recipe makes about 18 rolls.

"FLUFF JUFFS" are sticks made of biscuit dough and thickly covered with nuts. They are excellent for serving at parties with fruit salad, frozen salad, or gelatin salads.

FLUFF JUFFS

2 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons baking powder
2 to 4 tablespoons shortening
5 tablespoons milk
¼ cup chopped nut meats
1 teaspoon salt

Sift together flour, salt and baking powder. Cut or rub in shortening. Add milk to make a soft dough. Roll very thin and cut into strips ½ inch by 1½ inches. Chill. Drop into deep hot fat (375 degrees Fahrenheit). When brown, remove from kettle, drain and roll in finely chopped nuts to which salt has been added.

EASY to make are buttermilk raisin muffins which fit in with almost any kind of salad, be it fruit, vegetable, meat or fish. For the sweet-tooth crowd, finely chopped dates may take the place of raisins.

BUTTERMILK RAISIN MUFFINS

2 cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon soda
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
½ cup raisins
1 egg
1¼ cups buttermilk or sour milk
¼ cup melted shortening

Sift together flour, soda, baking powder, salt and sugar. Add raisins. Beat egg and add buttermilk and shortening. Add egg mixture to dry ingredients and stir only until dry ingredients are thoroughly moistened. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full. Bake in moderately hot oven (425 degrees Fahrenheit) 20 minutes. This recipe makes 24 muffins 1x1½ inches.

DELICIOUS crescent rolls are made by rolling up a wedge-shaped piece of dough. Start rolling at wide end of wedge, fasten point at or near top of roll, curve into crescent shape

Baked Beans Are Tasty On Picnic

IF YOU'RE going a-picnicking on Memorial Day, why not take along a big earthenware pot of savory home-baked beans? If you remove it from the oven just before leaving home and wrap it well in many thicknesses of newspaper, it will stay hot an hour or so until you reach the picnic grounds. Here's a favorite New England recipe for this well-loved dish:

BOSTON BAKED BEANS

1 pint pea beans
¼ pound fat salt pork
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
½ cup molasses (or less, if you prefer)
⅛ teaspoon ginger (optional)
½ teaspoon mustard
Boiling water

Pick over beans, cover with cold water and soak overnight. Drain, cover with fresh water, heat slowly (keep water below boiling point) and cook until skins will burst when cooled. (Test by taking a few beans from pot and blowing on them.)

Drain beans, reserving cooking water. Scald pork and scrape. Remove ¼-inch slice and put in bottom of 2-quart bean pot. Cut through rind of remaining pork every ½ inch, making cuts 1-inch deep. Put beans in pot and bury pork in beans, leaving rind exposed. Bring reserved water to boiling point and add 1 cup to salt, molasses and sugar mixed together. Put over beans, add enough water to cover, then put lid on bean pot. Bake 6 to 8 hours in slow oven (225 degrees Fahrenheit). Add water as needed. Uncover the last hour of cooking, that rind may become brown and crisp. This makes enough beans for six persons.

Mink for a Rainy Day

Craze for Navy Blue Extends Even to Furs, Umbrellas

By Peggy Preston

THE CRAZE for navy blue had reached alarming proportions. Latest article of dress to be hit with this brand of dye is the fur jacket.

It took Esther Dorothy, that New York specialist who has produced all manner of revolutionary fur styles in the last few years, to give the idea birth. When she gave a showing of her fall collections in Manhattan the other day, one of the most spectacular items was a natty little navy blue fur blazer. Flared in the back, it reached to the hipline and was made of Hollander muskrat, plucked short. It was edged all around, blazer fashion with navy grosgrain ribbon. Miss Dorothy prophesied it is a young and coming fashion.

WE HAD a first hand look at another bit of Esther Dorothy fur whimsy when we met Miss Laura Wells on Connecticut ave., sporting, of all things, a silver blue mink umbrella!

Miss Wells, a striking ash blond, is representative for Eagle Lions Films and the motion picture "Ruthless" which opens soon at Warner Theater. She's a former model and one time stylist for the John Powers School in New York.

Traveling across country as she does in the interest of her job, her wardrobe is necessarily limited. She sticks to one basic color,

Dr. Conrad Installed as AAUW President

Dr. Elizabeth Whiting Conrad was installed president of the Washington Branch, American Association of University Women, at the organization's annual meeting held last night in the clubhouse. She succeeds Mrs. G. R. Wilhelm, who served a two-year term.

Others taking the oath of office included Mrs. Hampton D. Percy, second vice president; Mrs. J. P. Mewshaw, recording secretary; Miss E. Grace Deal, treasurer, and Miss Annabel Matthews, director.

Dr. Conrad formerly served as dean of women at Ohio State, Earlham College and Michigan State University. A well known educator, she has studied extensively both here and abroad.

Since the fall of 1945, she has served two days a week as a volunteer at Walter Reed Hospital in addition to working on overseas food packages for the American Women's Voluntary Services.

Active in AAUW activities for a number of years in Wisconsin and Michigan as well as in the District, Dr. Conrad was a member of the Association of Collegiate Alumnae, which was a forerunner of the AAUW.

Last year she served as chairman of the branch and national bylaws committee.

In order to give the entire membership a chance to vote, the local branch followed its traditional custom of conducting the election of officers by mail.

Preceding a dinner for members only, the new officers were honored at a reception in the clubhouse.

Afghanistan Independence Marked

AFGHANISTAN Independence Day was celebrated at a reception yesterday at the legation, with the Charge d'Affaires, Abdul Kayoum, host to several hundred members of diplomatic, official and resident circles. Here from New York for the occasion were a group from the Afghanistan colony.

The Afghanistan Minister, Abdol Hosayn Aziz, who has returned to his country, is to be succeeded by His Highness Sardar Mohammad Naim Khan. On his arrival in Washington and upon presentation of his credentials to President Truman, the legation will be elevated to the status of an embassy.

Yesterday in spite of lowering skies, guests gathered in the garden. On the covered terrace there was a bar and a buffet featuring native dishes of lamb and pilaf, highly seasoned and spiced meats and rich pastries and sweets for which Near East countries are famous.

Mrs. Fred R. Stickney Is Luncheon Hostess

Curtain Goes Down for Season

Miss Gish Plays Stellar Role On Women's Press Club Program

The Women's National Press Club rang down the curtain on its 1947-48 season yesterday with a luncheon program featuring stars and critics of the theatrical world.

Lillian Gish, known to more than a generation of motion picture and stage audiences, played the stellar role at the luncheon, held in the Presidential Room of the Statler Hotel. Substituting for her good friend, Helen Hayes, who was prevented by illness from keeping the engagement, Miss Gish answered a series of questions presented her by drama critics and members of the audience. Sharing honors with her at the head table were two sister actresses, Violet Heming, wife of Judge Bennett Champ Clark, and Frances Starr, in private life Mrs. Emil C. Wetten. Both are residents of Washington.

Pictures Without Words

In answer to a question about the effect of pictures, Miss Gish said:

"I do not think that the movies should have married sound. It has slowed them up, limited their scope and made them understandable only to the English-speaking world. Motion pictures were conceived as a medium of acting which needed no words. In my opinion something was destroyed when sound was introduced."

The best director she ever worked under, the actress said, was D. W. Griffith. "But then," she added, "my opinion may be colored by the fact that I worked with Mr. Griffith during my most impressionable years—from the time I was 12 until I was 20."

Questioned about the future of the American theater, Miss Gish said that with the tremendous cost of production, fewer and fewer plays are being produced each year. The hope of the American theater lies in the success of the little theaters around the country. They should be subsidized just as symphony orchestras are.

To Play at Olney

Miss Gish will return to Washington on June 22 to play in Noel Coward's "The Marquise" at the Olney Theater. Seated with her at the head table yesterday were two of the directors of that theater, Reginald AHen and Richard Skinner. Also there were Richard Coe, drama editor of The Washington Post; Tom Donnelly, columnist for the Washington News, and Ernie Schier, drama editor of the Washington Times Herald; Mrs. Hazel Markel, Miss Bess Schreiner, and three new members of the club, Mrs. Austine Cassini, Miss Zilpha Franklin and Miss Marguerite Gilstrap.

Miss Ruth Cowan, president, presided at the luncheon and discussion.

Good Health to you!

Alabama Society Dance

The Alabama State Society will hold the last dance of the season tonight at the Wardman Park Hotel in the Burgundy Room. Dancing will be from 10 p. m. until 1 a. m. to the music of Tiny Meeker's orchestra.

Wedding Bells Ring

Rabbi Solomon H. Metz officiated at the marriage ceremony yesterday that united Miss Irene Janet Bluestone and his son, Ezra David Metz.

The bride is daughter of Mrs. Samuel Bluestone and the late Mr. Bluestone of this city. Setting for the wedding was the Adas Israel Congregation. Given in marriage by her mother, the bride was attired in white satin, with off-the-shoulder neckline and net yoke. Her fingertip-length veil was held with a satin headdress and she carried a bouquet of orchids and stephanotis.

Mrs. Raymond Hemstreet was matron of honor for her sister and wore an orchid gown. Her bouquet was of pastel-colored spring flowers. Emmanuel Metz was best man for his brother.

Following the ceremony a reception for members of the family took place at Hoffman's Restaurant. The couple left later for a month's honeymoon in Florida. The bridegroom is a graduate of the University of Maryland.

Player—Reinmuth

In Mount Vernon Methodist Church yesterday Mrs. Thekla Baskin Reinmuth became the bride of John Lawson Player, jr. She is daughter of Mrs. Jessie Baskin Shelton of Epps, La., and the late Dr. James Calvin Baskin. Mr. Player is son of Mr. and Mrs. Player of Waco, Tex.

The Rev. Purcell Storey officiated at the ceremony. The bride was attired in an ashes of roses crepe frock and hat of pink violets with matching gloves. Her corsage was of camelias.

Mrs. Lester A. Colvin, matron of honor, wore a blue dress, mauve hat and gloves and a corsage of pink rosebuds. Louis Feldman was best man.

A wedding supper followed at the Statler Hotel and the couple left later on a Southern honeymoon.

Rosendorf—Cohen

Miss Sylvia Cohen, daughter of Abraham J. Cohen, and David W. Rosendorf, son of Morris Rosendorf, were married in the Romany Room May 9, the Rabbi Simon Burnstein officiating.

The bride, given in marriage by Mr. and Mrs. Abraham J. Cohen and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Rosendorf, wore a gown of white satin with scalloped neckline. Her veil of illusion was held by clusters of orange blossoms and she carried an orchid on a Bible.

Miss Jean Rosendorf, the maid of honor, wore a pink net gown and carried a bouquet of pink and yellow roses.

Frank Rosendorf was best man.

Day's Grab Bag Discloses Stylish Figger and Hats, Juleps and Picnic Fare

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

GRAB-BAG. Things we've liked lately. Mrs. Brien McMahon's new figger. The lovely, blonde wife of the Connecticut Senator has shed 20 pounds, by diet and massage, mostly around the midriff, not a fraction from her face. Around the Argentine Embassy, Senora de Drago's extraordinary yellow orchid, pinned to a yellow brocade dress. The gaucho singer, in white shirt and bulky bombachas, strumming a white guitar. The mint juleps chez handsome Mme. Rene de Marees van Swinderen.

The huge cartwheel hats, tethered perilously on the back of Miss Kattie Spaatz's head—the gin, lime juice, shaved ice, mint leaves concoction served by gourmet Bradley Gaylord—Mrs. Robert Lovett's shell collection, all sizes, shapes, displayed on shelves in her pinky-mauve living room plus a wonderful over-mantel shadow-box framed shell "picture" The canine line-up at a fashionable "vet's" — doggies, Europe-bound, waiting to get their "shots," all part of State Department regulations.

The Western type chili dishes personally whipped up by Colorado's Charlie Brannan, the new Secretary of Agriculture. The "picnic" lunches prepared by Mrs. William C. Foster, wife of former Undersecretary of Commerce and present ERP deputy for Averell Harriman, and "et" by guests on Potomac outings in the Foster cruiser. Nicest—ham cooked with raspberry jelly, strawberries, cream with lime gelatine.

Undersecretary of the Treasury Ed Foley's tie gifted by his step son-in-law—suave green silk with a hand-painted, grinning Democratic donkey at vest level.

Costumes worn at the Wellesley Club's International Fashion Fete by Senoritas Caceres and Ramos, the former embroidered and flown from Honduras for the occasion, the latter also especially made in the Philippines. The real tortoise shell handbag (which we once thought imitation) made like a square box, owned by Elizabeth Morgan. She designed and had it made in Santo Domingo. Also Mrs. M.'s split-straw sun helmet, picked up in Haiti, made ultra stylish by a handful of flowers (artificial!).

Creekmore Fath, filing for Congress in Austin, Tex. A Democrat, he is married to Adele Hay, niece of stanch Republican James W. Wadsworth. The Library of Congress intellectual who has just penned a series for the Police Gazette under an assumed name. The fact that Helen Hayes, despite medicos' commands, is opening with her daughter tonight at the Olney Theater in "Alice Sit By the Fire." That the Averell Harrimans have taken Clarence Dillon's Paris house. That the Jim Forrestals are buying a house in Hobe Sound, Fla.

A VARIETY of humor, appealing to those who peruse the social section with tongue-in-cheek, is spilled nightly (and cocktail time, too), in the Mayflower Lounge by Rosalind Courtright. Mrs. C., who Calypsoes some of her songs, defines the Upper Crust as "a lot of crumbs held together by dough."

Rosalind, by the by, is married to Hernando Courtright, principal stockholder and managing director of Los Angeles' Beverly Hills Hotel. She had been vocalizing in Chicago's Palmer House and Gotham's St. Regis before coming here.

She is enviably equipped with 16 trunks bursting with elegant clothes. When California's schools let out next month she will have to stop singing, wing westward to look out for her three stepdaughters.

Jr. League Votes To Join New Group

Junior League of Washington has voted unanimously to apply for membership in the United Community Services, the new organization which combines the work of the Community Chest and the Council of Social Agencies.

For a number of years the Junior League of Washington has worked closely with the old Council of Social Agencies, but the new organization now offers the opportunity of active participation.

The United Community Services will be a member of the Community Chest Federation, and the latter will handle fund-raising activities for the Greater Washington Area, as it has in the past.

Colonial Dames to Give Benefit Show

The Alexandria, (Va.), Committee, Colonial Dames of America, will give a benefit card party and style show in historic Gadsbys' Tavern on Wednesday, June 9, at 2 p. m. Funds raised will go toward the bicentennial project, the restoring of the Ramsay House, which is the oldest house in Alexandria. The bicentennial of the founding of Alexandria will be celebrated in 1949.

Mrs. Beaudric L. Howell is general chairman for the party and the members of her committee include Mrs. Gardner Boothe, Mrs. John T. Ashton, Mrs. Robert Reese, Mrs. Rathbone Smith, Mrs. Malcolm Matheson, Mrs. Uher Briggs, Mrs. William Boothe, Mrs. Robert Graham, Mrs. Joseph Crockett, Mrs. John Ingles Palmer, Mrs. Thomas B. In Bridal Procession

MRS. H. WAYNE PETERSON
. . . Niagara Falls honeymoon

Sherwood Presbyterian Church was the scene Monday, May 24, of the marriage of Miss Donnalee B. Keesling and H. Wayne Peterson. The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Keesling and Mr. Peterson is son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Peterson.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Richard M. Mussen, assisted by the Rev. Wallace E. Easter of Niagara Falls, N. Y. A reception followed in the church hall.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of satin brocade and a fingertip length veil. Her bouquet was a cluster of roses centered with an orchid.

Mrs. Wallace E. Easter was matron of honor for her sister and wore blue taffeta. She carried a nosegay of carnations, daisies and rosebuds. John Lehman was best man and ushering were Harold C. Keesling, jr., Hugh C. and Max B. Keesling and Robert Peterson.

Lacey—Glass

Miss Constance Glass and Kenneth King Lacey were married May 22 at 4 o'clock in the Chevy Chase Methodist Church, the Rev. Floyd Duncan of Richmond, Va., officiating. Mrs. Lacey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Rinard Glass of Bethesda, Md., and her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hale Lacey of Johnson City, Tenn.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a gown of aquamarine crepe with matching accessories and carried an old-fashioned bouquet of sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Erma Hughes attended as maid of honor, dressed in moonglow crepe and carrying a colonial bouquet.

Stanley Lacey acted as best man for his brother and Dick Bashor and William Russell were ushers.

Mrs. Lacey was graduated from Woodrow Wilson High School and Ohio University. At the University she was a member of the Zeta Tau Alpha Sorority. Mr. Lacey served with the U. S. Marines in the Pacific during the war, and he now attends George Washington University.

Jones—Fortune

Miss Evelyn Fortune and Craig Jones, jr., were married May 21 in the rectory of St. Stephen's Catholic Church at 10:30 a. m. A reception followed at the Roger Smith Hotel. Members of the two families and intimate friends attended.

W. A. Fortune of Boston, Mass., gave his daughter in marriage. She was costumed in a white silk dress and a white hat, and she carried a nosegay of yellow rose buds and forget-me-nots.

Miss Rita Cloutier was maid of honor and Herbert White, brother-in-law of the bridegroom was best man.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Everitt C. Jones of Smithfield, N. C.

Art Exhibition to Be Held Saturday

Eben F. Comins has sent out invitations for an exhibition of his latest portraits to be held at his Connecticut ave. studio on Saturday from 4 to 7.

Among the portraits to be shown are those of his Royal Highness, Prince Faisal of Saudi Arabia; the late Dr. Leo S. Rowe, Director General of the Pan American Union; Capt. and Mrs. Charles H. Maddox, Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner and Thomas B. Stanley.

Mrs. John M. Biddle, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman and Mrs. Stanley Reed are among those who will assist the artist that afternoon. Others will be Miss Jessie Benton Fremont, Mrs. Robert Guggenheim, Mrs. Charles H. Maddox, Mrs. D. Buchanan Merryman, Miss Bertha Noyes, Mrs. Samuel Reber

Mary Haworth's Mail

Expecting Second Child, Woman Asks Whether To Leave Her Husband Whom She Loves Dearly, But Who Is Frankly and Casually Unfaithful

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I have been married eight years and I love my husband very, very much. He says, and I believe him, that he loves me. We have one child whom we both love and we are expecting another soon.

However, for quite a while now Jeff has been having affairs with other women. It started during the war, which is surely excusable because of all the separations; but it is still going on.

He always tells me about the different girls, who they are, what they look like, etc., and that he has told them he loves me only. His need to tell me these things without my even asking keeps us very close, but still it hurts me to listen to these confidences, and often it is pretty hard not to start a scene or something.

Begins to Think He Won't Reform

I KEEP hoping he will stop all this because he loves me, rather than because he might fear my anger; but now I am afraid he will never stop and I know it's going to hurt me more and more as I grow older. I am just 30 now, and the future begins to look rather bleak.

I know how very unhappy I would be if I left him, and I also know how very sad a broken family is. But if I did leave, I would have my own respect and probably, in the long run, more peace of mind. Please tell me which you think is more important—my marriage or my self-respect. I am anxiously waiting your answer. E. P.

Man's Frankness Is Selfish, Too

DEAR E. P.: It would be hard to find a more contemptible character than Jeff. His casual promiscuous adultery is foul in itself, but he drops still lower in the scale of human decency when he brings home a fulsome report of each successive intrigue, identifying and describing each girl, too.

His "need" to confess himself thus is simply another manifestation of rampant selfishness. Firstly, he is bidding for evidence of wifely forgiveness, to assuage his guilt-sense, for he knows how bestial and inexcusable his profligacy is.

Secondly, he is throwing up a defense against the girls, he thinks, just in case one might "get serious" and try to cause him "trouble," and incidentally protect himself against unwanted divorce action from you, in hastily bringing each separate instance to your attention and having it piteously condoned by your jealous ardor. Because having condoned it by permitting marital intimacy after hearing the truth, you automaticaly forfeit grounds for divorce in that instance, of course.

Wife's Servility Damaging to Her

FINALLY, unconsciously and indirectly he is bragging, as if to say, "What a man am I." Although uneasily aware that as real men go, he is a rotter, judged on performance, he wishes to believe and seeks to impress you that he is a great catch of sorts; and that all else aside, you ought to feel complimented by and grateful for his desire to retain legalized domicile with you.

Marriage on his terms is a degrading alliance for you, incompatible with self respect or moral integrity. Indeed you sink to his corrupt level when you knowingly tolerate his misconduct and receive his lascivious confessions without protest. It is an axiom of psychology that "Emotion follows action," which means that by your servility in this respect, you progressively destroy your God-given faculty to distinguish between right and wrong.

These are my views; but it's for you to decide whether to leave or stay with Jeff. It depends on how much strength you've got. In any event, if he feels need to confess hereafter, tell him curtly to take his soiled soul to a pastor or psychiatrist. M. H.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of The Washington Post.

Colorful Fete To Benefit Child Crusade

Representatives of 28 foreign countries have taken boxes for the International Festival to be held tonight at 8:30 at Constitution Hall for the benefit of the Crusade for Children.

Among the most colorful dances will be the Pandango Sa Ilaw, part of the presentation of the Philippine Embassy, in which the dancers, Luz Laurel and Marciano Lectura, will carry colored glasses filled with flame.

In China's offering the bride wears a headdress of almost extinct kingfisher feathers and "Street Scene, July 14," which France will put on, will show gay flower girls, sailors and street vendors celebrating Bastille Day.

preferably black, and goes heavy on small, interesting accessories. Which is how she came by her mink umbrella.

Just before leaving New York this spring she stopped in to see what Esther Dorothy had to offer in the accessory line. And lo!, there was this little blue silk umbrella, which when closed fitted into a delectable silver blue mink case. Silvery strips of the fur twirled flirtatiously from each metal prong.

Miss Wells simply couldn't ignore it—and neither can anyone else. She says she is constantly being stopped by curious passerbys who want to know just what kind of gadget she is carrying.

Typical question: "Can you use it in the rain?" Answer: "No, of course not. It's just a mink case. When it rains you slip the covering off and wear it as neck piece and raise the silk umbrella like this—." Miss Wells usually has to demonstrate to prove she is telling the truth.

MOST WOMEN agree there is something about French perfume. No matter how pronounced our taste is for American made products we have to admit that the Parisians have a way with perfume.

Newest of these imported fragrances to be introduced in Washington is Magnificense, from the famous fashion house of Molyneaux in Paris.

Capt. Edward Molyneaux has been creating perfumes and clothes for discriminating women for a good many years. On this side of the Atlantic he is perhaps best known for the officer's cap which he designed for the Waves, an item that was the envy of women —in other branches of the service.

Magnificense is a blend of flower essences, the result of nine years of careful research before and after the war at the Molyneaux perfume laboratories. It recently reached this country and is now available at both Garfinckel's and Woodward & Lothrop's.

The price is surprising. You can buy a pocket-size bottle, tiny but precious for $10. And, of course, if you want to indulge in the prewar fancy for huge bottles of perfumes, it is there for the buying in a $65 size.

Ask Anne

layers of blankets or a crib mattress on top of this so that you have a level space the size of the entire area back of the front seat. On this platform you can arrange a small hard pillow or hassock at one side for the 3-year-old to sit on. This will raise her so that she can see out of the window comfortably. The bed for the baby can be made on the other side.

Most tourist cabins have space to put the car at the door of the cabin. If this is the case, the baby could sleep right in the car. He will be free from drafts, you can easily hear him cry and you will have no worry that he will fall off an improvised crib. Take along two squares of mosquito netting to cover opened car windows at night. This can be pinned securely with safety pins to the fabric lining on the inside of the car. Many times with such an arrangement, the baby would be actually closer to you than if he were in his crib at home. While he takes his daytime naps in the car, the 3-year-old would probably enjoy sitting on her hassock in the front seat with you.

If your baby's formula is mixed with water, it would save having to give him different water each day, if you would take with you enough boiled water for mixing his formula until you reach the first long stop. You can further simplify the formula-mixing on the trip by combining the water, syrup or dextro maltose in the exact proportion it is used in the formula. To do this, boil the water with sweetening in it to sterilize and then pour while boiling into sterilized fruit jars and seal. If possible, plan so that only one jar a day needs to be opened. When you are ready to make the formula, measure out amount of water needed, add canned milk and place into the freshly sterilized bottles. Sterilize bottles each night in cabin. You will make up a whole day's supply of formula only if you have means of refrigerating it on the way. If you do not, buy your milk in small cans, opening a can for each feeding. To do this, pour sterilized water which contains sweetening into sterilized bottle (figure out in advance just how many ounces of water are in each bottle of formula and measure by the ounce measure on bottle). Add the canned milk directly from the can to the sterilized water in the bottle. There probably will be milk left over each time, but this is a small price to pay to keep baby healthy. This may sound complicated as you read it, but once figured out, it can be done very simply. A large thermos bottle with a large opening can be filled with boiling water in the morning to heat the baby's bottles all day —just drop the bottle into the thermos, close and remove when warm.

Upon taking a pink sharkskin suit out of storage for spring wear, I discovered two brown spots on the skirt. The suit was cleaned last fall, but I didn't inspect it before putting it away and have no idea what the spots are. Is it possible to remove them? A. F. M.

Since this is a suit you usually have dry cleaned, I'd suggest taking it to the most expert cleaner you know, pointing out the spots to him, and asking him to try to remove them. Experienced cleaners are familiar with many types of stains and yours may be able to tell what made these spots and know how to take them out.

IT'S always nice to start the day out with a plug for someone, and today we'd like to come out smiling with a downright rave. . . Not long ago we received an envelope with the background and picture of Rosiland Courtwright, who was scheduled to appear in the Mayflower Lounge. . . Her name meant nothing as nearly as we could remember, but we went into the lounge on opening night to catch her act. The lights dimmed and an attractive, auburn-haired young woman came out on the stage. She made a preliminary talk before going into her song and handled the situation with so much aplomb that the audience was all with her. Rosiland sang a parody on an upper-crust theater where one could shoot oneself in the hunting room if the stocks one bought in the miniature stock exchange went down. Of course, there were a number of other comforts in the spot. Rosiland's definition of the upper crust, which she gave before her song, is, "A bunch of crumbs stuck together with a lot of crust."

Rosiland Courtwright

Surprise of the year came after a discussion at our table as to how long she'd been in show business. During a chin-chin after the show Rosiland claimed that she's a mere baby in the business, having done her first show last January 9. If she can do that well in five months Hildegarde had better start worrying. She's our entertainment best bet of the week.

THE Casino Royal made the right move by holding over the Manhattan models. The gals are still the best looking chorus girls in town. Peggy Palmer, a cute Spanish-Irish raised in Paris tapster, does a series of dances that'll keep you interested. The Albertas (haven't they been in town before?) do a satire on the suave ballroom dance teams.

Satire seems to be the thing this week with Professor Fabian in the Lotus making fun of all the serious magicians and their stunts. For a study in rhythm and well rehearsed numbers the Robert Taynton troupe is fun to watch, especially their bolero routine. They've had to drag themselves up by the bootstraps and should do well. Rosanne turns out to be a very interesting looking girl with an acrobatic dance to make your bones ache watching.

Hal Thornton wound up a lengthy stay in the Merry-Land Club and has been replaced by Shirley Allen with her piano and songs. Of course the Ko-Ko-Nuts will be there, too.

The terrace at Quonset Inn opened last night with Sammy Ferro furnishing the music. Indoors the entertainment will be furnished by a New York quartet called the Nocturnes and Lee Carroll singing at the piano.

File for future. The Roger Smith Roof opens June 11 with Sammy Seymour piloting the baton.

One on the Aisle—

Gable Picture's Been Maligned

By Richard L. Coe

THE HIGH-PRESSURE syndicated writers have, it seems to me, been pretty unkind about "Homecoming," which opened yesterday at the Palace. Clark Gable and Lana Turner are the stars of this story of a Medical Corps doc and his nurse which strikes me as being a reasonably sincere and capably acted picture.

"Homecoming" has been criticized for using the war as a background for shots of Gable and Lana carrying on a pristine romance and calling each other "Useless" and "Snapshot." Yet the same writers have been loud in their praise of many European films wherein the principal figures have the same background for their relationships.

Furthermore, it is something downright amazing for a film from the vastly conservative Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios to even toy with the notion that all is not as it should be at home. Metro is frequently attacked for picturing an untroubled United States, and while the surface perfections are treated to Metro's customary glowing sheen, there is at least a hint here that we have much to do at home. Granted that it's rather fuzzy and general in tone, the fact remains that here is Metro making a few points that would quite shatter Representative Thomas had they come from some of Dore Schary's writers.

Paul Osborn's screen play (from a story by Sidney Kingsley) tells of a rich surgeon, played by Gable, whose prewar life was concerned with toadying to the wealthiest patients and leading a lovey-dovey home life with his wife, Anne Baxter. When he goes off to war, they agree they'll remain unchanged for each other.

"HOMECOMING." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer release. Produced by Sidney Franklin in association with Gottfried Reinhardt. Screen play by Paul Osborn, from a story by Sidney Kingsley, adapted by Jan Lustig. Music by Bronislau Kaper. Photography by Harold Rosson. Directed by Mervyn LeRoy. At the Palace.

The doctor's nurse turns out to be a pretty girl—Lana—with a mind of her own. She's democracy-conscious; her husband was killed fighting in China in '36 and she has left her young son to do her professional bit overseas. Her unselfish streak angers the greedy boss; she remains a lieutenant, while he jumps from major to colonel. But during the trek from Africa to Germany he grows to realize he didn't do all he should have done for the malarial conditions of his town. While a consciousness of love draws the two together, all is above reproach, whether through the mores of our day or the strictures of the Johnston office, it doesn't much matter which.

But what Osborn has tried to show is the effect of the war and the meeting of new people on a man who previously had insulated himself against the unfortunate. That the pivotal characters are played by such sensationally high-powered stars as Gable and Miss Turner is simply one of the Hollywood facts of life. Though the advertising blurbs, true to form, accent the "steam" and "sizzle," the performances are sincere and restrained. Miss Turner is particularly a surprise. Though I've never considered her an actress, she certainly gives a worthwhile performance as the lonely, determined widow.

The scenes of the Medical Corps in the field are respectful and far less phony than one has been led to believe from early reports. While the Turner coiffeur gleams, I'm inclined to think it's less a Hollywoodism than a reflection of some pretty fine girls who served so long and admirably with our medics overseas. Certainly there were some good-looking Army nurses and, besides, Lana behaves as one of the boys at the chow table, dumping her garbage in the can with the best of them.

Never thought I'd get around to playing Sir Galahad to mighty Metro, but in the case of "Homecoming," a little respect for a sincere idea is its due.

No Craning of Necks Tonight As Queen Helen Opens Olney

With Helen Hayes as the season's first star, the Olney Theater tonight opens its summer season of 15 weeks with "Alice-Sit-by-the-Fire."

The newly renovated theater will be ready for the 8:45 curtain, vow Coproducers Richard Skinner, Redge Allen and Evelyn Freyman. The orchestra floor has been raked for perfect vision from all the 596 seats and the stage has become the largest of any of America's summer theaters, stretching 122 feet from one side wall to another to allow for ease in staging multiple set plays.

How to Get Olney Theater

Appearing with Miss Hayes is her daughter, Mary MacArthur, whose father is the playwright Charles, now editor of Theater Arts Monthly. Miss Hayes' leading man will be John Williams, who played opposite her in the play when the mother-daughter combination acted it first, two seasons ago.

Miss Hayes will have a longer run than most of the Olney visitors, playing through Sunday night, June 6, with matinees Saturdays and Sundays but no performances on Monday, May 31. Immediately after her Olney visit, the beloved star will sail for London, where she is to make her British stage bow in "The Glass Menagerie."

Noted theater names dot the supporting cast. Donald Murphy, one of Broadway's most likable young men, will have the juvenile lead, and Elizabeth Ross, who made her first stage appearances with Catholic University's speech and drama department, has an important role. Elfrida Derwent, sister of Equity President Clarence Derwent and a prominent player in her own right; Oswald Marshall, Virginia Low, Gwen Emerson and Charles Nevil complete Miss Hayes' company.

James M. Barrie's play has been directed by Jerome Coay with settings by S. Syrjala and costumes by Lucinda Ballard.

Coming attractions on the Olney schedule include Mady Christians in "Papa Is All," the week of June 8, when the regular Tuesday opening night schedule will be inaugurated; Haila Stoddard and Ralph Clanton in "Amphytryon '38," the week of June 15, and Lillian Gish in Noel Coward's comedy, "The Marquise," the following week.

Olney's downtown box office is at Ballard's music shop, 1300 G st. Here's a map of how to get to Olney:

College Fund Drive Is Given $7000 Start

A total of $7000 toward a local $40,000 goal yesterday was reported, as the United Negro College Fund campaign got under way.

The $7000 advance contributions were announced by John L. Burling, Department of Justice attorney and cochairman of the drive.

The Greater Washington campaign is part of a national $1,400,000 appeal for benefit of 32 of the Nation's 36 private Negro colleges.

Burling said one $1000 contribution had been made by Eugene Kramer, secretary of District Theaters, Inc.

The local campaign started Wednesday night at a mass meeting of campaign workers at Howard University.

League Opposes Arlington Zone Plan Provision

The Arlington County Better Government League this week voiced its opposition to the adoption of a proposed master zoning plan for the county that would allow apartment house construction in detached home areas.

Harley Williams, publicity representative of the league, said the group would send a delegate to the Arlington County Zoning Board's hearing on the plan June 3, at the County Court House.

The league wants more public hearings on the plan. The organization also wants suggestions from the public incorporated into the plan before its adoption.

Bombed Veteran Stabs Wife, Self

Shelby, N. C., May 27 (U.P.)—An Army veteran who was wounded in Normandy and lay helpless while his hospital was bombed went berserk and stabbed his wife and himself when he saw a similar scene in a movie, police said today.

Arthur Bumgarner, 26, was charged with assault

FOR THE ULTRA-DISCRIMINATING MOVIE-GOER!
We find that there are many thousands of persons who seldom or never go to the motion pictures who are nevertheless eager to encourage and support the exceptional film.
It remained for the critics to convince these occasional patrons that "The Search" is one picture to see
They are coming by the houseful and they seem to agree with Jay Carmody in the Star that "The Search" is "A miracle of excellence!"

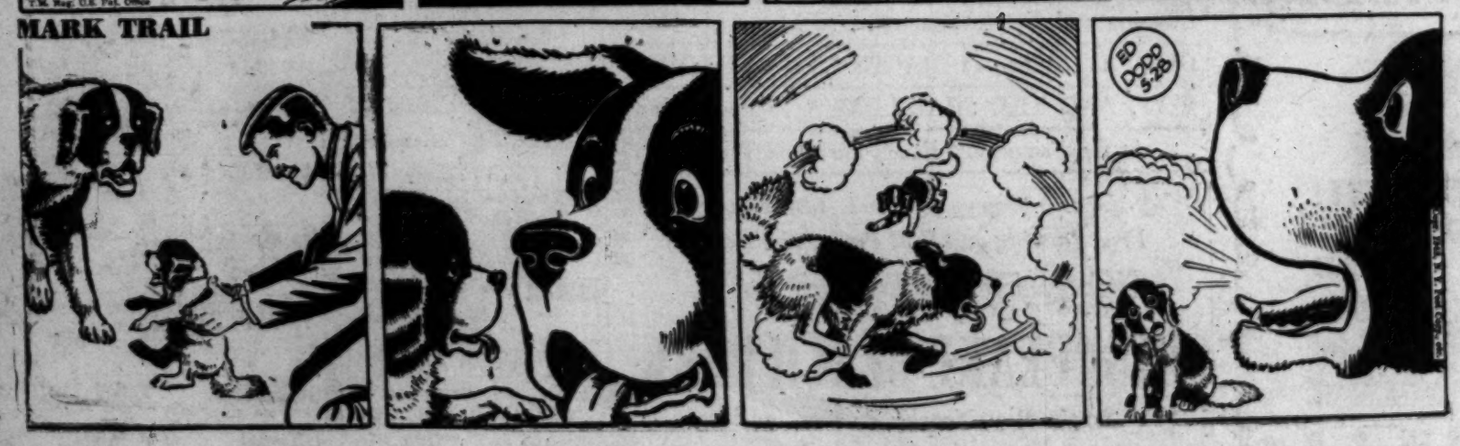
MARK TRAIL



THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Is Mr. Truman Worried About November?

Best political wisecrack of the week followed close on the heels of the publication of a picture showing James Caesar Petrillo playing host to President Truman.

"The President is getting in solid with Petrillo," chortle the Republicans, "because he figures that after November he may need a card in the Musicians' Union."

RUSSIAN NOTES

To help District Liners understand the basic differences which currently stand between Americans and Russians, let me tell you the story of Ivan Popov, the Soviet musician.

In Moscow, Ivan is acclaimed for his mastery of the bass violin. When he came to America recently, he immediately bought tickets to a symphony concert, to watch his decadent democratic colleagues in action.

After the concert, he went back stage, and expressed great surprise at the sweatshop practices he had just witnessed.

"In Russia," he exclaimed, "it takes four men to play a bass violin. We make four times as much employment for musicians."

"But how?" asked the Americans, their faith in Petrillo somewhat shaken.

"Very simple," explained Ivan. "One man holds the instrument, another does the fingering, and a third draws the bow."

"But what does the fourth man do?" inquired the Yankee imperialists.

"What does the fourth man do?" echoed Ivan. "Is it not necessary to have somebody read the notes?"

NOW IT'S LEGAL

"After the terrible Winecoff Hotel fire in Atlanta," writes W. M. O'C., "the District's city fathers examined our local fire egress laws, and found them inadequate.

"New laws were promptly adopted, but never enforced. Building owners complained that it would cost too much money to comply with these safety regulations.

"So now we're going to scrap the plan, and go back to our old laws, which legalize existing firetraps.

"If Washington should be the next city to suffer from a major fire, this move will no doubt be a great comfort to those who die in the holocaust.

"They'll leave this life secure in the knowledge that no laws were broken."

GIVE-AWAYS

"Collection of phonograph records and detective mysteries; will give to any worthwhile organization." (Randolph 5870).

"Three male kittens, about 3 months old." (Olympic 8967).

MISCELLANY

Here's a girl with an unusual hobby: Donna Lou Carroll of 121 W. Woodbine st., Chevy Chase, Md., collects playing cards, belongs to a club which trades cards and has sent cards to fellow collectors all over the country—most of them shutins . . . Sylvia Hanks of 1801 I st. nw. says she's heard that a local woman runs a "Toy of the Month" club which distributes toys on a subscription basis. But Nancy doesn't know who the woman is, and wants some help in locating her. Anybody know? . . . WTOP'S Jerry (Date With Jerry) Carter is supposed to have one of those romantic voices that "send" the females. The studio recently delivered 50 tickets for a Carter broadcast to the Club Teen, and made preparations for a visit from 50 bobby-soxers. Imagine their surprise when the Club Teen contingent turned out to be composed of 49 boys and 1 girl . . . Busiest man in town during the high water season is George Hulme of 49 John Roberts Homes, Alexandria, Va. George operates the drawbridge on the Highway Bridge, and the higher the water is the more often he has to open 'er up for passing vessels . . . John G. Wilcox of Arlington, Va., voices a plea for more efficient use of available parking spaces. His pet peeve is the guy who ruins two spaces by selfishly coming to rest in the middle of both . . . My pet parking peeve is the guy who owns a limousine that's so long it doesn't fit in a nickel's worth of space.

THE REAL NEED

I see they're trying to stabilize the District's liquor prices.

Right offhand, I'd say there is much greater need for the stabilization of the product's consumers.

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK.—At the cocktail party given Monday by Rasponi-Chapman for the King and Queen of Yugoslavia, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, sr., heard a man ordering a certain soft drink. Mrs. Vanderbilt told him: "I drink it every night before going to bed, because it soothes me and helps my sleep" . . . "The manufacturer would pay you a lot of money if you wrote such an indorsement," the man suggested . . . "Mrs. Whitehead once offered me $100,000, if I'd pose for a picture, holding that drink in my hand," said Mrs. Vanderbilt. "I turned it down. Mrs. Whitehead understood. She knew I hate to pose."

At this cocktail party—where King Peter discussed subjects varying from his reception in Washington to Artie Shaw's inability to hold a wife—Lillian Gish noticed a young man who seemed unusually pensive. "I'm trying to think of places to go tonight," he told her, "where people would be likely to ask me if I knew any Yugoslavs. Because as of tonight, I could truthfully answer: 'I know only two—the King and the Queen.'"

COMPETITION: Joel McCrea reports that when he went to Santa Fe, N. Mex., for the premiere of "Four Faces West," he saw an Indian selling trinkets in the lobby of La Fonda Hotel and asked him: "How's business?" . . . "Terrible," the redskin complained. "We're suffering from technological unemployment. The 5 and 10 is putting out these things in carload lots and underselling us. Our war council may declare war on the tribes of Passaic, N. J., where this stuff is manufactured."

Big Money Aids Liberal Stassen

By Drew Pearson

One thing that set Harold Stassen back in Oregon was the impression that he was trying to be all things to all men. You can get away with this for awhile, but eventually it catches up with you.

Pearson

For instance, during the Senate debate on the Taft-Hartley Act, Stassen opposed the bill, much to the embarrassment of Senator Joe Ball of Minnesota, who had been appointed to the Senate by Stassen.

But more recently, Stassen has gone into reverse and is telling the electorate what a fine thing the Taft-Hartley Act is.

Real fact is that up until recently Stassen has carved out quite a name for himself as a liberal, though at the same time gathering in campaign contributions from meatpackers, grain operators and some of the biggest businessmen of the Northwest, to say nothing of his friends in U. S. Steel.

Note—When called upon to take a stand on military training, Stassen said in effect that he favored "something a little less than compulsory and a little more than voluntary."

A Tip to U. S. Steel

Rumors are current both in Wall Street and labor circles that the big boys of industry got together for another "Waldorf Conference" and decided not to give labor another round of wage increases beyond the 9-11 cent boost handed out to the meatpackers and General Motors.

If so, the industrial leaders might well put their heads together and exert some statesmanship regarding their labor relations generally, especially their tendency to penalize nonstriking unions.

Last June, for instance, Ben Fairless, head of U. S. Steel, together with the Mellon and Hanna coal interests, gave John L. Lewis the biggest wage-pension bonanza in history. It put the coal miners at the top of the wage ladder, thereby causing jealousy among railroad men—hitherto the aristocrats of labor—and the steelworkers, led by Lewis' old rival, Phil Murray.

Later, when it came to the railroad brotherhoods' turn for an increase, they got only 15 cents an hour. Most of them accepted this award. Three unions called a strike. Behind that strike call, in part, was the previous large wage hike handed out by Fairless, the Mellons and the Hannas to John L. Lewis.

Fairless Vs. Fairless

The same Ben Fairless who had given Lewis his wage increase plus pension, turned round and gave Murray nothing. Fairless claimed the cost of living had not gone up recently, reminded Murray that the steelworkers' contract had another year to run.

Thus the steel workers did not even get the 15-cent wage boost won by the railroad brotherhoods. However, they accepted this with good grace, stuck by their contract, continued working.

Actually, it was not Ben Fairless who made the decision to turn down the steelworkers. It was Enders Voorhees, a tough New York Dutchman, who acts for J. P. Morgan as chairman of U. S. Steel's finance committee. Fairless has followed a fairly liberal policy with labor. But with the death of Tom Lamont, one of the liberal influences inside the Morgan firm, U. S. Steel's policies have veered reactionary.

Since Murray was turned down, however, the cost of living has turned up. Last month it shot up 1.6. Therefore, if U. S. Steel should use this as an excuse to offer voluntarily to put across the 9- to 11-cent wage boost agreed on by the big boys, it would have an electrifying effect on all labor.

Draft Act Delay

The peacetime draft bill is having increasingly rough sledding in Congress, but not because of peace propaganda sent out by Moscow.

Two gentlemen from Georgia are largely responsible for backstage delays in passing the draft.

In the Senate Armed Services Committee, Senator Dick Russell of Georgia, with considerable backing from Dixie Democrats, is fighting hard for his amendment segregating white and colored races in the armed services.

In the House another gentleman from Georgia, Representative Gene Cox, is out to kill the displaced persons bill. To that end he is making a deal with Representative Leo Allen, Illinois Republican and chairman of the Rules Committee, to kill both the draft and the bill admitting displaced persons into the USA.

Cox is a powerful figure inside the Rules Committee. And since he is as adamant against the displaced persons as Allen is against the draft, they will probably succeed in preventing both from reaching the House floor for debate.

New Horizons for the Family with Motorola Television

TELEVISION is so much more than the ball game Dad cheers from his easy chair! It's a stimulating education and diversion for every member of the family. Motorola television vitalizes current history for Junior. It's the answer to Sue's demands for nights-out-late. It whirls exciting events into everyday life . . . sparks your gatherings with absorbing topics. But isn't television still in an unsatisfactory "experiment" stage? Indeed not. Motorola television has superb FM (frequency modulation) sound . . . no static. It has "locked in" pictures for clear, sharp reproduction.

ISN'T television prohibitively expensive? Again, no! Compare the cost of a Motorola set with your yearly recreational expenses. Then consider that television is good for years of top-notch entertainment. Try the set of your choice in your home without charge or obligation. Then if you and your family decide, as so many have, that television opens new horizons, we'll arrange liberal budget terms. The cost of installation and service takes care of your down payment . . . the balance (cost of set) can be budgeted in monthly payments.
